2 Seized in Philadelphia as Police Spread Wide Net.

5 IN SERIOUS STATE, MANAGER MAY DIE

Attack Believed Holdup and Not Gang Plot, as Was First Supposed.

Two men are under arrest in Philadelphia, five young women and four men are being detained in Hyattsville, another man is under police guard at Casualty Hospital, and three persons have been arrested in Washinton in connection with a holdup early yesterday at the Colonial Tea House in Bladensburg, in which one man was killed and five persons seriously wounded.

The two men held in Philadelphia are Nicholas Tronco, 33 years old, and Cicero Renzelli, 29 years old. They were arrested when police traced a telephone call from Renzelli's home in the central part of the city to the tea room yesterday morning.

The men denied any connection with the case and said the call was made by a man they knew only as "Willie."

Patrons Lined Up.

Police, however, declared that the telephone was put through from the Renzelli residence to the tea room and some one asked about "Doggy" Leavitt, one of the men wounded in the shooting.

Renzelli and Tronco were identified, according to Philadelphia police, after their arrest in connection with the Bladensburg case, as two bandits who figured in a $1,000 holdup and robbery on November 5.

The dead man and the wounded were given small chance by the six bandits who entered the historic old place shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday morning. They went from room to room and herded the patrons into the kitchen, lining them up against the wall. There were fourteen men and five women to face the fusillade of bullets from revolvers and a shotgun a few moments later.

Woman Escapes Bullets.

The dead man was identified as Grover Amick, of 1116 Monroe street northwest, who went into the house, leaving his woman companion in a car outside. She is Anna Lechlider, of the Monroe street address, where Amick boarded.

The injured are Charles Levitt, known to Baltimore police as "Doggy," shot through the chest; Thomas Simone, of Baltimore, wounded in both legs; Mrs. Verne Edwards, of Washington, shot in the right hip; Norman Gerey, Baltimore, shot in left arm and back, and John J. Bartlett, of 1425 Twelfth street northwest, wounded in right knee. All are in a serious condition. Levitt may die.

Bartlett has two aliases, according to Baltimore police, who say that he is wanted in Columbia, Pa., for a liquor killing there. A warrant charging asshult with intent to kill has been issued by Judge Robert Altemus against Simone, who is being guarded by policemen at Casualty Hospital, where all the injured were taken. Some of the witnesses to the battle will probably be taken to the hospital today in an attempt to identify either Simone or Bartlett as members of the gang which did the shooting.

Three Cabmen Held.

In addition to others detained in the case, three taxi drivers were held for Maryland authorities at the Twelfth Precinct station. They are: Fred G. Princkert, 22 years old, of 1344 Rhode Island avenue northwest; Carl Frank Princkert, 26 years old, of 32 Sycamore avenue, Takoma Park, and John S. McComas, 22 years old, of 3547 S street northwest.

Carl Princkert told police he picked up two men early yesterday morning at Twentieth and U streets northwest. The men asked to be taken to the roadhouse and, because of the Capital Address Found On Man Who Killed Self

New York, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—A man about 55 years old, who gave his name as John Gay when he rented a furnished room in West Thirty-fourth street last Friday, committed suicide tonight by shooting.

In one of his pockets was found the card of a self-driving agency bearing the name "Farmarqual" and the address "1240 Pennsylvania avenue, Washington, D. C." He was 6 feet 1 inch tall and weighed about 200 pounds.

3 Planes Seek Flier Believed Lost in Storm

Oakland, Calif., Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Three planes tonight were reported searching for Herman Potter, of the United Air Lines, who left here Sunday night flying the eastbound mail.

He has been unheard from since he reported to Salt Lake City fifteen minutes after leaving there early today. Late weather reports from the spot where he is believed by Boeing officials to have been forced down said snow was falling and the temperature was 12 degrees above zero. Officials at the airport here feared Potter had crashed and either been frozen or seriously injured.

Curtis Decides

Vice President Charles Curtis will announce within the next few days that he is not a candidate for the United States Senate from Kansas. This means that if the Republican national convention should tender the nomination for the Vice Presidency to Mr. Curtis he will accept it.

The Vice President favors the renomination of Herbert Hoover for President. He is convinced that Mr. Hoover will be reelected by an extraordinary majority.

ROBINSON SAYS SLUMP, NOT DRY ISSUE, GRAVEST

Statement Is Held Reply to Raskob Rum Poll of 1928 Donors.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

The economic situation, not prohibition, is the paramount problem facing the Congress which meets two weeks from today, Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, Democratic leader of the Senate, said yesterday.

Senator Robinson's statement was regarded as a reply to the announcement Sunday night by Chairman John J. Raskob of the Democratic national committee that he is conducting a prohibition poll among the 90,000 contributors to Alfred E. Smith's campaign in 1928.

Chairman Raskob wants to know whether the contributors are in favor of having the next Democratic national convention take a definite stand on prohibition and to that end he has asked them to answer seven questions.

Poll Held Anti-Roosevelt.

Friends of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York saw in Chairman Raskob's poll another step to head off the governor's candidacy for the Democratic nomination for President.

That Raskob is opposed to Roosevelt is an open secret. He is said to regard Roosevelt as a "pussy-footer" on the prohibition issue.

Gov. Roosevelt is on record as favoring repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Since he became an aspirant for the Presidency, however, he has maintained a significant silence on prohibition.

As a result, Democrats in the dry South and the dry West have flocked to his banner, much to the disgust of Chairman Raskob.

Would Force Bold Stand.

Mr. Raskob's latest move therefore is viewed by the Roosevelt supporters as an attempt to compel the New York Governor to take a bold stand.

Senator Robinson, who precipitated what one of the delegates called a "riot" at a meeting of the national committee here last March when he denounced Raskob's so-called "home rule" liquor plan, issued his statement yesterday after conferring with other influential Democrats on Capitol Hill.

It follows:

"I am still of the opinion that the paramount subject to be considered by the Congress relates to economic questions, such as agriculture, taxes, unemployment, the deficit in the Treasury and other related vital problems.

"I do not wish to submerge or obscure these by pushing forward social problems such as that pertaining to prohibition.

"In view of the present membership of both houses of Congress, no substantial change respecting prohibition may be expected."

Those who know Chairman Raskob

Cruiser Pittsburgh To Pass From Navy

U. S. Asks Bids for Sale of Obsolete Warship in Service 26 Years.

(Associated Press.)

The Navy is going to sell the obsolete second-line cruiser U. S. S. Pittsburgh after a quarter of a century's service in the fleet.

Sealed bids will be opened at the Navy Department on December 17 for sale of the vessel as it stands. The announcement yesterday said either a cash basis or a deferred payment plan could be considered.

The Pittsburgh was taken to the Norfolk Navy Yard last June for decommissioning and later was used for high explosive tests on Tangier Sound. She was built by William Cramp & Sons, of Philadelphia, and was commissioned in 1905.

Carideo of Notre Dame Weds Mississippi Girl

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Frank Carideo, former University of Notre Dame football star, and Miss Vera Crawley, of Columbia, Miss., were married this afternoon. The ceremony was performed at the university by the Rev. Raymond C. Murch, C. S. C.

Carideo, a choice for All-America quarter back last season, was graduated from the university last spring. He has been back field coach at Purdue University, at Lafayette, Ind., this fall. He came to Notre Dame from Mount Vernon, N. Y.

HEARING BARES SUGAR PROFITS OF 2 SENATORS

Watson and Davis Made 'Paper Gains,' Senate Probers Are Told.

(Associated Press.)

The searchlight of senatorial inquiry was turned yesterday on the 1928 stock investment of two of the Senate's own members, Watson, of Indiana, and Davis, of Pennsylvania, disclosing evidence that both had made "paper profits" on sugar stock they purchased on credit.

At the time of the purchases, Davis still was Secretary of Labor in Coolidge's Cabinet and Watson was a candidate against Hoover for the Republican presidential nomination. The evidence did not show that either actually turned his paper profit into cash, both taking securities instead. It was testified that in 1929 the sugar interests from whom the stock was acquired became active in advocating a higher sugar tariff.

Watson, who is the Republican Senate leader, said in a statement last night:

"Early in 1928 I gave my note for some stock in one of Dahlberg's companies. The stock is of no account, or worth nothing, and neither is my note. Therefore the score is nothing to nothing in this game. This was purely a private business transaction and had no relation to legislation, past, present or future."

Given Before Committee.

The testimony was given before the Senate lobby committee, which had been called to investigate a report of a $100,000 payment to a senator by lobbyists for a sugar tariff boost.

A committee investigator, John Holland, said on the stand that he had found evidence Watson and Davis each was at one time about $3,000 to the good on paper on deals engineered by B. G. Dahlberg, president of a number of sugar companies. Holland also said he had been told by one of Dahlberg's associates of a conversation about sending $10,000 to Davis, but could find no record any such payment really was made.

The investigator further asserted that former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, and Senator Moses, of New Hompshire, were investors in Dahlberg's companies, but had paid cash for their purchases.

Only Two Members Present.

Only two members of the committee were present as Holland told of his long investigation into charges that a senator received $100,000 or more from a domestic sugar company.

Senator Walsh (Democrat), Montana, presided in the place of the late chairman, Senator Caraway, of Arkansas. Senator Blaine (Republican), of Wisconsin, sat beside him.

In brief the Davis transaction was described by Holland as follows:

Davis signed a note for $22,500 in April, 1928, for 250 preferred and 500 common shares of Southern Sugar Co. The note was made out to the Almar Corporation, one of Dahlberg's private companies and the stock was sent back as collateral.

When Dahlberg proposed this agreement with Davis he said, "This would be a special deal, however, and would be just 'atween us.'"

Profit of $8,437.

In September, 1929, Dahlberg notified Davis he could sell the stock for a profit, and with the Secretary's consent, canceled the note and sent 250 shares in Southern Sugar as profit. This, together with dividends he had received, made a paper profit of $8,437, but Davis did not convert it into cash, Holland said.

An officer of one of the companies told him, Holland said, that while Davis made a profit, "it was not ex-

Dill Says Far West Favors Roosevelt

Baker Is "Out of Picture," He Declares, Backing New York Aspirant.

Mansfield, Ohio, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—United States Senator C. C. Dill, of Washington, predicted today that 90 per cent of the delegates to the Democratic national convention from Washington and States of the Far West will support Gov. Franklin Roosevelt of New York for the nomination. Senator Dill is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Dill, of Fredericktown, Ohio, his birthplace.

The senator was outspoken in his preference for Gov. Ro sevelt. He claimed Newton D. Baker, Cleveland, former Secretary of War, is "out of the picture" in the Far West, claiming his weakness lay in his inability to dramatize himself.

Gov. Roosevelt, Senator Dill pointed out, has caught the public imagination. The senator announced he would use his influence in support of Gov. Roosevelt in Washington.

HARKER JURORS LOCKED UP FOR NIGHT IN HOTEL

Fail to Reach Verdict in 5 Hours Deliberation; Resume Today.

HUNG JURY POSSIBLE IN CASE OF 4 POLICE

Consider Prisoner's Criminal Record, Judge Says in His Charge.

Apparently hopelessly deadlocked, the "third degree" jury was sent to the Hotel Continental under guard of United States marshals last night after it had failed to reach a verdict in five hours of deliberation.

Justice James M. Proctor ordered the jurors locked up for the night when it became improbable that they would reach a decision. Deliberations will be resumed at 10 o'clock this morning.

It is possible that the trial of the four First Precinct policemen will end in a hung jury.

The policemen, James Mostyn, W. R. Laflin, W. T. Burroughs and W. C. Grooms, are being tried under an indictment charging that they assaulted James Henry Harker, a robbery suspect, with a dangerous weapon and with their hands in extorting a confession from him.

Before they took the case at 4:10 yesterday afternoon the twelve jurymen were given lengthy and detailed instructions by Justice Proctor to guide them in determining a verdict.

Dangerous Weapon.

The jury will have to decide, the Justice said, whether a rubber hose, alleged to have been used in beating Harker, is within the legal definition of a dangerous weapon.

In event the jury finds Mostyn guilty of striking Harker with the hose, as charged, it will have to determine if any or all of the defendants aided, abetted, assisted, or were in agreement over the alleged assault.

The justice also instructed the body to consider Harker's criminal record and any possible motive he might have had in testifying as he did, inasmuch as those facts would affect the truth of his testimony.

The jury should only consider the evidence which pointed to the fact that the complainant might have robbed the lunchroom, for which police held him, in the effect that it might motivate his testimony against the officers.

Ten Years Maximum.

The maximum penalty for assault with a dangerous weapon is ten years in the penitentiary. The greatest sentence for the second count of the indictment, simple assault, is one year in jail and a fine of $500.

Prosecutor Leo A. Rover excoriated the police in his argument and final rebuttal to the jury.

"There can be no question of the right of police to attempt to gain admissions of guilt in attempts to solve crimes, provided the effort is made in a fair and legitimate manner," the district attorney stated.

"But it is unfair, cruel, illegitimate and unlawful to coerce by force and extort a confession by physical violence," Rover stated.

Alleged Discrepancies.

Alleged various discrepancies in the Government's case were pointed out by Defense Attorney James O'Shea as he began the defense argument to the jury.

Harker's confession was a voluntary one, given after the officers had pinned him in a series of falsehoods when they quizzed him on August 22, O'Shea said.

It was argued that the defense testimony had disproved Harker's statement that Capt. W. E. Holmes had visited him in his cell and said, "You had better come clean or we will have to use force."

"Do you believe the story of this self-confessed Harker, or do you be-

RAINEY LOOMS AS CHOICE FOR HOUSE LEADER

M'DUFFIE QUITS RACE FOR PARTY HARMONY

Other Southerners May Yield to Balance Power With Garner as Speaker.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

Representative Henry T. Rainey, white-haired veteran from Illinois, who was hooted down in the middle of a sentence assailing the Fordney-McCumber tariff law in the closing minutes of the Sixty-ninth Congress by victorious Republicans, yesterday announced that enough votes had been pledged to make him the majority leader of the new Congress.

Of the total of 217 or more Democratic votes in the next House, Representative Rainey said, 133 have been pledged to vote to make him the floor leader of his party in the Congress which will convene on December 7.

If Mr. Rainey is elected floor leader he will succeed Representative John N. Garner, of Texas, who has been the Democratic leader, but who is the party candidate for Speaker, a post to which he apparently will be elected. But even before the reign of Mr. Garner as Democratic floor leader, Mr. Rainey was a power and sat at the right hand of Representative Kitchin, sonorous solon from North Carolina, who was majority leader of the Democrats in the days when Woodrow Wilson sat in the White House.

Beaten, But Returned.

Unique because he had carved a Democratic seat out of a part of Illinois which otherwise sent only Republicans to the House, Representative Rainey was defeated in the Republican deluge which repudiated the Democratic party at the end of the Wilson administration. He ran far ahead of his ticket, though not far enough, but promised that in the next election he would return to the House. He did, but from his place as second ranking Democratic member of the powerful ways and means committee, Mr. Rainey went to the bottom of the list when reelected to the Sixty-eighth Congress. He has been reelected to each succeeding Congress.

Now, 73 years old, a veteran of years of service in Congress since he was elected to the fifty-eighth Congress, he may be named the leader of his party in the forum where he has battled through the years with such a brief interim.

The announcement that he had received pledge of 133 votes to name him as floor leader of his party in the incoming Congress was the first statement of strength Representative Rainey has made in the course of the last several weeks during which his name has been mentioned as a likely choice of Northern and Western Democrats who felt that, with a Texan in the Speaker's chair, recognition should be given to the Democrats outside the historically Democratic South.

McDuffie Acts for Harmony.

Representative John McDuffie, another veteran of the House, but hailing from Alabama, gave strength to the Rainey boom by announcing his withdrawal from the race for party leadership. Mr. McDuffie had been one of those most prominently mentioned for the post and his withdrawal was construed by observers as indicating a collapse of any move to name a Southerner and willingness of Southern Democrats to give the post to the North. He withdrew, Mr. McDuffie said, because he didn't want sectionalism to enter into the question.

Representative Charles R. Crisp, of Georgia, and Representative W. A. Ayres, of Kansas, have been advanced by various members of their party for the post. Representative

AMERICA AND BRITAIN MAY MOVE JOINTLY IN CHINA'S INQUIRY PLAN

China Refuses Inquiry Unless Japanese Go

League Forced Into Crisis Over Efforts for Peace; Japan Firm in Refusing to Make Concessions Over Withdrawal.

Paris, Nov. 23 (U.P.)—China abruptly forced the League of Nations into a crisis tonight over negotiations for peace in Manchuria. Dr. Alfred Sze, the usually calm and restrained Chinese delegate, sent a memorandum to the council declaring it was useless to continue drafting a resolutnon for a commission of inquiry to China unless Japan was forced to agree to evacuate troops from Manchuria.

China also was understood to have suggested informally that it would defray the cost of sending neutral troops under League of Nations control to Manchuria to guarantee security of Japanese lives and property during the withdrawal.

While China was informing the council that she could not accept the commission plan unless Japanese troops are withdrawn, the Japanese delegation was reiterating that it could not consent to any terms for evacuation.

Kenkichi Yoshizawa, Japanese delegate, informed the League secretariat that Japan remained adamant in refusing to make concessions on the evacuation issue. Japan also has been asking the council to define anti-Japanese boycotts in China as "aggression," but the League leaders have declined.

It was said the deadlock might force China to invoke Article 10 of the League covenant, calling on all member nations to support her integrity, but that the drastic sanctions in Article 16 would not be invoked except as a last resort.

Previously, it had been reported without confirmation, that China favored the sending of American, British and French soldiers to the battle zone to assure peace while Japanese withdrew. The present suggestion, however, was said to provide merely for sending of neutral troops now in the Far East.

'REAL WAR' THREAT COMES FROM TOKYO

Peiping Hears Japanese Are Moving on Chinchow to Crush Enemies.

The United States and Great Britain exchanged views yesterday over the prospective creation of the commission of inquiry into the Manchurian conflict between China and Japan. The two countries may take common action in the choice of members and in the scope of the proposed program.

Threat of "real war" in Manchuria in event President Chiang Kai-Shek of China combine his forces with the Manchurian troops of Chang Hsueh-Liang, as indicated in reports, came from Tokyo today.

A Peiping dispatch to the London Daily Mail said Japanese troops in Manchuria are moving southward toward Chinchow with a view to crushing all military and political forces hostile to Japan.

The chairman of the League Council, M. Aristide Briand, had prepared another tentative proposal for a commission which was rejected by the other countries until it was first presented for Chinese and Japanese approval. Dr. Alfred Sze, the Chinese delegate, asserted it was useless to continue drafting resolutions unless Japan is forced to agree to troop evacuation.

Japan Denies Breaking Pacts.

The Tokyo government instructed its Washington ambassador to reassure the United States that Japan had not violated the nine-power treaty, the Briand-Kellogg pact or the covenant of the League of Nations.

The ambassador had informed Tokyo the United States was evidencing concern about Japanese military activity in the Taitsihar region.

Gen. Mah Chan-Shan, Chinese commander, who was driven out of Taitsihar, turned up at Hailun. He was reported still to have 15,000 troops.

Dr. Vi-Kyuin Wellington Koo, who holds an honorary degree of doctor of laws from Yale University, became China's foreign minister. He declared his government would not approve any suggestion for Manchurian peace that did not provide for early evacuation of Japanese troops.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Formation of an Anglo-American understanding to facilitate the appointment of an impartial commission of inquiry into the conditions in war-torn Manchuria was seen here last night as a possible result of the visit of the British Ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, to Secretary of State Stimson.

The present stalemate in the negotiations between Chinese and Japanese representative and the league council, now meeting in emergency session in Paris, has emphasized the necessity of some further peace making moves lest military operations be again initiated in Manchuria.

Sir Ronald remained with Secretary Stimson for almost a half hour and immediately after his visit, the Secretary summoned Undersecretary William R. Castle, jr. A closed conference between the two State Department executives followed, lasting all afternoon.

London's Thesis Explained.

The British Ambassador was known to have explained to the Secretary the thesis of the British government with regard to the negotiations now going on in Paris. The British foreign minister, Sir John Simon, has returned to London for the week-end, and while he was at the foreign office he consulted with the experts there. The British Ambassador did not discuss either the Kellogg-Briand pact nor the nine-power pact. It was also denied at the British Embassy here yesterday that the conversations had revolved around the covenant of the League of Nations with which American Ambassador Charles G. Dawes is in opposition.

In the conversations that have been in progress in Paris, Sir John Simon, the British delegate to the league council, and Ambassador Dawes have frequently found themselves on common ground. Sir Ronald Lindsay in

RUM RAIDS NET SHIP AND RECORD STILLS

Cargo of 6,000 Cases and 60 Men Taken at Pier in New York City.

New York, Nov. 23 (U.P.).—Timing their attack with the last minute heavy movement of liquor for Thanksgiving Day, Federal agents today captured a $1,000,000 liquor ship as it was being unloaded at a Brooklyn Pier and seized a New Jersey distilling plant which they described as the largest ever taken in the United States.

Seizure of the ship, the oil tanker Raritan Sun, ranks as one of the major captures in the history of prohibition.

More than 50 agents descended upon the craft, captured it after firing a round of shots in the air, seized five new motor trucks, 6,000 cases of high-grade liquors, an automatic conveyor for unloading, and arrested 60 seamen, truck drivers and armed guards.

The Raritan Sun is listed as the property of the Sun Oil Co. and ostensibly has been engaged in transporting oil from Philadelphia to New York. Between such legitimate trips, however, she would head out to sea, meet a rum runner, take on a load of liquor and carry it to the Brooklyn pier, the agents said.

Weeks of detective work preceded the capture. The Raritan Sun was trailed constantly and the Government went so far as to enlist one of its agents as a member of the tanker's crew.

They closed in on it this morning, by land and sea, while the sacks of liquor were being taken from the ship and loaded in trucks. A dozen or more gangsters, all armed, sat around as guards, the agents said, mainly for the purpose of keeping off hijackers.

Officials of the Sun Oil Co. admitted ownership of the vessel but disclaimed any knowledge of its rumrunning operations. Other than to say that "some one is going to have a lot of explaining to do," they would not comment on the seizure.

In the distillery raid at Newark agents captured two stills, each of 50,000-gallon capacity, and 14 large mash tanks. They also seized a quantity of alcohol but no arrests were made. An elaborate alarm system permitted the operators to escape.

Federal investigators worked several weeks before they discovered the

10 STATES APPROVE HALF CUT IN COTTON

North Carolina Only One Not Voting at Conference on Uniform Plan.

Jackson, Miss., Nov. 23 (A.P.).—The South-wide Uniform Cotton Control Conference late today adopted the Texas curtailment plan, calling for 50 per cent reduction in planting in 1932 and 1933, as its recommendation for relief legislation in all the Southern States.

Ten of the eleven cotton producing States represented here cast their votes for the Texas plan to boost prices in face of this year's bumper crop. North Carolina's delegation, instructed not to vote, abstained from the ballot.

The resolution adopted by the conferees, seeking uniform legislation throughout the South, was recommended by a special committee composed of two representatives from each State, which wrestled for hours behind closed doors on the best plan for all the Legislatures to adopt.

The lead of the Texas Legislature in enacting an acreage curtailment has already been followed by South Carolina, Arkansas and Mississippi. Governors of all States where the plan has not been invoked were urged by the conference to convene their Legislatures immediately to enact the uniform law.

Louisiana has enacted a cotton holiday measure which will probably have to be substituted by the proposed acreage reduction plan.

Family of 5 Dies From Gas in Home

Professor, Wife and Their 3 Children Believed Dead Since Friday.

Boston, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—The entire family of William F. Goodale, Boston Latin school teacher, which included himself, his wife and their three children, was found dead today in their Dorchester home from accidental monoxide gas poisoning.

The bodies of Goodale and his wife, a former teacher, were found in the bathroom. A hot-water heater, which was still burning, although the deaths of the family were believed to have occurred last Friday, was considered by Medical Examiner Timothy J. Leary to have been the source of the gas.

When Goodale failed to report at Latin school last Friday a messenger was sent to his home, but failed to arouse any one. When he did not appear again today the school authorities notified his mother, Mrs. Frances Goodale. She asked a neighbor to investigate and he discovered the bodies.

Russia and Japan Agree On Parcel Post Plans

Moscow, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Soviet Russia and Japan have signed an agreement regulating parcel post shipments between the two countries, the Soviet Foreign office announced tonight.

The agreement particularly applies to shipments from Japan across Russia to western Europe. The announcement was thought to have been issued at this time in order to indicate that normal relations exist between the two countries, which recently have exchanged notes on the Japanese occupation of Manchuria.

Hoover and His Office Staff Give 3 Days' Pay to Relief

President's Gifts to Jobless Funds Reach $10,000; Civil Service Board Also Gives 100 Per Cent; Reichelderfer Warns of Coercion.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

President Hoover and his entire White House staff set an example for the 75,000 Federal employes in the District yesterday by arranging to contribute three days' pay during the winter to the Washington emergency relief fund.

The President's personal contribution was computed at $616.41, and 48 members of the executive office staff will add about $2,100 to the White House collection.

The funds will be turned over to Nathan P. Webster, disbursing clerk at the White House, who will make the payments, in equal monthly amounts, to the Community Chest. One day's pay is to be contributed in January, February and March.

In announcing the 100 per cent White House enrollment in the plan, Secretary Theodore Joslin emphasized that the contributions were entirely voluntary. The arrangement is in accord with the plan worked out two weeks ago between the Civil Service Commission and District officials, in response to the recommendation of the Gifford committee on unemployment relief that Federal employes undertake direct participation in the winter's emergency relief program.

Simultaneously with the White House announcement, Miss Jessie Dell, a member of the Civil Service Commission, revealed that branch of the Government also had gone over the top in the voluntary contribution program. In other major divisions of the Federal service the movement was reported to be progressing well.

"The campaign in the Civil Service Commission was completed today," Miss Dell said, "and the amount subscribed is more than 100 per cent of the total amount of three days' pay for all the commission employes in Washington."

Reports that certain employes in the District Building were being co-

Texans Vote Today To Fill House Seat

San Antonio, Tex., Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Seven Democrats and one Republican, candidates for the congressional seat of the late Harry M. Wurzbach, of Seguin, Republican, tonight drew the attention of State and national political leaders.

Upon results of the special election tomorrow in the Fourteenth Congressional District perhaps hinges the balance of power between closely divided Democratic and Republican forces in the House of Representatives.

Democratic leaders had pleaded vainly with the eight members of their party seeking the post to agree upon one man, lest a split vote give a Republican victory. Two last-minute withdrawals today left eight candidates in the field—seven Democrats and one Republican.

LATIN PACT PARLEY BEGINS HERE TODAY

(Associated Press.)

Bolivian and Paraguayan representatives to nonaggression pact discussions here will meet today at the State Department to elect a commission president and determine upon procedure for the negotiations.

They will meet in the presence of representatives of the five neutral countries whose good offices have brought them to Washington. Assistant Secretary White of the State Department, United States representative on the neutral group, is expected to be named commission chairman.

Other questions to be taken up are how often the delegates will meet, whether they will talk in the presence of neutrals or privately, and general rules governing form of the meetings.

It is taken for granted by most parties concerned that the neutrals will be represented in the discussions, but the part which they will play remains to be seen. A definite decision as to whether all five countries will be represented at every meeting is also awaiting today's meeting.

Following the morning session the delegates, the neutral representatives, chiefs of the Bolivian and Paraguan missions and State Department officials will be luncheon guests of Director General Rowe of the Pan-American Union.

Nicaraguan Insurgents Capture and Loot Town

Managua, Nicaragua, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Insurgents captured the town of Chighigalpa, on the railroad between Chinandega and Leon, yesterday, looting the stores, wrecking the telegraph office and burning the railroad records, national guard headquarters reported today.

They were in the town about an hour before the national guard patrol of 30 men arrived from Chinandega and drove them toward the south. In the skirmish one guardsman was killed.

Mexican Paper Is Bitter On Acquittal of Deputies

Mexico City, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Acquittal of two former deputy sheriffs of charges of murder in the killing of two Mexican students at Ardmore, Okla., last June was described editorially in Universal Grafico today as "famous gringo justice."

It would surprise no one now, the editorial said, if William E. Guess and Cecil Crosby, the two former peace officers, were "rewarded for their success" by being reinstated as deputy sheriffs at Ardmore.

Highest Court to Review Ruling on Flood Control

(Associated Press.)

The Supreme Court yesterday consented to review a ruling that the Government must obtain flowage rights or condemn property subject to overflow from spillways of the Mississippi flood control project before beginning levees.

The case, brought before the court at the request of Secretary Hurley, was advanced for oral argument January 4. The Government contended that the ruling by lower Federal courts would hamper work on the flood control projects.

lieve the story of these splendid policemen?" O'Shea shouted.

"Is even a captain of police under suspicion at the word of a self-confessed thief?" he asked the jury.

Burroughs' attorney, Frank Kelly, closed the defense argument. He brought to the attention of the jury that his client was not said to have touched the defendant at any time. He pointed out that Burroughs is the father of ten children and a man of unimpeachable character, as witnessed by several prominent citizens who testified in his behalf.

At the instance of Mr. O'Shea, four exceptions to Justice Proctor's charge were noted in the records.

The trial, which has lasted seven days, began Monday of last week. Thirty witnesses on the Government side were heard and the defense called 55, including the four defendants, each of whom took the stand and denied absolutely that Harker was ever mistreated in any way.

The second of the third degree trials, that of Robert J. Barrett, headquarters detective, accused of striking George Baber, a suspect in the Jaynes murder case, since exonerated, will open this morning in Justice Proctor's court. Julian Richards, Assistant United States Attorney, will prosecute. Barrett is represented by Attorneys Russell Kelly and Harry Whelan.

Lynch Mob Foiled By Hiding Quarry

Chestertown, Md., Nov. 23 (A.P.).—The Kent County Jail here was surrounded tonight by a mob of 500 men seeking George Davis, 28-year-old Negro, arrested earlier in the day in Wilmington, Del., and accused of an attempted attack on a white woman in this county. One of the members carried a rope.

State's Attorney Stephen R. Collins appealed to the mob from the steps of the jail to permit the law to take its course and assured the men everything would be done to arrange a speedy trial. He declared the Negro was not in jail, but refused to say where the prisoner had been taken.

The group finally departed in automobiles and, it was reported, headed in the direction of other jails in the vicinity.

School Heads to Go to Richmond

Arlington County School Superintendent Fletcher Kemp and Supervisors Miss Florence Gravett and Miss Gertrude Smith will leave for Richmond today, where they will attend the annual meeting of the State Teachers Conference.

lateness of the hour, he took his brother along, he said.

When the shooting started Fred dropped to the floor and escaped the hail of bullets. Carl was struck in the fleshy part of the thigh, but he did not know he was wounded until later, he said. The two men whom they drove to the roadhouse disappeared, according to Carl. He said he did not believe they were involved in the holdup. Princkert's taxicab was disabled with the other cars parked outside of the place, but he and his brother managed to get it moving and took Bartlett to Casualty Hospital.

Later Carl discovered his injury and was driven to a private physician by McComas and Fred, police were told. The physician treated him for the wound and then reported to police and it was on this information the men were taken in custody last night by Detective Sergts' John C. Dalglish, Floyd Truscott and Dennis Murphy.

Nine Taken to Jail.

Nine persons of the house who were uninjured were taken to the Hyattsville Jail. Five are women, and there are four men, although police believe that a number of other patrons of the house managed to escape before police arrived.

From the pockets of Levitt, manager of the place, $325 was taken. One of the bandits counted the sum, and then said to Levitt, "You've got more than this."

Levitt turned toward a closet nearby for more money when one of the hold-up men opened fire. They fired into the mass of helpless patrons lined against the wall. So far as could be learned, the fire was not returned. One empty shell from the shotgun was found, and its charge tore through the door of the cupboard and broke dishes inside. About two dozen .45 and .38 caliber pistol shells were also found near the firing line.

Two .38 caliber pistols were found in the grounds around the house, while a .45 caliber pistol was found in the parlor. Later, a small boy found a .32 caliber pistol along the road, which he turned over to police.

After the shooting four members of the gun squad left in their own car, abandoning two other members who were later picked up by taxicabs near the house. One of the men was taken out on the Defense highway about one and a half miles, while the other was taken some distance up the Baltimore boulevard. Early last night one of them was reported to have been seen on the outskirts of Baltimore on the road to Philadelphia.

Two Suspects Flee.

After the men left, Levitt, seriously injured, groped his way through a fog of pistol smoke and called the Bladensburg Fire House, which is also headquarters of county constables. Police arrived and found Levitt had collapsed near the phone, while Simone, who had leaped through a window, was huddled on the ground beneath it. The dead man was lying on a pile of newspapers in the kitchen. The rest of those who could walk were found outside in the yard.

Bailiff Lawrence Dayton, one of the first arrivals, found two men hiding in a shed near the place, but the pair outdistanced him and escaped. Police believe these to be members of the gang who were left behind in the flight of their fellows.

The witnesses are Mae Dix, Dorothy Jordan, Helen Conley, Jean Gordon and Marie Wilson, all of Baltimore. Washington police have notified Prince Georges authorities that the Wilson woman is wanted in the District. The men who are being held in Hyattsville are Samuel Kushner, John March, and Arthur Crockett, all of Washington. These nine are being held on charges of investigation, and will probably be removed to the Marlboro Jail today for further questioning. The Lechlider woman was released in custody of her father last night.

Scout Vengeance Theory.

Finger prints on the collection of guns seized by police will be taken today and compared with the prints of persons in the house. In this way authorities will try to learn whether or not the bandits' fire was returned by their victims. So far all those held have denied firing, or even having a firearm.

It is the theory of the Baltimore detectives, however, that an attempt by one of the patrons to draw a gun precipitated the massacre. These policemen, who have handled the recent Baltimore war between houses of ill-fame, scouted the theory that the Bladensburg shooting might have been another battle in this war. They expressed the belief that shooting was just what it seemed, the result of a holdup.

A coroner's jury empaneled by Judge Robert Altemus viewed the body of Amick last night so that it could be released for burial. No funeral arrangements have been made, however, and no date for an inquest has been set.

Police Doubt Story.

Police investigating the case are not satisfied that their prisoners are telling the whole truth as their story ascribes the shooting to an attempted holdup during which the bandits became frightened. Police think that the shooting is a part of a war between rival operators of houses of vice. A war of this nature recently broke out in Baltimore and has resulted in several shootings there.

According to the story pieced together from witnesses, there were six men in the gang, which came to the house in a light roadster. One man stayed in the car, with the motor running, while the other five went to the five cars belonging to patrons which were parked in the yard of the historic old house. Each of the cars was disabled in the same way, the ignition wires being jerked from the spark plugs and distributor head. Then the five entered the place.

Here they went from room to room, menacing the patrons with pistols and herding them into the kitchen. There were fourteen men and five women, according to one report, when finally all were lined up against a wall. The leader of the men carried a sawed-off shotgun. The bandits, the witnesses said, stripped the pockets of each of their victims.

Warned to Keep Quiet.

Amick was killed by a .38-caliber bullet which struck him in the lower part of the abdomen. On his chest, in the exact center, was a small round wound resembling a bullet hole, but which was partially healed. He was identified late yesterday afternoon by Thomas Lechlider, father of the girl who was with him when he went to the house, and by the girl, who collapsed after viewing the body.

Mr. Lechlider said that his daughter and Amick left the house on Monroe street last night to visit friends in Hyattsville. Leaving them, the couple went to the tea house, where Amick left the girl in the car outside. She was in the car when the bandits arrived, and one of them told her "Don't say a damned word" when he wrecked the ignition of her machine. She was believed to have been one of the injured when police arrived and was taken to the hospital with the rest.

Later she was arrested and taken to the House of Detention and still later returned to Hyattsville. Amick according to Mr. Lechlider, had boarded at his house for six years. Mr. Lechlider also said that he had learned from associates of the young men that he went to the place, known as the Colonial Tea House, about once every ten days.

The dead man had been employed at a gas station near Georgia avenue and Rock Creek Church road and came from Winchester, Va., where his father still lives. Mr. Lechlider also said Amick had not recently visited Philadelphia, although his coat had the label of a clothier in that city.

Brother Is Released.

Aaron Kushner, proprietor of a lunchroom in Mount Rainier, Md., was also questioned yesterday when he went to police headquarters to inquire about his brother, Samuel, one of those shot. Kushner was unable to tell authorities anything of his brother's activities, and was released.

According to Philadelphia police, the first two men arrested there were unshaved and disheveled. The two arrested later were said to be prosperous-appearing.

The Philadelphia arrests followed a telephone call to the tea house shortly after the shooting. Bailiff Dayton answered the call, to hear some one ask: "Has Doggy been arrested?" He told them to call back, and then had the call traced.

Fog Hampers Pursuit.

Pursuit of the two men found hiding in the yard was hampered by a heavy fog which covered the section. After being flushed from their hiding place in the shed, they were sighted again on the tracks of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, which runs below the house. Again they ignored commands to halt and fled up the tracks. Each was bareheaded, and their descriptions fitted those of the two men who later were picked up by the taxi drivers.

Shortly after being notified of the shooting State's Attorney Alan Bowie asked the assistance of Baltimore police, and Detectives Cornelius Roche and William Feehley came to Hyattsville. After questioning the witnesses there, they went to Casualty Hospital and spent six hours talking to the injured. Roche and Feehley have been investigating the vice war which has resulted in a number of raids on Baltimore roadhouses.

In one of the raids a submachine gun was seized. One of the raids was made on the Belle Grove Club. The Colonial Tea House, scene of yesterday's shooting, has also been raided before by county policemen, who found a quantity of alleged liquor in the place. This was before Levitt took it over.

Possibility that the place was financed and operated from Philadelphia is seen in the fact that the phone call from that city was for "Doggy," which is Levitt's nickname.

The place has been open only a few days. Police were warned that an attempt would be made to operate it again. It had been closed since the liquor raid. Chief J. J. Crowley, of the Prince Georges police, said that it was apparently closed up when he went by it about 11:30 Sunday night. All of the shutters of the house were nailed shut and the shades were drawn.

Relatives Are En Route To Claim Victim's Body

Winchester, Va., Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Relatives left here tonight for Hyattsville, Md., to claim the body of Grover Amick, killed early today during the holdup of a tearoom near Washington.

Mr. Amick was a son of James F. Amick, Winchester cattle dealer. He had lived in Washington for several years and was employed there as a filling station manager.

Arlington School Vacation.

Arlington County public schools will close tomorrow afternoon and remain closed until Monday morning for the Thanksgiving holiday, according to an announcement by County Superintendent Fletcher Kemp yesterday.

REVISION OF TARIFF FATAL, SMOOT SAYS

Senator Disputes Argument That Present Statute Cuts Exports.

(Associated Press.)

The blunt word "suicide" was applied yesterday by Senator Smoot to proposals for downward tariff revision at the coming session of Congress.

Disputing arguments that the present tariff law—which he helped frame as chairman of the Senate finance committee—was responsible for declining exports, he said it would be disastrous to "sweep away the imposts that protect our industries and agriculture." He added:

"The trend of international trade throughout the world offers conclusive proof that the current world-wide economic unheaval is a result of causes over which the United States Government has no control. It springs from economic maladjustments which produced a surplus of goods and labor and a shortage of markets and purchasing power."

He went on to say that the United States still led the world in exports despite a drop of 26.7 per cent in value last year.

The senator cited Government statistics to show that other nations suffered as much or more than the United States. Argentina's exports were said to have dropped 43.5 per cent in 1930, Chile, Egypt, Cuba, China, Peru, Brazil and the Union of South Africa from 30 to 40 per cent; Canada, 25 per cent; Mexico, 24 per cent; United Kingdom, 22 per cent, and Italy, 20.5 per cent.

Other nations falling in the same group with the United States were Bolivia, British Malaya, Australia, Ceylon, Sudan and Siam. Interpreting these figures, he said:

"American citizens who have been misled into the belief that the 'streams of American foreign commerce have dried up' would do well to remember that 15 per cent of all the exports from 90 nations come from the United States and that the latest statistics show America to be the leading export nation of the world by a considerable margin."

Fourth Arrested In Big Mail Fraud

Philadelphia Man Seized for Houston Officials; Denies Complicity.

Philadelphia, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Clifford R. Skinner, named by Federal authorities as one of six men involved in what they described as a $1,000,000 mail fraud of international scope, was arrested at his home here today and held for officials at Houston, Tex.

The alleged swindle, authorities said, was based on a scheme to sell stock in a machine said to be able to crack oxygen atoms and provide great power. Skinner was held in $5,000 bond for his appearance at Houston, one of the places used by those in the alleged swindle as a base of operations. He denied complete knowledge of the scheme.

The arrest followed that of John F. Beale near Wilmington Saturday. The other two men arrested are Dr. John May, who is under $10,000 bail in Conroe, Tex., and Walter Hohenhau. Federal authorities said Hohenhau is in jail in Germany. The other men indicted have not been arrested.

HOOVER AND STAFF DONATE FOR RELIEF

All Will Give Three Days' Pay to Help Jobless This Winter.

erced by department heads to fall in line with the three days' pay plan resulted in a warning yesterday by Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, chairman of the District Commission.

"Since this is a Government enterprise," Commissioner Reichelderfer said, "undoubtedly many employes will feel under compulsion to subscribe. We should strive to reduce that feeling to a minimum. While some may give one, two or three days' pay, there are others who can not afford to give at all. And there are still others of us who expect to give additional sums to the Community Chest after this drive."

This warning followed a report that in at least one department in the District Building workers had been summarily ordered to sign up for three days' pay.

The department heads, all of whom compose the soliciting committee, met with the Commissioners yesterday. Corporation Counsel William W. Bride reported his department was the first to complete 100 per cent enrollment. Maj. D. J. Donovan, District auditor, followed with the same report.

In several departments, however, a number of employes are known to have declined to give at all, on the ground that their family financial demands prevented. Others are signing for one or two days' pay instead of three.

Per diem employes of the Highway Department, who recently were placed on a six-hour-day basis, will not be asked to contribute to the campaign, Dr. Reichelderfer said, as their reduction in pay exceeds three days' earnings.

Although the Civil Service canvass revealed 6 per cent of workers felt unable to contribute, their share was more than covered by excess pledges from other employes, Miss Dell said. The campaign in that division began last Thursday afternoon, and by last night more than $7,000 had been pledged.

Detailed plans for collecting the contributions of School Board employes were worked out at a meeting yesterday afternoon in Franklin School of administrative and supervisory officers of the public school system.

President Hoover's salary contribution will bring his total participation in the national relief drive to approximately $10,000. He had previously pledged $5,000 to the Washington Community Chest and $2,500 to San Francisco's fund. Several smaller contributions to special funds have been reported during the last three months.

While the solicitation committees made their rounds in the Government departments, Representative Will R. Wood, of Indiana, who will be chairman of the appropriations committee if the Republicans organize the House, announced he would renew his demand this winter for a general reduction in Civil Service pay rates.

Brother of Capone Again Loses Appeal

High Court Action Ends Hope of Averting Three Years in Prison.

(Associated Press)

For the second time, the Supreme Court yesterday refused to review the conviction of Ralph J. Capone, Al's older brother, on a charge of violating income tax laws. The action ended the gangster's slim hope that the courts may intervene to prevent his serving three years in Leavenworth.

The court on November 2 denied him a review, but his attorneys took the final legal step remaining by asking that it reconsider.

As was the case with Al Capone and other underworld leaders, their apparent immunity from conviction ended when the Government brought them to trial for failure to pay income taxes or for offenses growing out of that failure.

Swedish Match Co. Gets U. S. Factory

Buys Control of Federal Corporation; Changes Are Planned.

New York, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—The Herald Tribune says the Swedish Match Co. has completed arrangements to take over and operate the Federal Match Corporation, thereby engaging for the first time in the manufacture of matches in the United States.

The action, the paper says it learned today, is being taken through the Vulcan Match Co, wholly owned subsidiary of the International Match Co., which in turn is controlled by the Swedish Match Co.

In obtaining control of the Federal Match Corporation, the Swedish match organization acquires factories in Bloomsburg and Bellefonte, Pa., and Duluth, Joliet and Spokane. The newspaper says it is understood that some of these factories will be altered for the manufacture of safety matches in boxes. Distribution will be undertaken through the Vulcan Match Co., which now is the principal means of distribution in this country for Swedish matches.

Taxpayer Ordered To Bare Payments

High Court Rules Man Must Reveal Persons Involved in Cuts.

(Associated Press.)

The Supreme Court said yesterday that Harry Murdock, living near East St. Louis, Ill., must stand trial on charges of violating income-tax laws by refusing to tell to whom he paid money deducted from his 1927 and 1928 income.

Murdock, in refusing to tell where approximately $24,000 he deducted in making out his tax returns went, claimed that he would make himself likely to prosecution if he gave the information.

During his trial in the Federal District Court for Southern Illinois, Murdock said some of the $24,000 had been paid out in connection with his slot-machine business and that he "believed" the machines were used in gambling.

High Court Holds Furniture In Speakeasies Confiscable

Ruling Starts Seizure Drive in Montana Where Case Originated; 19 Decisions Handed Down on First Day After Recess.

(Associated Press.)

A powerful weapon was placed in the hands of Federal prohibition agents yesterday by the Supreme Court, the tribunal ruled that the furnishings and fittings of a speakeasy are subject to confiscation.

In a unanimous opinion delivered by Justice Stone, the court held that Federal dry agents were right when they seized bar, backbar and other equipment in Edward Ryan's saloon in Butte, Mont.

To support this action the Government went back to revenue laws which it used in preprohibition days against mountaineer distillers, who never understood why they should pay a tax on the liquor they made.

A section which authorized seizure of effects and personal property in a place where "articles or raw materials" are used for the purpose of defrauding the Treasury of revenue was cited.

The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals took the position that the confiscation section applied only to places where liquor was made actually.

In view of the revenue statutes, their history and even their punctuation, Justice Stone said articles associated with the illicit manufacture and possession of liquor both in effect deprive the Government of the tax which is still in effect.

"Congress must be considered * * * as authorizing forfeiture of nontaxed articles found in the place in which taxed articles are possessed with intent to defraud the revenue," he said.

Justice Stone said it has been argued that a decision made for the Government would lead to "absurd results," the confiscation of everything in sight, including articles with no relation to the sale of liquor. But, he added:

"All laws are to be given a sensible construction."

Returning from three weeks' recess the Supreme Court put in a busy day handing down decisions prepared in the interim.

In nineteen opinions it disposed of 29 cases which had been argued in October. In one of these, regulating the payments which short line railroads should make for the use of freight cars of other carriers, the court returned to its old division of six to three. In all other decisions action was unanimous.

It held that the Interstate Commerce Commission had improperly relieved the short line railroads from paying their full share to the trunk lines for the use of their freight cars.

Butte, Mont., Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Federal dry agents, whose superior declares "they just don't know what prohibition means in Butte," today began seizing bar fixtures here a half hour after learning the United States Supreme Court had approved such action.

Carl Jackson, Northwest district prohibition administrator, who said the dry law was being flouted, temporarily has placed 12 agents at Butte.

After 18 recent raids 14 places visited were abated by court order. The agents have been instructed "to dry up the city no matter how long it takes."

CONTINENT IN GRASP OF FREAK WEATHER

Flowers Bloom in East and Midwest as Snow Pelts Western Region.

Kansas City, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—The East basked in record November warmth today, while winter ruled the West.

New Englanders laid top coats aside; in the Rocky Mountain States residents bundled up to shovel snow in blizzardous weather.

Dandelions blossomed in New York, around Cleveland flowers were out and a second fruit crop was being harvested. In contrast, smudge pots were fired in the citrus groves of southern California to fight off frost.

Temperatures in the 70's recorded in many cities of the Eastern half of the country were countered by sub-zero readings in Wyoming and other mountain States.

One of the most unusual weather conditions in years checkmated winter's attempt to chase Indian summer from the East. A sharp dividing line extending roughly from Duluth, Minn., to Abilene, Tex., repelled the normal movement of snow and cold from the West.

On the line of scrimmage, a trough of low barometric pressure, there was a "squeeze" as the storm attempted to buck into the Midwest against an area of high pressure tarrying over Virginia and the Carolinas. Heavy rains fell, causing streams to overflow lowlands and flooding basements in parts of Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri and Iowa.

Records for late November heat were shattered throughout the East, while along the Pacific Coast it was just the opposite. The 28-degree reading at Sacramento, Calif., was the lowest since 1880; San Francisco experienced 39, one degree above the all-time November low. The minimum last night at Los Angeles was 40 and at Tacoma, Wash., 25, the coldest in November since 1911.

In the topsy turvy condition this year, Chicago has gone without snow or frost thus far.

Most of the Rocky Mountain region was still being pelted by snow today, adding to the heavy white blanket deposited since Saturday. The covering generally measured from 5 to 10 inches, with much deeper drifts in the higher altitudes.

Twenty-four motorists trapped by a blizzard for 20 hours between Salida and Wellsville, Colo., came through safely. Four feet of snow was reported around Salida.

Alarmed Farmers Greet News Winter Is on Way

(United Press.)

Orchardists and gardeners in the Eastern portion of the United States last night welcomed news from the West that winter was descending upon the country.

Agriculture Department experts said yesterday that unless the current Indian summer was dissipated within the week there might be much damage to next year's crops, as buds have been lured from fruit trees, plants and flowers by continued warm weather.

The Weather Bureau prophesied much colder weather by Thursday for the Eastern seaboard and other sections experiencing false summer.

Dr. William Taylor, chief of the Bureau of Plant Industry, said the approaching cold weather would do no serious damage in the East unless it dropped to around zero. At that point it would hurt flowers and buds, particularly of fruits such as peaches and plums, which have sprouted during the peculiarly late season.

When Washington Was Younger—No. 115

THE above picture depicts the Carroll Institute Minstrels who back in the "Gay Nineties" were well known and popular around Washington for the many performances they gave for the benefit of worthy charities. The outstanding performances were those given for the benefit of the Foundlings Hospital, and the poor and destitute of Alexandria and Rockville.

It was quite a gala occasion for young and old alike when the Carroll Minstrels came to town as they always paraded through the streets of the town before the show, arrayed in their costumes and preceded by a brass band. Many an oldster of today wistfully remembers when he denied himself the pleasure of playing with the "gang" on the lot, and came straight home instead, and studied his "three Rs" so that he could go to the show that night.

The Carroll Institute was an organization formed for the purpose of promoting the mental and spiritual welfare of Catholic boys. The original building stood on F between Sixth and Seventh streets northwest, but it has been nonexistent for several years. The above picture was taken on the steps of the original building.

INDEPENDENTS LAY PLANS IN CONGRESS

Senate and House Insurgents to Demand Direct Federal Jobless Relief.

(Associated Press.)

Independents of both the Senate and House plan to meet this week to outline their legislative programs and formulate demands.

Following closely an invitation by House Republican insurgents for dissatisfied Democrats to meet with them, a call was issued yesterday for Senate Republican Independents to assemble.

Direct Federal relief for unemployment and some new Federal employment projects will be demanded by the group headed by Senators Norris, of Nebraska, and Borah, of Idaho.

With the Senate almost evenly divided, the Independents hold the balance of power. Last session, in coalition with the Democrats, they held a similar position.

Possibility of Coalition.

Whether there is to be another Democratic-Republican insurgent coalition probably will not be known until the legislative program for the session matures. There is every indication, however, that the Democrats will go their own way in both the Senate and the House, where they are in the majority.

Among the measures sponsored by the Republican independent group are the $3,000,000,000 Federal road-building plan of Senator Norris and the flotation of a bond issue of several billions for Federal improvements suggested by Senator La Follette, of Wisconsin.

Direct Relief Issue.

The big controversy of the session is centering on the issue of direct Federal appropriations for food and clothing for the unemployed, a principle opposed by President Hoover.

This will not take shape, however, until the President's national campaign to secure these funds by private subscriptions has been completed.

BROOKHART DERIDES COLE IN HIS ANSWER

Refuses to Give Explanation of Correspondence Over Johnson Boom.

(Associated Press.)

Politics reached the stage of verbal brickbats yesterday as Senator Brookhart (Republican), of Iowa, replied to Representative Cole (Republican), of Iowa.

Brookhart informed Mr. Cole he could sit and wait for an explanation of his correspondence with William Hale Thompson, of Chicago, relating to a campaign for Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, for President.

He termed Cole's demand for an explanation "discourteous and insulting" and asked, "Did Andy Mellon and Bob Lucas tell you to do it?"

"I have no objection," wrote the senator, "to showing these letters to anybody interested in Iowa from Iowa's standpoint, but knowing that you have always sucked eggs for the Wall street crowd and betrayed your own State to the financial interests, I have no interest in disclosing anything to you unless your dictatorship compels it.

"I want further to assure you that I did not assume to speak for you or anybody like you. That is impossible. Nobody has ever been able to do that but the Wall street crowd. Neither have I gone into any private alliances with anybody, although I have felt until your letter that I had a perfect right to do as I pleased without offending your majestic sensibilities."

Brookhart asked Cole why he had not called at his office to see the correspondence, and concluded, "I am sorry I made you mad, but notwithstanding, you can have all the time you want to get into a good humor again, and then some."

Lya de Putti Saved By Fast Operation

New York, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—An emergency operation for blood poisoning apparently has saved the life of Lya de Putti, Hungarian stage and screen actress, who tonight was described as "resting comfortably" in a hospital.

Although her condition still was serious, a bulletin issued by the hospital stated she had stood the operation well and was "progressing as well as could be expected."

An infection in her neck developed after an operation last week to remove a chicken bone which had lodged in her throat. Her temperature rose rapidly yesterday and five specialists decided that an operation was imperative.

College President Urges Repeal of Volstead Act

Philadelphia, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Thomas S. Gates, president of the University of Pennsylvania, in an article on present economic problems in tomorrows Pennsylvanian, the student daily newspaper, suggests repeal of the Volstead act, revision or cancellation of war debts, entrance of the United States into the League of Nations and world-wide disarmament.

Machine Guns Laid To Moran's Gang

Seized Weapons Studied for Connection With St. Valentine Killings.

Chicago, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Two submachine guns found in a recent raid on the apartment of Terry Druggan, gangster and "public enemy," were attached today for Coroner Frank J. Walsh to determine by ballistics whether they were among weapons used in the St. Valentine Day massacre of seven George "Bugs" Moran gangsters in 1929.

Police said the seized weapons were similar to one found some time ago in the home of Fred "Killer" Burke, near Benton Harbor, Mich., and identified as one of the weapons used in the wholesale slayings.

Seizure of the two guns was not disclosed until today when Judge Michael Feinberg ordered them turned over to Coroner Walsh "to prevent some one else getting them. The coroner said he would have them examined at the Northwestern University "crime laboratory" for possible evidence through ballistics that they were used in the Moran gang massacre.

Plan Laid to Revive Muscle Shoals Bill

Norris, Quinn and James to Press Move Twice Lost by Vetoes.

(Associated Press.)

Plans for starting toward the White House another Muscle Shoals bill, very like that President Hoover vetoed last session, are gathering momentum.

Senator Norris (Republican), of Nebraska, and Representatives Quin (Dmocrat), of Mississippi, and James (Republican), of Michigan, have joined in an effort at final disposal of tthe $150,000,000 project. Either Quin or James will head the House military committee. The three probably will confer today.

Government operation of the huge plant on the Tennessee River just across the Alabama line, which has twice failed of presidential approval, again will form the backbone of efforts to settle the 12-year-old controversy.

RAINEY LIKELY TO BE NAMED DEMOCRATS' FLOOR LEADER

There has been much talk of the Tammany delegation and the recognition which it will demand in the coming Congress. Representative John J. O'Connor apparently took the bit in his teeth and announced his determination to have the post of floor leader. Mr. O'Connor based his claim to the post on an argument that a Northern liberal should have the place in view of the forthcoming presidential election.

But Mr. O'Connor's boom was not very long lived. Representative Garner had breakfast with John F. Curry, Tammany leader of New York, last Saturday, the day after Mr. O'Connor had announced his desire for the post of floor leader. After the breakfast Mr. Garner said that Mr. Curry was a nice man and he had failed to find him wearing horns or having cloven hoofs, or anything like that. At the breakfast, it is said, Mr. Curry suggested briefly that Mr. O'Connor was on his own and was not committing Tammany to a fight for the place of floor leader.

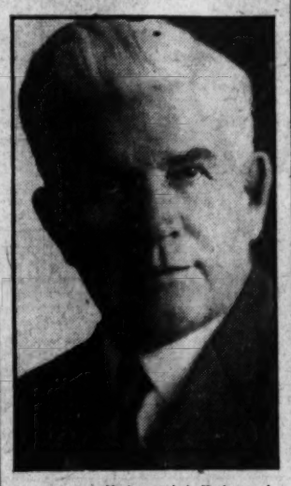
Out of that breakfast conference is understood to have gone Mr. Garner's announcement in favor of Mr. Rainey for floor leader, despite the prospective Speaker's protestation that politics were not discussed over the ham and eggs he shared with Mr. Curry.

Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Missouri and South Carolina are listed as among the States whose delegations in the House would support Mr. Rainey for floor leader, as well as a scattering of members from various other States. Included in the 133 votes assured him for the post, Mr. Rainey let it be understood were none from New York, nor New England members, although friends of the Illinois Democrat asserted he would poll several votes from that section.

The diplomatic maneuvering of Representative Garner, incidentally, has taken much of the edge off the effort of the so-called Progressives to make themselves a place in the warmth of the political sun.

Representative Fiorella H. La Guardia (Republican), of New York, has called a conference of Progressives of the House for tomorrow. Representative Paul J. Kvale (Farmer-Labor), of Minnesota, joined in the call. Representative Kvale has occupied a position of much importance in political and legislative calculations for months, but now his sun is going into eclipse. Mr. Kvale carries with him only the single vote of himself for or against any legislation.

With the Democrats having a lead of three members, which may be extended to five, if they win in Texas today and in New Jersey on December 1, Mr. Kvale's strategic position has disappeared and Mr. Kvale, instead of being the key man in the House, is just one lone member belonging to a party of which he is the sole representative.



Underwood & Underwood.
REPRESENTATIVE HENRY T. RAINEY, of Illinois, who probably will be elected Democratic floor leader of the House in the new Congress.

Lindbergh Locker At Airport Robbed

Newark, N. J., Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's locker at the Newark airport was rifled today. The thief took a valuable kit of flying tools, a vacuum bottle, a hatchet, wearing apparel, and a quantity of canned goods which the colonel kept for possible use on long flights.

The articles were left in the locker October 23 when Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh arrived here from the Pacific Coast after their return from the Orient.

Barranquilla, Colombia, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—(By Pan-American Airways radio to Miami, Fla.).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh studied South American and trans-Caribbean aviation theory and practice here today as he awaited the return of the giant seaplane, American Clipper, from Cristobal, Canal Zone. The ship is due here Wednesday en route to Miami, Fla. The colonel will pilot the Clipper as it leaves Barranquilla.

Mail Fraud Jurors Hear Social Leader

Woman Tells of Investing in Mine Securities at New York Trial.

New York, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—An acquaintance with Harry C. Cotter, started at a society tea, led Mrs. Catherine C. Worrall, a New York social leader, to buy $11,500 worth of Cotter-Butte Mines, Inc., stock, she testified today in the mail fraud and conspiracy trial of Cotter, former Magistrate George P. Ewald and two of their associates.

Mrs. Worrall said she was introduced to Cotter at a tea in 1928 by Count de Clairemont. She became so enthusiastic over the prospective profits Cotter pictured, she said, that she soon sent him a check for $5,000 as part payment on a $7,500 block of stock.

Assistant United States Attorney Joseph E. Brill read into the record an entry in the company's books showing that the concern's treasury received only $2,525 of the sum. He produced check stubs of the firm to show that Cotter and Frank E. Mitterlechner, another defendant, divided Mrs. Worrall's $2,500 balance as their commission for the transaction.

Man Loses Police In Pistol Battle

Three Other Suspects Held for Jury in Illinois Society Robbery.

Waukegan, Ill., Nov. 23 (A.P.).—While three men arrested in the $150,000 robbery at the Lake Forest home of William M. Mitchell during a party of socially prominent persons Saturday night, were being held to the grand jury today, Chicago police engaged in a running pistol battle with a fourth suspect.

Paul Ross, 23; Joseph Perello, 21, and Nick Maentis, 20, all of whom, police said, were identified by robbery victims, were held to the grand jury in bonds of $20,000 each.

Near the Chicago Union Station, police sighted Frank Tufano, whose automobile was allegedly abandoned when officers, summoned by a chauffeur, caused the robbers to flee. Tufano was riding with three other men and their car eluded police in the heavy traffic after several blocks.

Plea for Bible Reading In Schools Again Fails

(Associated Press.)

Advocates of Bible reading in Washington State schools yesterday again failed to persuade the Supreme Court to take up their arguments.

The State courts held the State constitution excluded Bible reading and teaching from the public schools. George I. Clitheso, of Seattle, and others appealed to the Supreme Court, but it said the case presented no Federal question.

In representing their plea passed upon yesterday Clithero and his associates said a principle reason for lawlessness was failure to instruct school children in the teachings of the Bible.

WOMAN IS INDICTED AS COUNTERFEITER

Mrs. Wildman, of Capital, Jointly Charged With Bowie Architect.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Nov. 23.—Indictments charging Frank Russel White and Mrs. Carolyn I. Wildman with violating the counterfeiting laws were returned today by the United States grand jury.

Mrs. Wildman, who lives in Washington, was arrested some time ago after she is alleged to have passed a $1 bill which had been raised to a $100 note. The indictment charges her with possessing and passing counterfeit money.

White, an architect living near Bowie, is charged with raising a number of $1 notes to $100 bills.

Both are at liberty in bond, Mrs. Wildman's being $2,000 and that for White $5,000.

The grand jury returned a total of 23 indictments, 20 of which charged 31 persons with violations of the dry laws.

Charges of manufacture and possession of liquor were made against Andrew Quade, Horace Buckler, Berhard Bowles, Claude Vallandingham, W. E. Owens, Freddie Webster, Raymond Hayden and W. H. Somerville, all of St. Marys County, and Samuel Lagana, jr., and Louis Lagana, of Prince Georges County.

Charles Adams and Maudestine Adams, of Prince Georges County, were indicted for transportation and possession of liquor.

existence of the plant. They became interested in large shipments of molasses from Porto Rico to a Newark firm. During five months, they learned, 353 railroad tank cars of molasses had been shipped to the Monarch Molasses Co.

The cars were switched to the rear of the building, the raiders said, and the molasses was converted into alcohol which was then shipped away in the same tank cars.

House Bells Tested For Coming Session

(Associated Press.)

House bell signals were tested yesterday for the first time for the coming session. The bells, by different rings, summons members to session, roll calls and signify adjournment.

The test was made by Chief Engineer Tarbut. He rang five bells which the members like best, meaning recess.

ROBINSON ANSWERS WET POLL

say that he has no intention of bowing to the demand of Democratic drys that he soft-pedal the prohibition question. They say he is determined to have a show-down on the problem at the next meeting of the Democratic national committee

Mr. Raskob yesterday called the national committee to meet here January 9. By that time, it is expected, he will be in position to announce result of his poll among the 90,000 campaign contributors of 1928

In his call Mr. Raskob said he expected to have the committee select a city for the 1932 national convention, review the drive for campaign funds that is now under way and take such action as it may desire on the "unfinished business originated at the meeting of March 5."

"Home Rule" Plan Recalled.

It was at the March meeting that Chairman Raskob suggested that the committee consider his "home rule" liquor plan and be prepared to take action on it at a subsequent meeting.

In advance of the March meeting, it was generally understood that Chairman Raskob expected to have the committee members take immediate action on his home rule prohibition plan.

He was frustrated when Gov. Roosevelt, through the New York delegation, headed off any such action. That was the beginning of talk about the feud between Chairman Raskob and Alfred E. Smith on the one hand and Gov. Roosevelt on the other.

Right now Gov. Roosevelt is having other troubles. He is credited with having stated recently that a "change in the prohibition law would promote greater temperance."

Women Ask Explanation.

A group of prominent Southern Democratic women have called on Gov. Roosevelt to explain just what he meant by that statement.

The meeting in January will be the first since the March session and Chairman Raskob evidently is prepared to ask for an expression on his plan.

At the last meeting, Senator Robinson and other drys insisted that it was not the function of the national committee to take a stand on political problems; that this was a function reserved to the party's national convention which drafts and adopts the party platform.

However, Jouett Shouse, chairman of the executive committee of the national committee, dug up a little-known rule which bore out Mr. Raskob's contention that the committee had a right to make recommendations to the national convention.

Consequently, if Chairman Raskob insists on having the committee take action on the prohibition question at the January meeting, a lively wet-dry fight is certain.

On the night of January 8, the night before the natinoal committee meets, a number of party leaders will gather here for the annual Jackson Day banquet. Claude Bowers, formerly an editorial writer on the defunct New York World, who delivered the keynote address at the Houston convention, will preside.

Three Nominees to Speak.

Orators of the evening will be Alfred E. Smith, Democratic presidential nominee of 1928; John W. Davis, nominee of 1924, and James M. Cox, nominee of 1920.

That same night, Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland will appear before the Concord Club in Baltimore and announce his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nominee in 1932.

Chairman Raskob's latest prohibition poll brought the expected reaction. Drys said in effect that he had selected a packed jury—a group who contributed to the last national campaign because the presidential nominee, Mr. Smith, was a wet.

Gov. John Garland Pollard of Virginia gave the Associated Press the following statement:

Fallacy of Poll Shown.

"The answers no doubt will reflect the sentiment of those who furnished the money, but not those who furnished the votes. Most of the contributions came from large wet centers."

Edwin C. Dinwiddie, executive secretary of the National Prohibition Board of Strategy, said that the Democratic national committee is "bound hand and foot by a debt of nearly $800,000 owed to John J. Raskob, or largely if not wholly guaranteed by him." The committee, he said, "continues supinely to allow this wet multimillionaire to make its machinery the springboard for his fanatical opposition to prohibition.

"This amazing domination of a party," said the Rev. Mr. Dinwiddie, "this ability to use it for the exploitation of personal whims, is unparalleled in American history. It would not be possible if the Democratic party were not so heavily in debt to Raskob.

G. O. P. Meeting in December.

"The Smith-Raskob combine may dictate the next nominee of the Democratic party, but this combine will never name the next President of the United States."

The Republican national committee is to hold its meeting here in December for the purpose of selecting a city for the party's 1932 convention. Right now Cleveland would seem to be the city most likely to be selected. However, there is some doubt as to whether Cleveland would want to put up a guarantee fund of $150,000. If the Ohio city fails to get the convention, the Republicans probably will gather either in Chicago or Detroit.

Du Pont Upholds Raskob In Taking Post to Task

Pierre S. duPont, millionaire manufacturer of Wilmington, Del., and an officer of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, took the editor of The Washington Post to task yesterday because of an editorial which accused John J. Raskob of splitting the Democratic party through his insistence that action be taken on the prohibition question.

In a telegram to The Post, Mr. duPont said, in part:

"Prohibitionists have long claimed control of the great majority of the people. The election of Hoover was proclaimed a great victory for prohibition and a proof of its popularity throughout the country. Inroads of the opposition in several States are either disregarded or attributed to causes other than change of opinion.

"Nothing should please prohibitionists more than a referendum which, according to their professions, would undoubtedly uphold their cause and give it a tremendous impetus and greater strength. Seemingly antiprohibitionists should fear the test more than their opponents.

"Mr. Raskob accepts the recommendation of a majority of a commission appointed by a Republican President who has rejected its findings. Does The Post accept the latter? If so, upon what grounds should the American people be deprived of an opportunity to improve the shocking conditions that the members of the President's commission have found to exist?

"Mr. Raskob's home rule plan would place the full Federal power of enforcement back of the dry States. Such an opportunity to try out the prohibition policy under Federal protection would then be opened to any State that can muster the support of a bare majority of its voters. The entire Federal power and the cost of trying to coerce unwilling States would then be concentrated in defense of prohibition in its own territory.

"As to the scope of Mr. Raskob's questionnaire, is it not a matter of important interest to discover the opinion of those who support their party by contributions to its campaign fund?

"The distribution of the questionnaire is by chance not altogether illogical, for though the six States mentioned in the editorial, New York, New Jersey, Illinois, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Pennsylvania, are one-eighth only of the total number they do include 32 per cent of the total population and have an allotment of 53 per cent of the questionnaire votes."

Pollard Points Fallacy In Raskob Poll of Donors

Richmond, Va., Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Gov. Pollard said today that answers to John J. Raskob's prohibition questionnaire will not reflect the sentiment of Democrats throughout the country as a whole.

The governor this morning received a copy of the questionnaire from Mr. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee.

"This questionnaire was sent, as I understand it, to contributors to the Democratic campaign fund," the governor said. "An examination of the table which accompanies the questionnaire, as printed in morning papers today, shows that most of the contributions came from the large wet centers.

"The answers no doubt will reflect the sentiment of those who furnished the money but not those who furnished the votes.

"For instance, Rhode Island, with its population of 687,000, furnished more funds then Texas, with its population of 5,800,000, and Vermont more than Virginia.

"In addition to this, it should be remembered that thousands of Democrats in the South made their contributions locally and their names do not appear on Mr. Raskob's list."

The governor has not filled out the questionnaire and did not indicate what his answers would be.

W. C. T. U. Leader Calls Raskob's Poll "Scheme"

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Chairman John J. Raskob's announced poll on prohibition among contributors to the campaign of Alfred E. Smith in 1928 drew censure of W. C. T. U. leaders tonight.

"Chairman Raskob proposes a clever scheme to impose his own views on the Democratic party without giving law enforcement a chance," said Mrs. Ella A. Boole, national president.

The National W. C. T. U. headquarters here declared it has received telegrams from Democratic women leaders protesting the poll as not giving the dry wing of the Democratic party a chance to be heard and virtually assuring a wet response.

Decision Upon Fall Parole Held Near

Officials Silent on Probe of Reports of Special Favors in Prison.

(Associated Press.)

Albert B. Fall may learn within ten days whether he is free to quit the New Mexico State prison or must serve the rest of his sentence—approximately eight months—for accepting a $100,000 bribe from Edward Doheny, California oil man.

The Federal parole board is expected to decide soon on an application by the former Secretary of the Interior for parole. He became eligible November 20.

Officials refuse to confirm reports that special agents of the Justice Department are investigating whether Fall has received special favors in the prison. Dr. Amy Stannard, of the board, said direct inquiry "would seem natural," but she could not say operatives had been sent to Santa Fe from Washington. "We have not given special instructions for the investigation," she said. "We have simply asked for the facts in the case."

MAIL FRAUD GUILT UPHELD ON APPEAL

Appellate Court Rules That Hagner Couple Waived Indictment Attack.

The failure of Mr. and Mrs. Herman O. Hagner, of New Jersey, to make a seasonable attack on the jurisdiction of the District Supreme Court to try them on an indictment charging the Commission of a felony in Pennsylvania, automatically waived their right to a trial in the place where the crime was committed, the District Court of Appeals ruled yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Hagner were convicted here last summer of violating the statutes governing the use of the mails to defraud. The letter containing the matter which was objectionable to the Government, was dropped into the postoffice box at Scranton, Pa., and that, according to the law, is where they should have been tried. The indictment did not aver receipt of the matter here.

The court ruled, though, that having gone to trial without making an objection as to the local court's jurisdiction, they had technically waived their right to object now. The Hagners were sentenced to serve five years in the penitentiary and to pay a fine.

They were convicted of having sent false "accounts receivable" which they sold here. The ruling of the court establishes a precedent here.

Doak, Recovered, Back At Desk; Visits Hoover

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Doak has recovered from a severe cold that kept him in bed for several days and is back at his desk again.

One of the Secretary of Labor's first acts yesterday was to call on President Hoover. He was slightly pale, but smiling and jovial as he came to the White House. Shaking hands all around he said he felt "fine."

Smart SHOPPING

"How good is it?"

That's it!

ABOUT anything and everything they buy, smart shoppers like to ask one question—"How good is it?"

Chesterfield welcomes smokers who buy their cigarettes that way.

OUR tobacco buyers are smart shoppers, too. They "shop" for the ripest, mildest, sweetest-tasting leaf that grows. And they won't take anything else.

"How good" are Chesterfields? Well, consider their blending.

Blended and cross-blended... not merely mixed together. Blended first by crops and countries . . . then cross-blended again and again... to produce a flavor and aroma that are Chesterfield's alone.

That's how we get that better taste . . . that's why Chesterfields are milder. Even the paper they're rolled in is the whitest, cleanest and purest that money can buy.

And the package . . . clean, bright, fresh-looking . . . see how easily it opens, yet how tightly it's sealed.

Milder? Right! Taste better? You bet they do! They're pure, too—and they certainly do satisfy!

Good . . . they've got to be good! There's value here. We know, because we put it in . . . and you'll smoke it out with every one you light.

GERMAN ECONOMIC CURE STILL SOUGHT

Bruening's Group Fails to Find Concrete Program to Save Nation.

Berlin, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Germany's economic salvation has failed to come from Chancellor Bruening's advisory council, which held its final session under the chairmanship of President Paul von Hindenburg today.

The next outcome of 26 days of labor was a lengthy document setting forth generalities about what should be done, but failing to say how.

Instead of leading to an internal truce, the meetings of the economic council brought the resignation of the three agricultural members and a declaration on behalf of the six labor members that they did not agree with Chancellor Bruening's conclusions.

Gloomy Press Reception.

President von Hindeburg thanked the members of the advisory commission. Then he turned to his own cabinet ministers, adjuring them to decide "with all dispatch" what should be done to translate the council's principles into action.

The suggestions of the council received a frosty welcome from the afternoon press, which for the most part expressed the opinion the country would be disappointed to realize valuable time had been lost and no accomplishments achieved.

Farmer representatives felt that the economic council was not doing anything decisive for agriculture and labor delegates were perturbed because no suggestion for a compulsory 40-hour week forthcoming.

Bruening Now Has Task.

The labor members also feared reduction in production costs would be one-sided, resulting primarily from wage cuts. Further diminution in purchasing power resulting from such cuts would have disastrous social and economic consequences, they declared.

The whole responsibility for the future economic course of Germany now reverts to the cabinet, particularly to Dr. Burening.

Optimists pointed out that all factions represented in the council agreed on certain fundamentals which will form the basis for new emergency decrees expected next week.

The council agreed the country no longer could bear the present rate of public expenses. It recommended clarification of the reparations problem, new regulations affecting foreign credits, revision of relations between the government and the banks, and the establishment of new levels for wages, prices and interest rates, although warning against blanket reductions.

Minnieville Farmer, 71, Dies Riding in Wagon

William H. Bailey, 71 years old, a farmer of Minnieville, Va., died suddenly yesterday afternoon while riding in a wagon in Minnieville with R. B. Reid, also of that town. Dr. Stockweather, of Occoquan, Va., pronounced him dead, apparently from heart disease.

Mr. Bailey is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Bailey; a daughter, Miss Ossie May Bailey, both of Minnieville, and three brothers, Wallach Bailey, of this city, and Fred and Morris Bailey, of Indianhead, Md.

Funeral services will be held at the Hinton undertaking parlors at Woodbridge, Va., tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, followed by interment at Minnieville.

National City Approves America Bank Merger

New York, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Stockholders of the National City Bank of New York today approved the plan for acquiring assets and business of Bank of America, National Association. Assenting stockholders of the latter will receive six-tenths of a share of National City stock and 40 cents in cash for each share of their Bank of America stock.

National City's capitalization is to be increased from $110,000,000 to not more than $124,000,000. Stockholders vote on the merger tomorrow.

ANGLO-AMERICAN COMPACT ON CHINA CRISIS FORECAST

his conversation here yesterday morning amplified the British viewpoint and laid the basis for what may become an informal Anglo-American understanding toward solving the impasse now existing between the League Council and the disputants.

British Attitude on Inquiry.

The British thesis which has been slowly developed in the closed sessions of the council these last four days is a strong tendency to decry the creation of a commission of inquiry which would not have the direct approval of the more important nations, like the United States and Great Britain. The British foreign office has already expressed to the council its vigorous disapproval of any program of investigation into the tangled economic and political situation of internal China. The scope of the proposed commission of injury should be confined to the war-affected region of Manchuria without adventuring into the exceedingly complex problems of Chinese political conditions.

The American position has been conveyed to Ambassador Dawes and the American attitude of neutral-but aympathetic observer has been carefully followed to date. The ambassador has remained in close contact with the President and with Secretary Stimson, and the United States still remains in the corridors of the council without involving American approval or rejection of any league program.

Grounds for Encouragement.

Some consolation was derived in official quarters here yesterday from the very idea that a commission of inquiry had already been discussed and had almost taken concrete form. The United States has, however, decided not to depart from its attitude of caution even in the creation of this commission. This stage of the negotiations is being developed with extreme caution as the greatest tact and delicacy will be necessary to prevent any untoward slip in diplomatic procedure which might cause the abrupt cessation of all conversations.

The proposal for the commission of inquiry has not met with unanimous support from the other members of the league council, to whom the proposal was submitted by its creator, Aristide Briand, chairman of this special emergency meeting of the council. Great Britain, Norway and Spain are understood to have demurred from accepting the Briand proposal until it has been formally approved by the Chinese and Japanese delegates themselves.

A close sympathy already exists between Sir John Simon and Ambassador Dawes. It is believed here that out of the personal relationship between the two men may develop a compromise proposal backed by the two nations with perhaps the most important interests in the Orient, and which, when submitted to the league council and to the Chinese and Japanese delegates, may win general approval.

Tokio Note Fails to Arrive.

Up to a late hour last night the reported note from the Japanese government to Japanese Ambassador Debuchi for transmission to the State Department here, had not been received. Attaches at the Japanese Embasssy were inclined to be skeptical of the authenticity of such a note, as no communication had been received from Tokyo here yesterday, and it was not expected that any would arrive. Furthermore, there was no necessity for another formal statement of the Japanese official position at this time. The conferences between the Secretary of State and the Japanese Ambassador have not proceeded beyond the stage of conversations and informal exchange of views. There would be no necessity for any further exchange of notes at this time.

The State Department formally denied the expression attributed to American Ambassador Dawes in Paris yesterday with regard to American aloofness in any proposal for economic blockade. The United States has persistently maintained her right to independence of action in the present crisis, and although this might be interpreted as responsible for the report from Paris, it was emphatically pointed out that no decision has been taken nor announced with regard to the entire question of sanctions. This is provided in the league covenant and the United States from the beginning has declined to be bound by any provision of the league covenant.

Real War Possibility Seen.

Tokyo, Tuesday, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—"Real war" might result if Chiang Kai-Shek, president of China, went north to combine forces with Chang Hsueh-Liang, deposed governor of Manchuria, it was said authoritatively here today.

Reports here indicated the Chinese president planned to join forces with the Manchurian leader for the purpose of marching into Manchuria. Reports in official circles indicated that Chiang Kai-Shek already was moving his troops northward and had reached Honan.

This led to a Japanese belief that the Chinese president might establish himself at Peiping if the League of Nations Council decided against the Nanking government.

If this situation should arise, Japan would increase her military force at Tientsin which is allowed her under the Boxer protocol, it was authoritatively said.

Japanese Troops Attack.

Mukden, Tuesday, Nov. 24 (U.P.).—Japanese troops began a general attack at Taian, west of the South Manchurian Railway line, at 7 a. m. today, to expel a Chinese force of 8,300, largely bandits and disbanded soldiers. Reports of the movement received here said the Chinese irregulars had been threatening Anshan and Nantai for a week.

London, Tuesday, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—A Peiping dispatch to the London Daily Mail today said Japanese troops are moving southward in Manchuria toward Chinchow, with the intention of crushing all political and military forces hostile to Japan.

Their movement is directed particularly against the forces of Chang Hsueh-Liang, deposed Governor of Manchuria, the dispatch said. The Japanese are traveling in armored trains along the Chinese Eastern Railway, it was said, but it was thought here the South Manchuria Railway might have been meant instead of the Chinese Eastern.

The Chinese Eastern Railway runs southward from Tsitsihar, which was recently occupied by Japanese troops, to Kwangchengtzu, where it connects with the South Manchuria Railway.

Chinchow, south of the zone of Manchurian fighting, is on the Peiping-Mukden Railway, which connects with the South Manchuria at Mukden.

American Plotting Charged.

Moscow, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Moscow newspapers published a Shanghai report today that information received there from Tokyo said the United States was striving to involve Japan in armed conflict with Soviet Russia.

The report attributed to this alleged statement what it termed the United States Government's "ambiguous attitude" toward recent events in Manchuria.

The American Government was forced to this course, the newspaper said, by influential banking and industrial interests who sought to mitigate the general economic crisis by creating a war situation which would help to absorb accumulated supplies of raw materials and manufactured goods.

Tokyo, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Japan sent reassurances to the United States today that the conflict with China in Manchuria has not involved any violation by the Japanese government of the nine-power treaty, the Briand-Kellogg pact, or the covenant of the League of Nations.

This position was set forth in a note sent to Ambassador Debuchi for delivery to the State Department in Washington. The note was dispatched after the ambassador had informed the government the United States was concerned about Japanese military activity in the Tsitsihar region.

The ambassador had reported an apparent change of attitude on the part of the United States and had said that public opinion seemed to indicate Japan should be reminded of her obligations under the various treaties.

Premier Wakatsuki, faced with criticism by the opposition party, moved to consolidate his strength. He told Minister of the Interior Kenzo Adachi, leader of the opposition, that this was no time to install a coalition cabinet as M. Adachi had advocted.

Dr. Koo Foreign Minister.

Nanking, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Dr. Vi-Kyuin Wellington Koo, former premier of China, accepted the portfolio of foreign affairs today and immediately announced that any suggestion for Manchurian peace which did not provide for early evacuation by Japan would not be acceptable to the Chinese government.

Dr. Koo, a graduate of Columbia University, who has represented his nation on many important diplomatic missions and was awarded an honorary degree of doctor of laws by Yale, succeeded to the place left vacant by the resignation of C. T. Wang last September.

China, the new foreign minister said, is anxious to do its utmost to bring about a settlement of the Manchurian conflict, but it would be useless to accept any terms that failed to give the nation real satisfaction.

The Manchurian crisis has resulted in the formation of a "national disaster committee," which will take over the administration of the country, it was said in official circles.

Mah Still Has 15,000.

Tsitsihar, Manchuria, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Gen. Mah Chan Shan, Chinese commander, who was driven out of Tsitsihar, has been definitely located at Hailun, where several civilian members of the former Tsitsihar government have joined him, possibly for the purpose of setting up a new Heilungkiang provincial government.

Chinese sources assert Gen. Mah still commands 15,000 troops, which are divided between Hailun and Paichuan. But it is regarded as unlikely that he will attempt to recapture Tsitsihar.

"I love America," writes Mr. Wrench. "Many of my best friends live there, and I am always glad to make fresh contacts."

Baltimorean Restrained In Winchester Litigation

Winchester, Va., Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Maurice Lovett, formerly of Baltimore, has been served with a writ requiring him to appear in corporation court November 27 to show cause why he should not be held in contempt for interfering with his sister-in-law, Mrs. Esther May Lovett, in the conduct of the retail business of her husband, the late Frank Lovett.

The writ followed disagreements over the terms of settlement of Frank Lovett's estate, which is now in litigation.

INQUIRY OF LEAGUE REFUSED BY CHINA

Dr. Sze's memorandum to the council said China has no objection to a "properly constituted" commission of inquiry which would investigate, under the present plans, the political conditions and treaties behind the Manchurian conflict.

"I beg to point out at this juncture that such a commission, however constituted, and whatever the scope of its activity, is purely an illusory proposal unless it is based upon simultaneous and effective dispositions covering the immediate needs of the situation," the memorandum said. "The situation brooks no further delay.

"To put the matter more concretely, an inquiry without simultaneous provisions for immediate cessation of hostilities and for withdrawal of Japanese forces (such withdrawal to begin at once, and proceed progressively to prompt completion) becomes a mere device to condone and perpetuate for a more or less indefinite period the unjustifiable occupation of China's territory by an aggressor who already virtually has attained his unlawful object, while these discussions are proceeding."

Dr. Sze concluded that China sincerely hopes for a solution of the conflict, but would not visualize proposals ignoring or evading the essential factors lying at the foundation of the Chinese appeal to the league—which is evacuation of Japanese troops.

The Chinese statement carried out Dr. Sze's earlier threat to force the council to solve the problem of evacuation prior to any other moves toward peace negotiations. These Chinese could block acceptance of the commission plan if they desired to press their demands to an extreme in an effort to force Japan to make concessions.

The Chinese delegate told the United Press that he considers the pact of Paris (Anti-war Treaty) "the basis of all international relations."

"China has rigorously observed her obligations and will continue to emphasize the sanctity of engagements taken to insure peace," he said. "I believe violators of the pact should immediately be brought before the court of public opinion and the entire world should unanimously assert itself to compel any violator to follow pacific methods."

Dr. Sze conferred twice with Aristide Briand, president of the council, while private negotiations for peace were continued simultaneously with the work of the committee attempting to draft two resolutions—one dealing with the inquiry commission and the other with evacuation.

The council met privately just before noon, with the Chinese and Japanese delegates absent, and discussed the resolutions. It was understood the commission resolution would provide for broader powers than proposed by Japan, which was believed likely to oppose the council's decision. Japan has sought to restrict the scope of the commission, particularly to prevent it from asserting any influence over Japanese troops in Chinese territory. Some of the powers represented at the council insisted, however, that the commission must have full and independent power.

It was understood Briand was attempting to arrange for the entire council to agree on the two resolutions in private and then have both accepted simultaneously at a public session of the council, which will meet secretly again tomorrow morning.

Car Crash Is Fatal To Virgnia Doctor

Automobile Plunges Over Embankment Near Top of Mountain.

Harrisonburg, Va., Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Dr. L. J. Marshall, 50, widely known Broadway, Va., physician, died at a hospital here today from injuries received last night when his automobile plunged over an embankment on the Spotswood trail near the top of the Blue Ridge Mountains, 23 miles east of here. He was en route to Goochland County to hunt with a party of neighboring sportsmen.

Dr. Marshall's car, rounding a curve down the mountain, struck the rear-end of a passing machine and then tumbled 12 feet over an embankment, landing on its top at the foot of the culvert.

Dr. Marshall came to Broadway from Marlinton, W. Va., nine years ago. He was educated in a Baltimore medical college. Surviving are two daughters. Funeral services will be held at the Elks home tomorrow afternoon.

Morton to Resign From Viginia Post

Petersburg City Council to Accept Request 'With Regret.'

Petersburg, Va., Nov. 23 (A.P.).—The Petersburg City Council has announced that it will accept "with regret" the resignation of Paul Morton, Petersburg city manager, who will accept a similar post at Lexington, Ky.

Mr. Morton's resignation becomes effective January 1. He will be Lexington's first city manager. He has served Petersburg for 2½ years, during which time he has been responsible for a number of improvements.

Resolutions adopted by the council expressed unanimous regret at Morton's resignation, and asked that he reconsider his decision.

Criminal Assault Trial Ends in Man's Acquittal

Special to The Washington Post.

Easton, Md., Nov. 23—William M. Randall, colored, charged with criminal assault upon Mrs. Florence Dashiell, at her home in Stevensville, Queen Anne County, June 21, was acquitted today. The case was tried here on a change of venue.

Chief Judge William H. Adkins, delivering the verdict, said that the court could not bring in a verdict of guilty on identification of the voice of the defendant. That was the only State evidence, as Mrs. Dashiell did not see the man but only identified his voice. Randall was released from jail and left for his home in Howard County.

ATTACKS SHOWERED ON GRANDI AT OPERA

Three Seized in Metropolitan as Leaflets Denouncing Fascism Fall.

New York, Nov. 23 (U.P.).—Leaflets calling for the "fall of Fascism" fluttered down from the fourth balcony as Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, entered the Metropolitan Opera House tonight during the singing of "L'Oracolo," a short opera dealing with life in San Francisco's Chinatown.

At the end of the act the orchestra played the Fascist hymn and the audience stood and applauded the Italian statesman, who occupied Myron Taylor's box, number 13.

"Down with Grandi! Long live Italy," one of the leaflets said. Others bore such lines as "Down with Fascism. Long live Italy," "Long live liberty. Down with tyranny."

Signora Grandi Goes Shopping.

Grandi swept through a series of appointments today, accompanied by the shrieking of police sirens, while his beautiful wife, with a smaller police escort and an interpreter, made the rounds of midtown department stores buying toys for the Grandi children and gowns for herself.

Late in the afternoon the foreign minister returned to his suite in the Ritz Carlton, called for a barber to trim his sleek black beard, and then went down to Thirty-sixth street for a conference with J. P. Morgan at the Morgan Library. Dominic, the Ritz barber, was so excited about serving the Fascist statesman that he appeared without his comb and brush.

Debt Paid Ahead of Time.

Morgan and Grandi discussed, among other things, the $90,000,000 which J. P. Morgan & Co. loaned to Italy when the Fascists were stabilizing national finances in 1927. It is the only foreign loan of any size the Fascist government has and is being paid off ahead of maturity.

Tonight Grandi attended a dinner in his honor, given by the council of foreign relations. Te told the guests that the world stands today in need of great moral forces with which to meet the problems of war financial obligations, disarmament and economic cooperation in the months ahead.

Tonight's was the second function of the day in which the youthful diplomat discussed international affairs. At a luncheon tendered him by Karl A. Bickel, president of the United Press, he talked informally of world problems with 100 prominent journalists and business men.

Faith in Recovery Grows.

In his address tonight the visiting diplomat paid compliments to the United States and American statesmen.

"During my brief stay in America," he said, "my confidence in the world recovery has been intensified and strengthened to a degree as I never dared to hope. Here I have felt, in your statesmen and in your people, that manhood, that intelligence, that power of united action on which your great Nation was built and which represent today one of the basic forces of our civilization.

"All those who on both sides of the Atlantic love and understand this civilization, who want to serve this civilization and defend its conquests can but formulate one wish: That the vital energies of America and the vital energies of Europe become united and that over and above political divisions the common cause of labor and of peace among men shall triumph."

Paris, Nov. 23 (U.P.).—Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, may be invited to return to Italy via France, it is understood here. Foreign Minister Aristide Briand received Italian Ambassador Manzoni tonight and they discussed Grandi's diplomatic mission to the United States.

Indian Maharaja Remits Rents Upon Birth of Son

New Delhi, India, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—For 100 years no direct male heir has been born in the line of the successive Maharajas of Jaipur, but today there was a magnificent durbar, for the wife of the Maharaja Sawai Kan Singhi Bahadur has presented him with a son.

It was an elaborate celebration, and the maharaja announced wholesale remission of fines and rents over the past five years, a gesture which involved about $1,200,000.

Tennessee to Hold 2nd Extra Session

Legislature Will Take Up Financial Demands and Other Emergencies.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 23 (U.P.).—Gov. Henry H. Horton tonight recalled the Legislature into a second extra session to begin next Monday.

Following a day of conferences with local bankers who transmitted demands of Eastern financial powers for immediate action, the governor announced he has called the extra session to meet November 30 for the purpose mainly of balancing the State's financial budget.

"I am convinced that this course is necessary and for the best interests of the State of Tennessee," the governor said. "I will permit other than revenue measures, the inclusion of the Great Smoky Mountain Park legislation and other local matters that are emergencies where they are not controversial," he said in a brief interview.

Hurley Will Delay Philippine Report

Consents to Postponement Until After Arrival of Commission.

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Hurley will withhold his report to President Hoover on Philippine independence until he has conferred with a Filipino mission coming to Washington from Manila.

Pedro Guevara, Philippine commissioner, asked that he postpone submission of his report until the mission arrives after January 1. Meanwhile, the Secretary of War said yesterday he is seeking to find a common ground with the Filipinos for a settlement of the independence question.

As a result of his tour of the islands, he concluded there could be no independence until there was political and economic stabilization there.

MacDonald Is Striving To Save Indian Parley

London, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald made strenuous efforts today to save the Indian round-table conference from dissolution because of the gulf between the Hindu and Moslem participants. He interviewed all groups of the delegates in turn, and will continue to do so tomorrow. This was Mahatma Gandhi's day of silence, and he did not participate in the discussions, but he met the prime minister.

The conference of the plenary session is expected to be held the middle of next week. The government is arranging to discuss the situation in the House of Commons before the Christmas recess.

Norfolk-Danville Buses Sold to Greyhound Line

South Boston, Va., Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Purchase of the Norfolk-Danville bus line by the Greyhound Lines has been reported here. The Virginia-Carolina Transportation Co. of Richmond, previously operated the line.

It is understood the line will continue to operate with some changes in schedule to permit closer connection with other Greyhound buses at Halifax.

Supposed Lincoln Lettter Not in Italy

Owner Sent Disputed Document to France for Safekeeping.

Genoa, Italy, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Nino D'Althan, owner of the supposed Abraham Lincoln letter, who had been asked by the Historical Society of the Italian Renaissance to produce the letter, said today he had turned it over for safekeeping to a cousin in Mentone, France.

Signor D'Althan asserted he sent the letter to his cousin three years ago because he feared it would be stolen from his home at Narvi, near here. In the letter Lincoln—or whoever wrote it—urged the unification of Italy and predicted that Rome would become the capital of a United States of Europe.

Signor D'Althan said he had written a book about the letter and when it is off the press he will ask his cousin for the original and will present it to Premier Mussolini, perhaps sending a copy to the Congressional Library in Washington.

Mississippi Valley Asks U. S. Funds

Association Seeks Haste in Completion of Inland Waterways.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Following the stormiest session in its history, the Mississippi Valley Association late today voted unanimously to urge Congress to authorize a Federal bond issue for the rapid completion of the inland waterway system of the United States. Strong opposition to the proposal was manifested by the delegations from the Missouri River cities, but after vigorous debate, the proposal was passed by a large majority.

Mark Woods, Lincoln, Nebr., contractor, who led the opposition to the bond issue, capitulated and moved to make the action unanimous. A resounding "aye" gave the proposal the full support of the association, the largest waterway organization in the country.

The association named no amount for the bond issue, but the sum was variously set by speakers at from $400,000,000 to $500,000,000, which they considered necessary to complete the barge channel system.

Dorothy Dwan Is Mother.

Misunderstanding Seems Keynote in Asiatic Strife

—By JOHN J. DALY—

IT seems now that all the trouble in the Orient is due to a little misunderstanding.

Japan misunderstands China, China misunderstands Japan, Soviet Russia misunderstands both Japan and China, and China and Japan can not, for the life of them, understand what the League of Nations intends to do, claiming the league misunderstands the entire situation in Manchuria.

Gen. Mah can not understand why the Japanese for as do not evacute the Tsitsihar territory. It was understood in Geneva that November 16 was the date of withdrawal. Instead, the Japanese general, misunderstanding the ultimatum of the League of Nations, actually advanced his forces on November 16. It is all, naturally, very bewildering.

On all sides, misunderstandings are rife. The secretariat of the League of Nations, in Paris, draws up a resolution asking for a commission of inquiry to straighten out the misunderstandings enveloping the fracas. On the commission, as proposed, would be an American business man, a French army officer and a British statesman.

There, again, misunderstandings might enter the case. American business man would want settlement on the installment plan, with a discount of 10 per cent for cash.

• • • •

THE French army officer would want a salute from both sides, and the English statesman would immediately start to colonize. At any rate, conferring among themselves, this triumvirate would undoubtedly come out of the conferences with more misunderstandings, even as now the council members of the league are, after hours of tedious debate, beginning to misunderstand each other.

In the meantime, the Communists in Russia, misunderstanding many of the accusations leveled against them, issue a warning that they will not permit efforts against Socialist construction to go unharmed. They point three fingers, one each at Tokyo, Washington and Paris, thereby showing another misunderstanding. The only one in Washington who fears Socialist construction is Ham Fish.

• • • •

THERE is also a general misunderstanding over treaty and non-treaty zones in Manchuria.

Palpably, it is now the duty of all those concerned with these affairs to clear up the myriad misunderstandings that becloud the Manchurian problem—a very delicate proceeding, since one misunderstanding leads to another. Eventually, such things may even bring about war between Japan and China. Many people believe that these two countries are even now engaged in hostilities, but that's a mistake. China and Japan are not at war; they are merely having a little misunderstanding.

In an emergency like this, there is no better warning than that printed in American theater programs: "Look around, and choose your nearest exit. In case of fire, walk; do not run."

The high costs of colds are more than ever a problem this winter. In every family, therefore, it is news of peculiar interest that the makers of Vicks VapoRub have developed a Plan for better "Control-of-Colds" in the home. A Plan to reduce the number, the severity and the costs of colds.

A New Vick Product

The Plan is made possible by a new preparation—Vicks Nose & Throat Drops. Based on a new idea in "preventing" colds, it is a companion to Vicks VapoRub, the modern external way of "treating" colds. The two aid and supplement each other. Together, they make possible further reduction of the burdensome family "Colds-Tax."

Trial Offer to VapoRub Users

Use of this Vick Plan for better "Control-of-Colds" in your home will mean fewer colds—less severe colds. It will mean cutting your high costs of cold troubles—a saving in money, loss of time and health. To say nothing of the discomforts of colds and the severe ills that often follow colds. Test the Plan for yourself—without risk. Get a bottle of the new Vicks Drops today. Use it with Vicks VapoRub as directed. Unless results are entirely satisfactory, your druggist will return the price of the Nose-Drops—and the test will have cost you nothing.

1.—Before a Cold Starts.

Use Vicks Nose Drops—a few drops up each nostril—whenever you have been exposed to anything which your owen experience tells you is apt to give you a cold—contact with others having fresh colds, crowds, stuffy, ill-ventilated rooms, public places—a night on the Pullman or a dusty automobile ride—sudden changes in temperature, wet or cold—inhaling smoke, dust, gases—excesses in living, such as overeating, smoking or drinking—after a hard day, when you are overtired.

In short, don't wait for that stuffy, sneezy irritation of the nasal passages—Nature's warning that you are actually "catching cold."

2.—After a Cold Stuarts.

At night, massage the throat and chest well with Vicks VapoRub—now available in white "stainless" form, if you prefer. Spread on thick and cover with warm flannel. Leave the bed clothing loose around the neck so that the medicated vapors arising may be inhaled freely all night long. During the day, use Vicks Nose Drops every few hours—any time, any place. (If there is a cough, you will like the new Vick Cough Drops, actually medicated with ingredients of Vicks VapoRub).

This gives you a full 24-hour treatment and without the risks of too much internal "dosing," which so often upsets the digestion—especially of children—and lowers body resistance to disease at a time when it is most needed. Don't "dose" colds except on your doctor's advice.—Adv.

HARMONY ON TAXES.

Senator Robinson's pronouncement against "soaking the rich" with new taxes is the most important contribution that has been made to this discussion for some time. The Democratic leader in the Senate will not join his more radical colleagues in an attempt to redistribute the wealth of the country through taxation. His stand strengthens the belief that the more conservative element in the Democratic party will cooperate with the administration in making a moderate adjustment of the tax laws so as to reduce the impending deficit.

Various other Democrats who expect to take a hand in shaping their party's policy have declared that the higher incomes must contribute most of the proposed new revenue. They pretend to favor the common people, when in reality their program would discourage reviving business and drive capital into tax-exempt securities. But the so-called liberal Democrats will not have enough votes to put this program over even with the support of Republican insurgents. It appears that the party will split on the issue and that Senator Robinson will lead the conservative wing in support of the administration.

The views of Senator Robinson and President Hoover are strikingly similar. It is generally understood that the administration will recommend a sales tax on luxuries. Senator Robinson says he has no objection "to considering proposals for a tax on the sale of commodities generally admitted to be luxuries." His view revives hope that some means may be found agreeable to a majority in Congress to broaden the tax basis without imposing hardships on the people or upon business.

Likewise Senator Robinson is in full accord with the President on the folly of trying to bridge over this deficit by special levies on the wealthy. The senator said:

> Such increases in taxation as are found necessary should be imposed with due regard to the principle that the best way to secure laborers in their employment is to promote confidence by rejecting measures likely to discourage investments in productive enterprises. It is generally understood that there is a limit to the rate which may be imposed without discouraging investment and production.
> In my humble opinion taxes should not be levied for the purpose of distributing wealth or reducing fortunes, but solely with the view of obtaining revenue. Taxation on any other principle approaches confiscation.

President Hoover said at the American Legion convention in Detroit:

> I do not wish you to be misled by those who say that we only need to tax the rich to secure the funds which we require. We must face the absolute fact that the rich can be taxed to the point of diminishing returns and still the deficit in our ordinary and necessary expenditures would not be covered upon a basis even of the utmost economy.
> Exorbitant new taxes in any form would be a blow to business. The insurgents and "liberals" may be expected to demand excessive surtaxes to justify their extravagant proposals for curing the depression. Some Democrats would like to raise taxes as high as possible in their efforts to discredit the administration. But the party has some leaders who are not willing to plunge the country into a new period of depression in order to play politics.

THE RAILWAY CREDIT POOL.

If the Interstate Commerce Commission is willing, another huge credit corporation will shortly come into being, this time as an aid in stabilizing the railroads. When the commission denied the carriers' petition for a 15 per cent blanket increase in freight rates it suggested that rates be increased on specified items on condition that the additional revenue thus acquired be distributed among carriers that are unable to earn their interest charges. The suggestion was a poor substitute for the carriers' plan, but they accepted it in principle and have now submitted to the commission their recommendations for carrying it into effect.

The railroads insist that the $125,000,000 fund to be raised through higher rates shall be distributed only in the form of loans to the weaker roads. Loans would be made for a period of two years, with the right of renewal for a similar period. In this way the benefits contemplated by the commission would be forthcoming, and the socialistic principle of taxing the stronger and more efficient roads to keep the weaker ones from default would be avoided. The carriers also point out that legal difficulties would be encountered by any plan to turn over this fund to the weaker roads as a gratuity.

There is a striking similarity between the proposed Railway Credit Corporation and the National Credit Corporation set up to aid banks with frozen assets. The railway executives' plan also follows along the same principle that is advocated by President Hoover for building and loan associations and home owners. It is a cooperative enterprise in which the stronger companies lend their aid toward stabilization of the group as a whole without descending to the level of charity. In view of this fact it seems certain that the Interstate Commerce Commission will approve the plan and make it effective as soon as possible.

THE TARIFF COMMISSION.

The resignation of Henry P. Fletcher as chairman of the United States Tariff Commission will be regretted by every one who has kept in touch with the commission's activities since it was reorganized under his direction. Personal feuds and political bickering, which characterized the old commission, have been largely eliminated. An unusual amount of work assigned to the new group has been done with dispatch and efficiency.

By the end of this month, when Mr. Fletcher's resignation takes effect, 30 separate rate investigations covering a large number of items will have been completed. Most of these reports already have been submitted to President Hoover. In some cases rates have been raised to afford adequate protection to American enterprise, and in other cases duties have been lowered. Virtually all of the reports have been unanimous, in spite of the fact that the membership of the commission is divided equally between Democrats and Republicans.

Eleven important surveys not involving rate changes have been completed. The commission has dismissed 28 applications for rate changes under the flexible provision. In all it has disposed of 92 cases. Nineteen surveys and investigations are still in progress, but only 21 applications for hearings await action. In view of the extensive work involved in the investigation of foreign costs, competition, &c., for every item, this must be considered a remarkable record.

The commission is also engaged in a survey which may provide a basis for levying duties on the American value of foreign goods instead of the foreign value as at present. Other important surveys deal with trade relations between the United States and the Philippine Islands, the petroleum industry, copper, the sugar differential, and the anthracite coal industry of Soviet Russia. Most of the commission's work is of an extremely technical character that has little interest for the public. Yet the public can not fail to be interested in knowing that the commission intrusted with the administration of this most important phase of the tariff is doing its work on a scientific basis with notable efficiency.

WISDOM FROM KENTUCKY.

Amid the thunder of politics and the repercussions of international squabbling a timid voice from Kentucky is heard. A new senator who has not been initiated into the wicked ways of the world offers a simple panacea. Fresh from the atmosphere of Bowling Green, he brings wisdom to soothe the growing pains that gripe this land of plenty. Deep cogitation upon the trend of political sentiment in his home State has brought him to the unswerving conviction that "the application of unsound principles of government to arising problems has brought the universal distress that prevails." All that is necessary to reverse the forces of cataclysm is to substitute "sound" political principles.

It is strange that the country should have waited so long for this new Moses. Why has not some one else thought of his simple remedy? Out of the mouths of babes shall we learn wisdom! Like the new congressman from Ohio, the new senator from Kentucky brings with him the sweet breath of a new era that will be dedicated to peace, plenty and happiness.

Senator Logan takes his inspiration from those halcyon years when the Democrats were in control. "When the affairs of government were taken over by the Republican party in 1921," he says, "the people of the Nation were prosperous and happy." Yes, it can not be denied that the people were happy. With uncanny glee they looked forward to the opportunity in 1920 to sweep out of power the party which attempted to compromise American independence.

Return to the golden days of 1921! Unwittingly the new senator from Kentucky has brought into being a Democratic slogan from which his more experienced colleagues may be expected to shrink with horror.

ON THE SCRAP HEAP.

The National Advisory Committee on Education is doubtless surprised to find that its report caused hardly a ripple on the surface. Almost no attention was given to its contradictory recommendations by the public. Instead of starting a new fight for representation of education in the President's Cabinet, the report probably will be placed in a safe pigeon-hole where it can gather dust until even the committee members have forgotten about it.

Congressmen who have expressed their views avoid the issue involved. Even those few who favor the creation of a dummy secretary of education as a sinecure for lame ducks would not indulge in a fight to extend Federal bureaucracy at this time. Every effort is being made to reduce Federal expenditures and to curtail the ever-growing bureaus and departments. It is unthinkable that President Hoover would recommend the establishment of a department of education in view of his economy program.

It appears that the public does not even take the report seriously. Any committee that writes a lengthy condemnation of bureaucratic control over the schools and then recommends that Congress take a hand in financing them does not merit serious attention. The committee was divided between two policies. One group hoped to get more money out of the Federal Treasury for education. The other wished to keep the schools strictly local institutions under direct and absolute control of the States and local governments. The attempt to harmonize these contradictory viewpoints was futile. The educational system can not move toward centralization and decentralization at the same time.

The public is too busy at present with other pressing problems to try to unscramble this hopeless confusion of policies. If the report had been consistent and constructive, it would probably have been neglected because of pressure from more important issues. But under the circumstances it may expect an ignominious burial without public mourning.

SHIPPING COSTS REDUCED.

The present depression is not wholly without benefit to American shipping. Enforced lessons of thrift, resulting in the elimination of waste and overhead expenses, are being carefully investigated, according to T. V. O'Connor, chairman of the United States Shipping Board. Efficiency of personnel is receiving special study and retrenchment in operating costs is steadily going forward. Close watch over purchase and distribution of supplies is giving a better check on leaks and theft. Small repairs, which were formerly let out by contract, often in foreign ports, are now frequently undertaken by the crew and a material saving has resulted in this line.

In a merchant marine so new as that of the United States, such beneficial results might not have accrued in a period of marked prosperity. Now that every dollar is important every item entering into operation costs is scrutinized. A check has been kept on engine efficiency and a considerable saving has resulted aside from the reduced cost of coal and oil.

The economic situation has brought about unexpected developments throughout international shipping. A number of rival lines have effected understandings, realizing that in union there is strength, and have thereby eliminated destructive competition. This occurred first in Germany, then in Japan and more recently in Italy. It is expected that France will shortly follow the same course. A similar development, though on a smaller scale, is to be seen in this country. A number of Pacific Coast interests, once strong competitors, have found it advisable to combine their managements and have succeeded in solving some problems resulting in benefit to all.

The present situation, Mr. O'Connor finds, again illustrates the wisdom of the saying that for brave natures a period of trial is usually a period of self-discipline. Even economic storms may have an indirect, though none the less potent value. The improved efficiency of American ships has won for them a more worthy place. If American shippers and travelers would give a fair share of their business to ships flying the Stars and Stripes the prosperity of American shipping would return over night, and the merchant marine would be in a position to weather any storm that might arise.

Tom Jefferson believed in the "pursuit of happiness," but when he framed the Declaration he did not anticipate that the pursuit would be started in 26,000,000 automobiles.

Mayor Walker's answer to the investigators in New York is that if the people were robbed the robbers were not using a Jimmy.

Hiram Johnson may want to stop this kidding about the Presidency because he has been a goat twice.

MARK TWAIN'S CENSOR

From the Toronto Globe.

Clara Clemens has lifted the curtain and revealed more of the family life in her book, "My Father, Mark Twain." Howells called his friend "the Lincoln of our literature," referring to the "rough diamond" phase of the humorist's character, and it now appears that his wife was the chief instrument in bringing him down to parlor manners in his language. He loved the rough words of the Mississippi River life which was his early environment, and only the affection he bore for Olivia and her judgment made him assent to her censorship.

Some critics have presented the Clemens family, especially Mark himself, in an unfavorable light, but Clara Clemens pictures her mother as giving both constructive criticism and applause, such as were necessary for the welfare of such an artist. She says: "How often did my father express his gratitude to the marvelous fate that had given him such a companion, one who was as deeply absorbed in his work as he was himself! One who had a pure instinct for the correct balance of values in literature as well as in life, and whose adverse criticism proved invariably to be a just criticism because her intuition—born of a large heart and mind—hit the target plumb in the center."

It is worth turning back to see this critic in action. An earlier record was furnished by Susy Clemens as a young girl, and with naivete worthy of a daughter of Mark Twain. Most censorship seems to have been needed in connection with "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn," which was published in 1884. Both the manuscript and the proofs went to Mrs. Clemens to be, what Susy called, "expergated." She pictures her mother going over the pages:

> "I remember so well, with what pangs of regret we used to see her turn down the leaves of the pages, which meant that some delightfully terrible part must be scratched out. And I remember one part pertikularly which was perfectly fascinating it was so terrible, that Clara and I used to delight in; and oh, with what despair we saw mamma turn down the leaf on which it was written: we thought the book would almost be ruined without it. But we gradually came to think as mamma did."

Even Mark Twain accepted the judgment of his more delicately attuned wife. Mr. Howells had ordered all profanity out of the book, and Mrs. Clemens put the order into execution. R. L. Stevenson, who maintained the tone of his own works by rigidly excluding profanity, said he had read "Huck Finn" four times and would gladly start again tomorrow. The book did not wholly escape criticism, especially in New England, but it had an immediate sale of 50,000 copies, and has been a continuous "best seller" from the first.

UNCHANGEABLE MEMORY.

The little girl who is no more,
For whom along the years
We've mourned, still smiling at the door
On many a day appears.
And still her silver voice rings out
In childhood's lovely way,
And still in play she romps about,
But we are worn and gray.

Her playmates of the long ago
Are men and women grown,
And some the marks of suffering show,
And some have sadness known,
But she has stayed through all the years
A happy-hearted child,
Unchanged by time, untouched by tears,
Unsoiled and undefiled.

Some mourn their little ones long lost
Who still on earth remain;
Some cling to life and count the cost
In bitterness and pain;
But day by day her voice we hear
And often smile to see
Our radiant little girl appear
Just as she used to be.

'Tis strange (so bitterly we weep)
How time can change our views,
We find we lose the ones we keep
And keep the ones we lose.
Though we are worn by care and woe
And wrinkled now and gray,
Our little girl of long ago
Is still a child at play.

There Are No Bronze Statues of the World's Great Spectators.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

AMERICANS are the world's champion onlookers.

The one desire they have in common is "two on the aisle."

Watching somebody else do it has become a national habit.

This contentment in the role of innocent bystander wasn't inherited from our fathers. When this civilization was new, every self-reliant son of liberty was jealous of his right to be in the thick of things.

Sports were competitions in grain cutting, wood chopping, wrestling, boxing, jumping and the spectators were performers awaiting their turn.

In matters of government and public policy, each man held uncompromising convictions and spoke his mind without equivocation. He was a hardy individualist, reluctant to delegate authority to anybody.

As the frontier moved westward, it continued to develop self-sufficient men who fought their own battles, solved their own problems, and, when the occasion demanded, administered justice without benefit of courts or lawyers.

Hard necessity made them players in the drama instead of spectators. They made romance and history instead of reading it.

Now the race has grown soft and sits on cushions in the grandstand.

We have grown accustomed to constant entertainment. Newspapers, magazines, books, the radio, motion pictures and stadium games afford us endless amusement. And always we occupy a seat.

We have learned to watch George do it. And the role of onlooker has developed in us a habit of mind that relieves us of all feeling of responsibility.

We no longer say, "we, the people," but always, "they, the Government."

Now we are paying for our sins.

A test of character has found us the victims of our spectator-complex.

We are content to look on, waiting for somebody in authority to perform a miracle that will make times soft again.

We shall wait in vain. The times call for a new birth of the hardy pioneer spirit that gave men resource and initiative enough to plod ahead without benefit of blazed trails or assurance of manna from heaven.

This civilization wasn't built by men who stood on the sidelines, waiting to see what would happen, nor have such men ever saved it in time of crisis.

Between Maneuvers.
Kansas City Times.

It is a safe guess that most of the measures to be introduced in Congress, and most of the speeches to be made, will be formulated with an eye to the impressionable and disgruntled voter.

There will be plenty of proposals to remake the world, with every person assured of an income of $10,000 a year. The country will be invited to go up in various balloons from which to drop peace tracts that infallibly will soothe Japan and make future wars impossible. The administration will be shown up as always right and as deliberately and wickedly doing the wrong thing on every possible occasion.

But between these political maneuvers may the country hope Congress will find time and inclination to do some of the things that really are necessary.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Cutting Down Navy Too Much Might Prove a Fatal Operation.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The news item in The Post of the address, Wednesday, by Mr. Huston Thompson might be interesting if not so tragic. He is quoted as suggesting "that Congress pass a resolution approving a reduction in armaments up to 50 per cent over a 10-year period with other nations participating."

He overlooks the fact that nations would not start equal. The United States is now behind all large nations of the world in size of armaments, except Germany.

His suggestion reminds me of a surgeon operating on a patient's foot. The surgeon had been working some time when he said to the assistant administering the anesthetic: "If we have five more minutes we will have a perfect operation and the patient won't even limp when it is healed."

"Yes doctor," replied the assistant, "he will never limp, because he has died under the anesthetic."

It is fundamentally necessary to have strength to survive the operation. CORNELIA R. POTTS.

Would Like to Have a Check-up of All Funds Donated to Unemployment Relief.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: We have for unemployment relief football games, dances, card parties, theater parties, banquets and numerous schemes, such as collections and assessments with which to raise funds. What agency receives all this money that is derived from "unemployed" rackets? Do the unemployed actually receive any of it, or is it put into the hands of some organization which has salaries to pay out?

Why does'nt the President appoint a committee to investigate the unemployed in this town, and see how many actually belong here? He will learn that approximately 70 per cent of the unemployed in this city are "floaters" from other towns, and that most of them are professional "bums" who would not work under any circumstances. FEDERAL WORKER.

Congressmen Advocate Wage Cuts. Why Not Start With Cutting Their Own Salaries?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I notice that senators and representatives are making various suggestions for the relief of the unemployed and are urging every one to contribute to the various organizations that are active in the matter. I notice also that salaries and wages are being reduced as a result of the widespread depression. I fail, however, to see any intimations that salaries of our senators and representatives are to be reduced.

My recollection is that these salaries were increased substantially a short time ago and by their own action. To the casual observer, it would seem to be a good time for these members of Congress to set an example by taking similar action in the reverse direction. J. B.

Architect Wood Declares State, War and Navy Building a Misfit in Washington Picture of Beauty.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The remarks of R. L. K. in your issue of November 17, anent the State, War and Navy Building, are surprising, to say the least, and certainly do not represent the opinion of the majority of those who behold this monstrosity.

Situated, as it is, between the majestic beauty of the Lincoln Memorial and the calm serenity of the Executive Mansion, and nearby the classic charm of the Treasury, the spartan plainness of the Patent Office and the architectural gem of the Land Office, to say nothing of the Capitol and some other structures which might be named, it is an unadulterated incongruity, and it needs far more than a sandblast to fit it into the artistry of the Washington picture.

I am sure every lover of architecture, as well as all artists and art lovers, with eyes attuned to consistency and harmonious relations, will agree that the building is an abortion, inappropriate in its design, absurd, unfit and improper to be as it is and where it is.

British Reader Thinks America Would Benefit by Canceling War Debts.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: If we are to have a revival of trade, employment and general prosperity, all international war debts and reparations should be canceled. I am not trying to be original. This proposal has been frequently voiced, and is now one of the questions of the day.

The cancellation of all international war debts was proposed long ago by Lord Balfour. The burden of international war debts and reparations is largely, if not entirely, responsible for the present universal financial depression.

America would benefit with the rest of the world by such cancellation. BERTRAND SHADWELL.

YOUNG AMERICA.

Young America is decidedly air-minded and future travel for it means from 100 miles per hour upwards, according to the Wall Street Journal. Officials of Century Air Lines recently estimated that of the 40,213 passengers carried by the company's planes in the last six months on its lines between Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Toledo and St. Louis, fully 11 per cent were of 12 years of age or younger. The majority of the youngsters who flew were accompanying their parents on family trips. Accordingly, the company decided to offer additional inducement for family rides by offering a new schedule of half fares for children from 3 to 12 years of age. Going a step farther, the company also stipulated that youngsters up to 3 years of age should not be charged for transportation.

SUGAR STOCK DEAL DESCRIBED BY DAVIS

Senator Avers Transaction Had No Connection With Government.

Pittsburgh, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—United States Senator James J. Davis, taking cognizance of testimony before a Senate committee that he had made "paper profits" on sugar stock purchased on credit, said in a statement tonight that the buying and selling of the stock was a "business transaction and had no connection with the Government."

"When I purchased the stock," Davis said, "I had no thought of ever being a candidate for a seat in the Senate of the United States."

His statement follows:

"During the primary campaign a year ago last May, a rumor was circulated by a discharged employe of B. G. Dahlberg, of New York and Chicago, that Dahlberg had contributed to my campaign for senator the sum of $10,000 and that in my report to the Senate committee I had omitted reporting this contribution. The Nye committee investigated the rumor and found that the statement was not true.

Referrred to Committee.

"Just before the Senate adjourned, a New York newspaper carried a statement that an unnamed senator had received $100,000 for lobbying for the sugar interests. The matter was referred to the lobby committee, of which the late Thaddeus H. Caraway, United States senator from Arkansas, was chairman, and which included such distinguished senators as Thomas Walsh, of Montana; William E. Borah, of Idaho; John J. Blaine, of Wisconsin, and Arthur Robinson, of Indiana.

"When I was Secretary of Labor of the United States, I invested in the Celotex Co. and the Southern Sugar Co. The former stock I paid for in cash, and the latter by note, with the stock as collateral. It was a business transaction, and had no connection with the Government. Because I was a stockholder, it was rumored that I was the unnamed senator. When I purchased the stock, I had no thought of ever being a candidate for a seat in the United States Senate.

Voluntarily Appeared.

"At the time my friends thought to dissuade me from taking any cognizance of the rumor, but knowing full well my innocence of the slander thrown out by political enemies, I voluntarily appeared before the Senate committee and urged them to make a thorough investigation. I also appeared before the committee on Senate expenditures and urged them to appropriate the money to enable the committee to immediately begin work.

"One of the most noted Government investigators, Mr. John Holland, was appointed by the committee to make the investigation. He has been at work on it since last May, and from newspaper reports which I have read this afternoon, not one iota of evidence has been produced which connects me with any charge of lobbying or receiving campaign contributions that have not been accounted for, which charges, it will be recalled, were made by innuendo last winter."

Mrs. Reynolds Granted Divorce and Settlement

Reno, Nev., Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Ann Cannon Reynolds was so seriously ill with a rheumatic affliction today that testimony in her divorce suit against Z. Smith Reynolds, heir to the Reynolds tobacco millions, was presented by deposition and she was granted the decree without appearing in court.

Under the terms of an agreement approved by the court a $500,000 trust fund is to be created for Mrs. Reynolds and another of a like amount for her infant daughter.

Gov. White Backs Plan To Ask Aid for Children

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Gov. George White, of Ohio, agreed today to join with Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania in an appeal to the American Red Cross to use its facilities for the relief of American children affected by unemployment conditions.

The governor, however, declined to limit the appeal to the children of coal miners and at the same time expressed doubt that the Red Cross charter or its present resources would permit general relief.

SUGAR PROFITS REVEALED

actly a case of the Almar corporation being a philanthropist," because the company also made a profit on the deal.

Before this other transaction, Davis in 1926 purchased 830 perefrred and 265 common shares of Celotex stock, another of Dahlberg's organizations, for which he paid $94,775 cash. This stock is now selling way below what the senator paid.

Question About Tip.

Holland told of questioning S. S. Eveland, vice president of one of Dahlberg's companies, on a tip that he knew something about the reports of a $100,000 gift. Eveland said he had heard Dahlberg order $10,000 sent to Davis, but Holland testified he could find no record of it being sent.

The Watson incident was described by Holland briefly this way:

Watson signed two notes of $12,500 each in April, 1928, for 125 shares of each common and preferred in both the Southern Sugar Co. and the South Coast Co., another of Dahlberg's sugar concerns.

Both notes were canceled in 1929 and Watson received 250 shares of common stock in the Dahlberg Corporation of America for each of them. This made a total of 500 shares, which, together with dividend stock, represented a paper profit of $7,905, Holland said.

Letter to Watson.

In a "personal" letter to Watson, explaining the terms of the transaction, Dahlberg said:

"It may be understood that these notes are not to be negotiated, but will be held by myself—Almar & Co. being one of my individual companies—and it may be further understood that if at any time prior to the maturity of the notes, you desire to do so, you have the option of canceling either one or both of the deals, or any part thereof that you may wish."

Senator Walsh questioned Holland closely about whether Dahlberg or Davis engaged in lobbying.

Holland told of a report to Dahlberg from his personal representative in Washington, Dan C. Goodwin, saying he had interviewed members of the Senate and Cabinet in connection with the tariff bill.

Mentioned Seeing Davis.

The report, Holland said, mentioned seeing Davis, but no other member of the Cabinet.

"There was nothing to indicate what transpired," he added.

Two or three instances of correspondence between Davis and Dahlberg also were noted by the witness.

"In no case," Holland said, "did I find any other purchases where no liability was involved."

The investigation will be resumed today.

Talked to Davis by Phone.

Holland quoted Eveland as saying he had heard Dahlberg talk to Davis by telephone and later instruct his secretary, George J. Johnson, to phone Chicago and have the money sent to the senator.

Holland said the Senate campaign expenditures committee had inquired into Eveland's charges. Eveland said Johnson, testifying before that committee, had denied the allegations.

"I did not find record of any money being transferred at any time from Dahlberg or any of his companies to Davis," said Holland.

Walsh asked if Holland had found any correspondence between Dahlberg and Davis indicating lobbying activities.

Holland said he found a letter from Dahlberg to Davis asking him to persuade Glenn B. Skipper, former Republican national committeeman from Florida, to accept an invitation to attend a meeting at Kansas City.

There was no response to his letter, he added.

Lobbying Activities.

Senator Walsh pressed Holland for any information indicating "lobbying activities by Senator Davis." He was a member of the Cabinet when the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill was before Congress.

Holland said he found a report to Dahlberg from his personal representative in Washington, Dan C. Goodwin, stating he had interviewed members of the Senate and Cabinet regarding the tariff bill. The report mentioned seeing Davis.

"Only Davis."

"What did he report on Davis?"

"There was nothing to indicate what transpired."

Holland said he also found a letter from Dahlberg to Davis urging aid in getting a loan from the Federal Farm Board but the records disclosed no reply from Davis.

By buying $94,775 worth of Celotex stock between June, 1926, and April, 1927, paying by checks, Holland said Davis had obtained more liberal terms than smaller purchasers.

It was indicated a selling campaign was on at that time.

Holland testified the record showed "repeated activities of Dahlberg with respect to a sugar tariff as far back as 1927," and Dahlberg had displayed a "continued interest" in obtaining a high sugar tariff.

Dahlberg, he added, was instrumental in getting Skipper to attend tariff conferences at the expense of the Southern Sugar Co.

The witness said the money spent by the sugar tariff advocates was as contributions to associations, attorney fees, advertising and travel expenses.

Sanders Is Mentioned.

Everett Sanders, former secretary to President Coolidge, was described as one of the attorneys employed by Dahlberg.

Holland said a bill for $2,500 was ignored by Dahlberg, who told Sanders he could not recall any such services.

He testified to a number of expenditures by Dahlberg and his corporations toward obtaining a high sugar tariff, among them $2,000 to the American Sugar Cane League and $250 to the Southern Tariff League.

Holland added that an officer of the companies called on Senator Watson and another on Senator Vandenberg (Republican), Michigan, while the tariff bill was under consideration.

In a 1928 letter to Watson Dahlberg sent the Southern Sugar stock and the note to be signed for $12,500. He said the note would be held by his personal corporation, which Watson could cancel at any time prior to maturity.

Watson accepted the terms and thanked Dahlberg.

"The record disclosed nothing was done regarding the date of maturity of either note," Holland said.

Later, Watson wrote Dahlberg saying he was not sure of his holdings in the various companies, and asking the latter "just where I am."

"If Senator Watson had paid off his notes in cash," Holland said, "he would have made a paper profit of $7,343."

Before Dahlberg became connected with the sugar companies, he was a commission expert and got Watson—a member of the Senate interstate commerce committee—to do some work for him in connection with railroad rate cases. Holland said Dahlberg agreed "to give Watson a little something for his time."

"In no case," Holland said, "did I find any other purchases where no liability was involved."

"I went to Mr. Dahlberg and asked him if any purchases were made on the same basis as those by Davis and Senator Watson, without interest and no liability.

Sold Stock to Everybody.

"He was unable to tell me. He said they sold stock to everybody, Democrats and Republicans. He said stock had been sold to Al Smith and Raskob, but didn't think I was interested in that.

"He said they frequently had turned down salesmen who had obtained purchases on the basis of one-third cash."

The committee investigators testified Alfred E. Smith paid $10,000 in 1930 for 100 preferred and 100 common shares of the Southern Sugar Co.; John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, had 552 shares, and Senator Moses Republican), New Hampshire, paid $5,000 cash for 100 shares.

Visited One of Plantations.

Holland said Senator Watson had visited one of the plantations of the Southern Sugar Co., and "efforts were made to get Al Smith to drive a cane harvester as a publicity stunt."

Raskob and others, he said, protested that salesmen were using the fact that prominent men were stockholders as sales argument. Dahlberg assured him this would stop.

Both the South Coast Co. and the Southern Sugar Co. went into receivership, but the Southern has been reorganized.

Davis and Watson secured their notes with the stock they were purchasing, turning the stock back to Dahlberg.

The notes could be canceled at any time, so there was no obligation on the part of the senators if the stock went down in value.

Driver Commits Suicide While Seated on Truck

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Nov. 23—As he sat at the wheel of a coal truck he was employed to drive for the city school board, Thomas McDougal, 39, committed suicide by firing a revolver bullet in the right temple this morning.

The motive is a mystery. The victim, a World War veteran who served overseas, leaves a widow and adopted daughter.

NEW SIX-DAY WEEK DECREED IN RUSSIA

Working Hours Are Reduced to Six to Compensate for Loss of Time Off.

Moscow, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Abandonment of the five-day uninterrupted week, which Soviet Russia adopted throughout the nation last year in an effort to speed up production, and substitution of a six-day interrupted week was authorized tonight by the council of people's commissars.

Working hours were reduced at the same time from six and one-half hours to six hours daily to compensate for the loss of time off.

The measure, which becomes effective December 1, the decree explained, was aimed at "correcting defects" encountered in the uninterrupted week. The action was regarded here as the most important since the introduction of the piece-work system of wages.

The new working week will apply to all enterprises and offices, except those directly connected with serving the cultural and living needs of the population, such as cooperative stores, dining halls and transportation.

One of the most significant features of the new ruling was the introduction of a common day off. Under the five-day week, days off varied according to shifts, individual preferences and industries.

The six-day week will mean five working days and one day off, the latter falling on the sixth, twelfth, eighteenth, twenty-fourth and thirtieth days of each month, corresponding to the customary fixed day off in other countries. The five-day week consisted of four days of work and one day off.

A gradual change to the longer and interrupted week has been in progress for some time in various sections of the country, particularly in the large industrial centers, since Joseph Stalin's speechc last June in which he said a number of faults had been found in the five-day uninterrupted week.

Under this system many factories have operated continuously throughout the week without regard for days off for their labor. As a result conditions bordering on chaos were experienced in numerous departmental bureaus, the authorities found.

SOCIETY

Descendants of President Benjamin Harrison Guests at Tea at White House; Tacky Ball Brilliant Event.

MRS. HOOVER yesterday had a small party for tea, including Mrs. Mary McKee Reisinger, of Greenwich, Conn., her two daughters, Miss Edmee Reisinger and Miss Mary Harrison Reisinger, granddaughter and great-granddaughters of former President Benjamin Harrison and his first wife who was mistress of the White House, and Mrs. Reisinger's cousin, Mrs. Lewis N. Watson, of New York. Mrs. Watson is the granddaughter of the late Dr. Newcomer, of Indianapolis, family physician of former President and Mrs. Harrison. Mrs. Watson also is a cousin of Senator Frederick C. Walcott, of Connecticut, who had a small luncheon for her at the Capitol Saturday.

Mrs. Hoover will receive today the retiring Minister from Ecuador and Senora de Viteri, who will leave Washington December 1 for their home in the southern republic.

Vice President Curtis will give the first of the presidential dinners Tuesday evening, December 8, which will be followed by the members of the Cabinet as hosts to President and Mrs. Hoover on succeeding Tuesdays, according to their order of precedence.

The Secretary of State and Mrs. Henry L. Stimson are guests in whose honor Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Meyer will entertain at dinner on Friday evening, December 18.

The Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Ray Lyman Wilbur left Washington yesterday by motor for Richmond, Va., where the former made an address last evening before the Virginia State Conference on Childhood and Youth. They will return today.

The new Minister and Senora Don Zaldumbide will arrive in New York on November 30 and will come direct to the Capital, and the following day Senor and Senora de Viteri will leave for their home in the southern republic.

Miss Martha Davis To Marry on December 11.

The former Undersecretary of State, Mr. Norman H. Davis, and Mrs. Davis, have issued invitations for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Martha Davis, to Mr. John Fauntleroy Fennelly, of New York, son of Mrs. John Joseph Fennelly, of Kansas City. The ceremony will take place on Friday afternoon, December 11, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Davis in New York, at 59 East Seventy-ninth street, in the presence of only the members of the two families and a few close friends.

The Rev. Dr. Karl Reiland, rector of St. George's Church, will officiate and a reception will follow. Miss Davis will be attended by her sister, Miss Christine Davis, and Mr. Joseph Fennelly will be best man for his brother.

The Italy-American Society will meet Saturday evening in the home of Mrs. Henry F. Dimock at 3 o'clock. Contessa Fanny Ganipini Salazar, noted Italian feminist, founder of the Italo-American Union in Naples, Italy, will speak on "Naples the Beautiful" at 4 o'clock.

Capt. and Mrs. George Toombs announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Helen Rosalie Toombs, to Mr. William Harwood Hooper, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Hooper, of Lockport, N. Y. Mr. Hooper is a graduate of Cornell University and is a member of the New York bar. The wedding will take place in the spring.

Mrs. Victor Kauffmann entertained last night at the dinner dance at the Shoreham in honor of Miss Anne Wyant. Among her guests were Miss Pansy Bloomer, Miss Louise Brooks, Miss Marion Dunlop, Miss Christine Ekengren, Miss Pattie Edmonston, Miss Louise H. Gwynn, Miss Mary E. MacArthur, Miss Frances Mathews, Miss Betty Peelle, Miss Jeanne Richards, Miss Teresa Saul, Miss Elizabeth Shouse, Miss Sidney Thompson, Miss Mary White, Miss Harriet Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Yandes Wheeler, Mr. Courtland Baker, Mr. Clark Brant, Mr. Douglas Bogart, Mr. William C. Cheatham, Mr. Merritt Cootes, Mr. Julien Dickerson, Mr. Tyree Dillard, Mr. Gwynn Gardiner, Mr. Willard Gebhart, Mr. Frank Goodwin, Mr. Henry Bell Gwynn, Mr. Jack Hayes, Mr. Frederick Hunt, Mr. Daniel Long, Mr. Jack Mustard, Mr. Douglass Phillips, Mr. Dan Partridge, Mr. William Stanley, Mr. Waverley Taylor, Mr. Roy Von Lewinski and Mr. Kenneth Watson.

Brilliant and Unusual Gowns at Tacky Ball.

The second annual "tacky ball" was given last evening at the Mayflower by the debutantes of other years in honor of this season's buds Mrs. William Laird Dunlop, jr., sponsored the affair and received the guests with Miss Sidney Thomas, chairman of the ball for this year's debutantes, and Miss Ruth Bryant, chairman for the "girls on the shelf."

Mrs. Dunlop in the spirit of the party wore a mid-Victorian gown of cream lace and satin, and Miss Thomas wore brilliant pajamas, a scarlet beret with a long pink feather. Miss Bryant was in an outlandish costume appropriate for the occasion.

The orchestra which punctuated the dance music with Virginia reels, barn dances and polkas, was in costume representing a village orchestra, and the entire ballroom was decorated to represent the dance floor at a county fair.

The refreshments were also in keeping with the county fair atmosphere of the party, with hugh iron caldron of hot dogs, galvanied pots of steaming coffee, mounds of potato salad, dill pickles and other such things placed on long buffet tables. Barrels of water and cider stood around the room and tin dippers were provided for drinking.

The party was one of the gayest of the season, and if the debutantes had a delightful time, the "girls on the shelf" had even a better evening.

A number of merry little dinner parties preceded the ball, among the hosts being Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Brooks, for their debutante daughter, Miss Frances Brooks; Col. and Mrs. Henry Gibbins, for their daughter, Miss Margaret Gibbins, and Miss Betty West, who entertained in honor of Miss Ella Sandberg.

Miss Castanedo to Make Bow in New Orleans.

Miss Fenella Castanedo, daughter of Mrs. Lutz Wahl, wife of the late Brig. Gen. Lutz Wahl, will make her bow to society in New Orleans in January. Miss Castanedo was presented to Washington society by her mother at a tea yesterday afternoon, when a distinguished group of Army women assembled at the home of Mrs. Wahl in Connecticut avenue for the fete.

Mrs. Frederick H. Payne, wife of the Assistant Secretary of War, and Mrs. Ernest Lee Jahncke, wife of the Assistant Secretary of the Navy, assisted the hostess. Others assisting were Mrs. John W. Gulick, Mrs. Hugh A. Drum, Mrs. Charles H. Bridges, Mrs. Harry G. Bishop, Mrs. Arthur MacArthur, Mrs. William D. Connor, Mrs. James F. McKinley, Mrs. Melville S. Jarvis, Mrs. John W. Greenslade, Mrs. Donald Sawyer, Mrs. James D. Steele, Mrs. J. Brook Shuman, Mrs. Martin Shallenberger, Mrs. Herbert Outwater and Miss Mary Shick.

Mrs. Wahl and Miss Castanedo received the guests alone, the former wearing a gown of black velvet made with a long flaring skirt and short sleeves. She wore a corsage bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley. Miss Castanedo wore a frock of lace in a deep shade of rose, fashioned with a long full skirt and a bodice which was finished with a deep cape collar. She carried talisman roses.

The drawing rooms were decorated with talisman roses, ferns and palms, the two tones of the roses being carried out in appointments for the tea table. Miss Castanedo was assisted by a group of debutantes and by Miss Lucette Colvin, of New York, who is her house guest. In the group of Washington girls were Miss Rose Walker Page, Miss Winifred Jacobs, Miss Anne Moore Wyant, Miss Atlee Wirgman, Miss Mary Elizabeth MacArthur, Miss Jane Thorpe, Miss Caroline Schulz, Miss Dorothy Gould Fowler, Miss Betsy Berrien, Miss Laurie Katherine Field, Miss Margaret Gibbins, Miss Pansy Bloomer, Miss Marbury Beall, Miss Caroline Chantry and Miss Katharine Brown.

Engagement Announced Of Lady Moira Forbes.

An announcement has been made in London of the engagement of Lady Moira Forbes, daughter of the Earl and Countess of Granard and granddaughter of the late Mr. Ogden L. Mills, to the Marquis de Brissac, elder son of the Duc de Brissac of Paris.

Lady Moira's mother, the Countess of Granard, is the former Miss Beatrice Mills, daughter of the late Ogden Mills, of New York and Staatsburg, N. Y. Lady Moira's uncle is Mr. Ogden L. Mills, Undersecretary of the United States Treasury, and her aunt is Mrs. Henry Carnegie Phipps, of New York and Palm Beach. Lady Moira has two brothers, Viscount Forbes and the Hon. John Forbes, and one sister, Lady Eileen Beatrice Forbes.

Lady Moira's father, the Earl of Granard, is deputy speaker of the House of Lords and master of the horse.

Announcement was made from London on October 30 last that a marriage had been arranged between Lady Eileen Beatrice Forbes and John Crichton-Stuart, the Earl of Dumfries and eldest son of the Marquess of Bute.

Roland, the Marquis de Brissac is the elder son and heir of the eleventh Duc de Brissac and is well known in Paris society and sport circles. He is 33 years old, his mother being the Duc de Brissac's first wife, Mathilde Renee de Crussol d'Uzes. He has traveled extensively and is well known in England. His clubs include the Bois de Boulogne, Cercle Hoche and Jockey. His father had a distinguished World War record as chef d'escardrons of the Eighth Hussars and was thrice decorated for valor.

The De Brissac family homes are the famous seventeenth century Chateau de Brissac (Maine et Loire) and 60 Avenue Foch, Paris. The Marquis de Brissac has an elder sister, Francoise, the wife of Gaston, Vicomte de Luppe, and a younger brother, Pierre, Comte de Cosse-Brissac.

The lineage of Brissac dates from the fifteenth century, when the noble French family of Cosse acquired the fief of Brissac in Anjou. In 1560 Brissac became a countship under the artilleryman, Charles de Cosse, governor of Piedmont and of Picardy under Charles IX. Henry IV created the second Charles de Cosse as a marshal of France in 1594. Brissac became a duchy in the peerage of France in 1611, early in the reign of Louis XIII.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Montgomery are in Atlantic City.

Miss Lina Macatee has gone to New York where she will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Silkman Repplier.

Mr. and Mrs. George J. Franklin, of London, England, spent several days at the Fairfax Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin G. Hayden, of Chicago, Ill., formerly of Washington, spent several days at the Hamilton Hotel on their way to New York. They will sail on November 24 for Paris.

Maj. Gen. H. C. Hale is the guest of Maj. and Mrs. Mark E. Guerin at their home, 2540 Massachusetts avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Jones and their daughter, Mrs. Theodore Dent, of Leonardtown, Md., have taken an apartment at the Cavalier for the season.

Miss Elizabeth King Neill, daughter of Mrs. J. E. Neill, was included in the honorable mention list of the class of 1934, which was read in Memorial Chapel on Honors Day, celebrated at Wellesley College Tuesday afternoon, November 17, with a formal academic assembly and an address by President J. Edgar Park, of Wheaton College.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Johnson have motored to Washington from their home in Columbus, Ohio, and are stopping at the Carlton.

The opening social affair of the season to be held under the direction of the newly elected officers of the New England States Society will be

What Today Means to You

"SAGITTARIUS."

IF November 24 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:30 a. m. to 9 a. m. and from 2:30 p. m. to 4 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 12:45 p. m., 5 p. m. to 6:30 p. m. and from 10 p. m. to 11:15 p. m.

The effect of astrological conditions on November 24 will not be generally good. Romantic, but unstable, attachments will be formed. Various opportunities for advancement in either a social or business way will be offered, but insurmountable obstacles will prevent their acceptance. Only that travel which is necessary should be taken.

November 24 will give the child born on this date too much independence, inducing a tendency to become reckless and rebellious. The love of travel, science and literature is shown. It will possess courage and will be relentlessly persevering. Honors are shown in its school work, in more than one subject. Its affectional nature will be somewhat suppressed.

An astrological analysis of the man or woman born on November 24 reveals an unusual character, with traits which are contradictory to each other. Many of your strong and pleasing qualities are overshadowed by conspicuously weak or unpleasant ones.

Your geniality and friendliness make you a most approachable person and a ready mixer. For the sake of momentary popularity, however, you often abandon complete sincerity. Exaggeration is one of your weaknesses, and one which will grow upon you. Confidences are given you without the asking, but you are not "confidence proof." Although not intentionally malicious, you love to fill a curious ear with tales of interest. You unthinkingly make promises which can not be fulfilled. You do and say things on the impulse of the moment which cause a series of future regrets. In other words, you are always "putting your foot in it," and do not know how to pull it out gracefully. When things go wrong, you easily lose your head and also your temper.

You are a clever worker, but not an energetic one, and you do not love any work for its own sake. Your ambitions, however, will never permit an easy life, for you are too fond of the fleshpots not to go after them.

You have an intense love nature, and you will probably seek in vain for your ideal affinity. You demand more from others than you are willing to give in return. You love to be loved, but you seldom give a selfless love to any one.

Successful people born on November 24:

David Hayes Agnew, surgeon.
Cyrus C. Carpenter, representative.
Cass Gilbert, architect.
Grace Darling, lighthouse keeper.
Frances Hodgson Burnett, author.
Harry Thurston Peck, educator.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

INFANTILE PARALYSIS.

THE 1931 epidemic season for infantile paralysis has passed and, if the disease runs true to form, there will be but little of it anywhere until next summer; and those sections that have localized epidemics this year will be relatively free from it for a few years. However, there will be other communities in which the subject will be a live one for several months next summer. It is well, therefore, not to put it entirely out of mind.

The fall finds us with several advances in our knowledge of the disease and certain other promising leads. Infantile paralysis starts as an infection that does not involve the central nervous system. During this stage there is a moderate fever and a certain amount of digestive disturbance, sometimes constipation and diarrhea are present.

There is one symptom, or group of symptoms, that causes one to suspect infantile paralysis. The child is drowsy, as is not the case with a simple indigestion; there is a furtive expression about the eyes, and fondling and handling cause pain and irritability. The eyes indicate that the child senses danger, or else he is on guard to prevent if possible the pain caused by being handled. If a spinal puncture is made at this time the fluid is negative.

Then the temperature falls to normal and the symptoms disappear. This is the period of latency, which may last for several hours only or for a few days. Next follows a period of trembling. It should be watched for carefully, as it is highly diagnostic. Later comes the period of muscle weakness and, still later, that of muscle shrinking.

It is just before the onset of the period of trembling that the spinal fluid undergoes changes that prove the case to be one of infantile paralysis, and it is in just this period when the spinal fluid is changing, and just before trembling begins, that the curative serum should be used. This indicates that the time to watch the child closest and to make spinal punctures is during the latent period. The serum is very potent then. It is only moderately curative after the stage of trembling has begun, and it does little good after the onset of muscle weakness.

Among the leads that developed during this epidemic were the following: Kendall thinks the use of this medium may make it possible for laboratories to grow the microbe cause. There is more than a possibility that the convalescent serum made from animals will replace that drawn from human beings. There is a possibility that serum drawn from any adult, as well as that from adults who had the disease 10 to 50 years earlier, may be effective as a curative agent. There is a possibility that out of the present studies a protective vaccine for immunization may be developed. There is a possibility of signs by which we can judge which children are prone to the paralysis type of infection and which are in little danger of having infantile paralysis affect the spinal cord.

Jane Interprets the Mode

New York, Nov. 23.

EVEN if your very best friend had a decided penchant for lipsticks, you wouldn't give her just one this Christmas, now would you? I mean to say, the idea of one lipstick today is simply archaic, and any one who knows about such things would no more think of providing her fair lips with just one color of lipstick than she would think of buying one pair of calfskin oxfords to wear with dresses for all occasions!

A leading manufacturer of beauty products realized recently that the really smart woman was the one who varied her makeup not only to suit daylight and artificial light, but to suit moods of many sorts, and costumes of assorted colors. And the result was that this manufacturer now sells a set of lipsticks—six in a box, and each one designed for specific occasions and to be used with frocks of specific colors. I'll tell you more about the colors of the lipsticks and the clothes they accompany in a day or so!

And because a set of six lipsticks in a box with a compartment for each would be not too interesting if they were all dressed alike, each lipstick has a case of an entirely different color as well as a romantic name. If you're in a hurry to know which lipstick to use, the colors of the cases help you out and save needless fumbling.

Altogether, that was my idea of something new in ensembles, and it just seemed so perfectly what a lovely lady would like in the way of a Christmas gift, among other things, that I just had to write and tell you about it. Where to find it? Well, I should think any good store will know what you mean when you ask to see a lipstick ensemble of six different lipsticks in a box!

* * * *

Violet always and everywhere seems to be the case just now, my dears! But who cares? It's a perfectly fascinating color and so becoming to many lovely ladies! And when it's made up into an afternoon frock as delightful as the one from Martial et Armand, which I have sketched today, it's practically irresistible! This frock is of satin, and more blue than violet if the truth be known, and is a splendid example of how numerous unusual details may be harmoniously combined.

Let's look at it from the front first! The neck is square, the sleeves attached to a deep square shoulder yoke, plain and tight, and enhanced by a row of tiny satin-covered buttons. And the hip yoke, snug and with inverted tucks, ends in a short, flaring peplum!

But now, let's see the back of the frock which was so interesting that I illustrated it, too. The hip yoke ends in a softly tied sash, and below the peplum there is a sort of a tunic overskirt, draped and pleated into a most demure long basque effect. The demureness is in no way lessened by the row of buttons, also satin-covered, right down the middle of the back!

If you can combine quaint details in as lovely a way as this, go ahead—but you can see for yourself that it takes a master hand to attain the proper harmony.

S'posin' I promised you that you would enjoy making a certain negligee; s'posin' I promised you that it would be a success whether you knew how to sew or not, and s'posin' that I also promised you that it was as interesting and graceful flattering a negligee as any that you could buy for any price? Wouldn't you be at least interested enough to send a stamped, self-adressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet that told you how to make it? Christmas is coming, and here is just exactly the gift you wish to make for some one, I know; some one who rates a $35 present, yet which will cost you $5 or $6 to make!

Au revoir!

Indoor—Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me how to care for an impatience plant. I have one in a south window, in a moderately heated room. The plant is growing very large, but the branches are frail. Should I keep it in the shade or do you think the soil is too rich? I have charcoal in the bottom of the pot. Will you also tell me the name of the inclosed leaf? A number of my neighbors have this plant and want to know the name of it. MISS E. E. F.

An impatience plant requires a warm, sunny location and plenty of water. You have it in the proper location. Try sprinkling some bonemeal over the soil or give it some stimulation in the form of liquid mandre. It demands water every day. The twigs you inclosed were from the sedum acre.

I wish to know what is the matter with my ferns. I repotted them last year and they looked so nice. Every winter when I bring them into the house they become diseased, brown spots come on the under surface of the leaves and they soon have to be cut off. MARGARET N. L.

The brown spots on the under surface of the leaves may be spore cases and not disease. These are really the seed cases of the plants. They form in regular formation on the under surface of the fronds. They are quite different from scale, which forms on the midribs of the leaves. Ferns soon resent the warm, dry atmosphere of the house. It is well to keep all plants of this variety in a room where there is a pan of water on the radiator. Water the plants often enough to keep all the soil in the pots moist, but never so wet that it is the consistency of mud. Be sure to ventilate the rooms where you have any growing plants at least once a day.

I have a bed of pansies that have done so wonderfully well this last season. Is there any way to winter them in the open? I have no cold-frame or hotbed. MARY H. L.

Cover the plant with evergreen boughs and then spread a light covering of leaves over the bed where they are planted. The evergreen boughs are used to keep the leaves from drifting too close to the roots of the plants and becoming a decayed mass.

Kindly let me know how to care for canna roots over the winter. MRS. HANEY S.

Common tall cannas are easily wintered in a warm cellar. The large orchid-flowered cannas are much more difficult to winter and are very apt to dry rot under the most favorable circumstances. They should be examined occasionally and, if they seem too dry, should be sprinkled with water.

Thanksgiving Recipes.

Fruit Cocktail for 12.

2 cups diced pineapple
2 cups diced grapefruit
2 cups seeded white cherries
1 cup diced oranges
2 cups fruit juices
4 tablespoons lemon juice
½ cup sugar.

Mix fruit juices, lemon juice and sugar. Boil 1 minute. Cool. Add fruits. Chill. Serve in glass cups.

Savory Dressing.

(For 8 pound turkey)

5 cups bread crumbs
½ cup butter, melted
1½ teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons chopped raw bacon
2 tablespoons chopped celery
2 tablespoons chopped onions
1 teaspoon poultry seasoning
¼ teaspoon paprika.

Cranberry Relish Sauce.

6 cups berries
3 cups water
1 cup chopped celery
½ cup chopped raisins
¼ teaspoon salt
3 cups sugar.

Thoroughly look over berries. Add water. Cover and cook 5 minutes. Add rest of ingredients. Remove lid and boil vigorously 6 minutes. Pour into small molds which have been rinsed out in cold water. Set in cold place to stiffen. Unmold and serve.

Cauliflower, Holiday Style.

1 large cauliflower
1 teaspoon salt.

Remove leaves from cauliflower. Soak 10 minutes in water to which 2 tablespoons of vinegar have been added. Wash well. Steam until tender. Sprinkle with salt. Place in baking dish and cover with sauce.

Sauce.

4 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
3 cups milk
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
2-3 cup pimento cheese.

Melt butter and add flour. Blend and add milk and cook until creamy sauce forms. Stir constantly. Add rest of ingredients and mix well. Pour on cauliflower. Bake 10 minutes.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By ELY CULBERTSON

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

161.

TAKE TWO MINUTES NOW.

DOWN in the Mexican oil fields centering around Tampico, there are some very keen Contract players, and one of the notable students of the game there is Mr. E K. O'Brien, to whom I am indebted for the hand which is the text of today's article.

Mr. O'Brien, in sending the hand, stated that he failed to make game, but that after going to bed he mulled over the distribution and in two minutes saw how the contract could have been made against any defense. Therein is a very fine lesson for every player at the Contract table; that is, do your thinking when you can convert your thoughts into the contract-making trick.

Both sides vulnerable.
South—Dealer.

The Bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♠	2♣	2♡	Pass
2NT	3♣	3♡	Pass
4♡	Pass	Pass	Dbl.
Pass	5♣	Pass	Pass
Dbl.	Pass	Pass	Pass

West, although his partner had maintained continuous silence, had reached a contract of five clubs, which was doubled by South. South had opened the bidding with one spade, North had bid hearts, and South had assisted that contract to four, after showing a stopper in the club suit by bidding two notrump.

North opened the King of hearts and when the Dummy went down it was apparent that only the most accurate play could make the contract. The location of the King of diamonds and the King of clubs was plainly marked. South must hold these cards to justify the Opening bid of one spade, vulnerable. To make the bid, therefore, required two entries in the Dummy. How were these to be obtained? Mr. O'Brien did not find the solution in play, but I am sure that the readers of this article, if they will devote sufficient study to the hands given above, will reach it.

I will assume now a sufficient time given to the play of the hand and, in order that you may see I have reached the same conclusion as you, I will indicate my line of play.

The first round of hearts, of course, is ruffed in the closed hand. The second and key play of the entire hand is now up to the Declarer. The choice of the lead upon which his contract depends is before him. Under these conditions, I would lead the Queen of clubs, hoping that the clubs were divided two in each hand and that South would thus be compelled to win a trump trick at once. The readers will observe that this situation develops exactly as I planned. South must either take the club trick now or give it up forever. His choice is not a difficult one as tricks are very vital when he knows there are none obtainable in the heart suit, and his King of diamonds may well fall prey to the Declarer's Ace. South, therefore, must win the club trick and his correct return is a heart, which is trumped by the Declarer.

A trump is now led to the Dummy and the Knave holds the trick. The 2 of diamonds is led and the diamond finessed. When the finesse wins, the Declarer can not sacrifice his remaining entry in Dummy to lead a second round through South's King. The apparent distribution of the South hand is four hearts, five spades, two clubs and two diamonds. One of the diamonds is certainly the King. West, therefore, now lays down the Ace of diamonds and the King falls. The remaining diamond honor picks up North's last diamond and the nine spot of diamonds in Dummy affords a second entry to the hand.

Now a spade is led and it is immaterial how South plays. If he plays the Ace, West, of course, plays low. If he plays any other card of the suit, West plays the King, concedes a spade trick and makes his contract of five-odd.

The hand is both unusual and extremely interesting because its success depends entirely upon the factor of time—in other words, upon compelling South to win the first and not the second round of trumps.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Question: What inferences may be drawn from forcing bids?

Answer: That the bidder sees game and possibility of Slam if partner has additional values.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS.

Exaggerated Timidity.

Question: North and South are vulnerable and have 40 on rubber game. South bid two hearts.

North held:
Spades A Q J 9 8 6
Hearts —
Diamonds A J 10 9 7 6
Clubs 9 •

South held:
Spades x x x
Hearts A K J 10 x x
Diamonds K x
Clubs A K

North bid three spades, South three hearts, North four diamonds, South four notrump.

Even though the hands made five no trump South criticized North for bidding at all. Please give your opinion on this very interesting hand. I was playing North and felt that we had Slam possibilities and we would have made Small Slam in spades as the King lay West two deep. The diamond Queen was four deep on the East.

Answer: The hand is an almost sure Small Slam in spades which should be arrived at without much difficulty (after North has shown two strong suits, South could raise the spades, although holding slightly below adequate trump support, in view of his powerful outside holding). South's criticism is entirely unjustified.

Response to Opening Two Notrump Bid.

Question: North dealt and bid two notrump. (Not vulnerable and no part-score.) South holds:

Spades J
Hearts J 10 9 8 7
Diamonds J x x x
Clubs x x x

What should he bid and why?

Answer: Although ordinarily a two notrump bid should not be raised or taken out with less than 1 honor-trick, the unbalanced distribution of the hand makes a bid of three hearts advisable. This bid should still be safe especially holding touching cards from the Knave down and four hearts might even be made if partner's hand is very strong.

Procedure After Overcall of Partner's Opening Two-Bid.

Question: Must partner respond to an Opening two-bid even though there be an intervening bid?

Answer: An intervening bid to the left of a player opening with a two-bid releases his partner from any obligation to respond on that round. He should not make any call with less than 1 honor-trick unless holding a distributional Raise, which might be given under those circumstances. For instance, South two hearts; West two spades; North holding:

Spades x
Hearts J x x x x
Diamonds K 10 x x
Clubs x x x

could bid three hearts. A pass will be the most eloquent way of showing a weak hand.

S. O. S. and Penalty Doubles.

Question: When is a Redouble made by the Opening bidder over an adverse Takeout Double intended to penalize the opponents or to score game and when is it meant as an S O S?

Answer:

South	West	North	East
1NT or 1 heart	Pass	Pass	Dbl.
Redbl.

In this situation the Redouble by South is not a cry for help, but rather an attempt to score at a low contract or penalize the opponents if they bid. The reason is obvious. Partner (North) still has an opportunity to bid if the Double is left in by West and his hand should be totally unsuited for South's bid, but offers a comparatively safe rescue.

South	West	North	East
1NT or 1 heart	Dbl.	Pass	Pass
Redbl.

This time the Redouble is an S O S, showing an evenly balanced hand and requesting partner (North) to takeout in his best suit. Both opponents have shown strength and if South passes North will have no opportunity to bid a weak five or six card suit. His first pass was made without knowledge that the Double would be left in and merely denied Takeout values, which, however, does not necessarily mean that some other bid is not safer if South has a weak notrump or only four cards in hearts with the trumps bunched against him.

SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

held at Meridian Mansions Hotel this evening from 9:30 to 1 o'clock. A short program of entertainment will be furnished and the remainder of the evening devoted to dancing. The entertainment committee will be under the direction of Mrs. Lena Dakin Gibbs. The executive chairman is Mr. Lawrence Moran. Miss Dorothy Sinnott will be the guest soloist accompanied by Miss Willa Semple.

Mr. Elmer E. Field extends an invitation to all natives of New England to attend the function.

Mr. and Mrs. Trow Seabree, of Cincinnati, Ohio, are at the Carlton for a few days, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. George W. Haldeman, of Wheeling, W. Va.

Miss Margaret Warner, who was formerly vice consul to Geneva, is at the Mayflower. Miss Warner has been at her home in Lincoln, Mass., since the latter part of August.

Miss Helen Stone
Bride of Lieut. Theimer.

A beautiful wedding and one of much interest in Army circles was that of Miss Helen Stone, daughter of Col. David L. Stone, Infantry, U. S. A., and Lieut. John Eliot Theimer, 18th F. A., U. S. A., which took place November 21 at the Old Post Chapel, Fort Sill, Okla., with Chaplin Edward L. Branham, officiating. Palms and autumn leaves decorated the historical old chapel and white cathedral lights the altar. Mrs. W. W. Belcher played the wedding music.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of deep ivory satin made along princess lines with a cowl neck and long, tight-fitting sleeves. With an ivory tulle she wore a lovely lace veil worn by her mother and carried a prayer book with a shower of lilies of the valley.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Mark A. Devine, jr., sister of the bride, and the maid of honor, Miss Mary Theimer, sister of the groom. The bridesmaids were Mrs. David S. Rumbough and Mrs. Stephen Y. McGiffert. The bride's attendants wore dresses of eggshell and brown velvet and blue velvet. Their hats, gloves and shoes in brown were alike and they carried russet chrysanthemums.

Lieut. David F. Brown acted as best man for the groom and the ushers were Capt. David S. Rumbough, Capt. W. Mason Wright, Lieut. Stephen Y. McGiffert, Lieut. Olaf H. Kyster, jr., Lieut. Carl H. Jark, Lieut Eleazar Parmly 3d, Lieut. John S. Walker and Lieut. Luster A. Vickery. After the ceremony the ushers formed an arch of sabers under which the bride and groom passed.

After the reception, Lieut. and Mrs. Theimer left for a wedding trip to Monterey, Mexico. Upon their return they will be at home at Fort Sill, Okla., where Lieut. Theimer is stationed.

In addition to those in the bridal party, Col. Stone, from Fort Snelling, Minn., father of the bride, and Mrs. Mark A. Devine, jr., from Providence, R. I., sister of the bride, and Miss Mary Theimer, from Owatonna, Minn., sister of the groom. Other members of the two families here for the wedding were Mrs. K. P. Theimer, from Owatonna, Minn., mother of the bridegroom, and Mr. David Stone, from Princeton University, brother of the bride.

Miss Bertha Letvin
Wed to Herman Becker.

The marriage of Miss Bertha Letvin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Letvin, and Mr. Herman Becker took place Saturday afternoon at the residence of Rabbi Abram Simon, of 3722 Harrison street northwest, the rabbi officiating. The bride was accompanied by Mrs. B. Erlebacher, as matron of honor, and Mr. Louis Goldstone, of Baltimore, was best man.

The bride wore an ensemble of Patou brown with all the details of toilet corresponding, and Mrs. Erlebacher wore black velvet.

After a wedding journey Mr. and Mrs. Becker will return to Washington and will be temporarily at home at the Carlton.

Miss Margaret Joe Helmers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Helmers, of Kansas City, Mo., who is attending Skidmore College, Saratoga Springs, N. Y., will be the guest of her cousins, Capt. and Mrs. Desmond O'Keefe, during the Thanksgiving holidays. Miss Helmers is the niece of the late Chaplain T. P. O'Keefe.

Mrs. John W. Dwight has returned after a year's absence in California and is at the Mayflower.

Mrs. William Sawtelle Kilmer will entertain at tea Sunday December 13, at her home, 4440 Reservoir road, in honor of Miss Dorothy Gould Fowler, a debutante.

Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Dawes, of Marietta, Ohio, are at the Willard. Mr. Dawes is a brother of the Ambassador to the Court of St. James, Mr. Charles G. Dawes.

Mrs. Raymond T. Baker will make her debut as a pianist at the Arts Club, where she will give a recital on Friday evening, December 4, at 8:30 o'clock.

Epiphany Church Home
Ball on Friday.

The second annual Epiphany Church Home Ball will be held at the Mayflower Friday evening. The Vice President and Mrs. Gann will be the honor guests and will be escorted to their box at 11:15 by the floor committee. Among the box holders are the Secretary of the Treasury, the Assistant Secretary of War and Mrs. Payne, the Bishop of Washington and Mrs. Freeman, the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Ze Barney Phillips, Mrs. Jacob Leander Loose, Mrs. Herbert J. Slocum and Miss M. Y. Wheeler.

Among those who have bought tickets in the boxes are Mrs. B. H. Buckingham, Dr. and Mrs. John W. Burke, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Droop, Mr. and Mrs. H. Rozier Dulaney, jr., Mr. and Mrs. Strickland Gillilan, Mrs. McCormick-Goodhart, sr., Dr. and Mrs. John Minor, Mrs. W. Wentworth Peirce, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Remey, Mrs. Rust Smith, Mrs. E. J. Stellwagen and Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Williamson.

The Kentucky Society of Washington will open its series of balls at the Willard tonight. The opening ball will be preceded by a reception at 8:15 p. m., when the officers of the society will receive the company. Among the box holders for the season are:

Mr. and Mrs. Jouett Shouse, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Morrow, Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Lucas, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Thatcher, Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Horgan, Mr. and Mrs. James Stone, Mr. and Mrs. Millard West, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Henry, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Savage, Mrs. Mattie Porter, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Boles, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Tackett, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Boyle, Judge and Mrs. Robert Woolley, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Miller, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Likens, Col. and Mrs. Allen Gullion, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Simpich, Mr. and Mrs. Grigsby, Miss Mary Pile and Miss Gladys Wood.

During the evening the society will be entertained by a distinguished Russian pianist, Tamara Dmitrieff, of the Washington College of Music, and Betty Gray, soprano, accompanied by Victor Neal.

The annual Thanksgiving dinner dance will be held at the University Club this evening. Special arrangements are in charge of the dance committee, of which Mr. Waverly Taylor, jr., is chairman. Reservations have been made for over 100 guests.

WILD BALLOON RIDE IN STORM NARRATED

Clevelander Tells of Being Lost in Blizzard Over Canadian Forests.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Completely recovered from the effects of a thrilling 430 mile balloon flight from Cleveland to the wilderness north of Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, George Vanik, 25-year-old Cleveland balloonist, arrived here today with a story of having been buffeted by Lake Huron blizzards and menaced by roving timber wolves.

Vanik landed in the woods near Dean Lake, Ontario, Friday morning. He left Cleveland at 8:30 p. m., Thursday, passed over Sarnia, Ontario, two hours later and then lost all sight of land. Driven north over Lake Huron by blizzards, he apparently passed over some of the islands which fringe Georgian Bay before reaching the Canadian mainland.

"I came down in a tree," Vanik told the Associated Press. "I was pretty badly shaken. I thought I was somewhere near Alpena."

Vanik described the flight as "tough." He said he tossed out all but five bags of ballast to keep altitude when ice and sleet began to weigh down the balloon. Part of the time he huddled under a blanket with his altimeter while the balloon rocketed along in the blizzard.

"I took a short nap after I landed," Vanik said. "I woke up once to see what looked like a dog nearby. I called out but the dog turned out to be a wolf. I had nothing but a case knife but I got that out in case that wolf came back."

Late Friday Vanik started to hike through the woods to a settlement. Twenty-four hours later he collapsed in a road near a farmer's cabin and was taken in and fed.

Vanik said he did not plan to salvage the 35,000 cubic foot balloon as it was practically a total loss. It belonged to George Hineman, his flying compansion since their university days, he said.

Barons Daughter 111 Years Old.

Ballymanscanlon, County Louth, Ireland, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Katherine Plunket, daughter of the second Baron Plunket, celebrated her 111th birthday yesterday. Sir Walter Scott, a friend of her father, used to bounce her on his knee when she was a child.

10 MEN REINDICTED IN HARLAN SLAYINGS

Coal Fields Murder Charges Transferred to Another County for Trial.

Mount Sterling, Ky., Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Reindicted after murder charges previously against them had been quashed, ten Harlan County men tonight awaited the beginning of their trials in Montgomery Circuit Court, where they were transferred from Harlana County on a change of venue.

The first of the ten to be tried is W. B. Jones, secretary of the local miners' union at Evarts, where four men were killed last May 5 in a fight between deputy sheriffs and miners.

A legal maneuver by the prosecution over the strenuous objection of the defense resulted in the switching of the indictments. The new indictments, returned by a Montgomery County jury which had been in recess status, charge the ten men with murder and conspiracy.

Four Face Other Charges.

In addition, four of the defendants, Jones, W. M. Hightower, president of the local union at Evarts, and Asa Cuisick and Al Benson, former Evarts police officials face charges of aiding and abetting.

The other six defendants, miners, are Jim Reynolds, Floyd Murphy, F. M. Bratcher, Bill Turpin, Bill Hudson and Otto Mills.

All the charges were based on the killing of Deputy Sheriffs James Daniels and Otto Lee and a commissary clerk, Howard Jones, in the Evarts fight. A coal miner was killed in the same clash.

Defense Wins Move.

The prosecution was successful in having the original Harlan County indictments quashed on the ground that in several instances they were returned individually or in small groups instead of bringing all the charges under a blanket instrument.

The defense today won its move to try each case separately, and the Commonwealth elected to try Jones first. Judge Henry Prewitt adjourned court this afternoon until tomorrow morning to allow both sides to confer with witnesses.

Meanwhile, in Harlan Circuit Court, Judge D. C. Jones today continued until the March term a number of murder and criminal syndicalism cases resulting from the labor troubles. The defendants all are out on bond.

$40,000,000 in Service Loans Sold in Canada

Montreal, Quebec, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Sale of more than $40,000,000 of the $150,000,000 national service loan within a few hours after it was offered was announced tonight by the general management committee. As the first report included only incomplete subscriptions from some of the larger cities, the committee expected the total issue would be sold promptly, or oversubscribed.

The loan was offered in issues maturing in five and ten years, each bearing 5 per cent interest. The five-year bonds were offered at 99¼ and the ten-year bonds at 99.

Indian Indicted as Girl's Slayer.

Tucson, Ariz., Nov. 23 (A.P.).—The Federal grand jury returned an indictment here today charging Mac (Golney) Seymour, 22, Indian, with the murder of Henrietta Schmerler, Columbia University student, on the White River-Apache reservation last July.

Bird and Potatoes Herald White House Thanksgiving

(Associated Press.)

If anything is lacking from President Hoover's Thanksgiving dinner table it won't be lots of turkey and it won't be plenty of potatoes.

An extra large helping of both, in fact, a growing 30 pounds of one and a full 40 bushels of the other arrived at the White House yesterday in what might be called their native state. Appropriate ceremonies attended each gift.

The potatoes came from Maine. They were borne in a massive, century-old cart, drawn by two prize oxen, guided by the expert goad of young Len Hawkes, of Cumberland Center. With him was Frank P. Washburn, Maine State commissioner of agriculture, who explained they came as a gift from the growers of his State and Gov. Gardiner.

"Our hope is that you may enjoy some of these personally," said Washburn, bowing to the President.

"Thank you very much," Mr. Hoover replied. "Why, I believe we have enough potatoes to last the entire winter."

The presentation proved a happy time all around. The President smiled and exclaimed, "Well," as he stepped onto the south lawn and saw the curious ox cart. He patted the oxen, picked up and examined a potato or two and chatted with young Len.

"How long did it take you to drive the oxen down here from Maine?" he asked.

"About two weeks," Hawkes replied, explaining that part of the journey had been made in motor trucks that picked up both oxen and cart.

Senators Hale and White also shook hands with Hawkes, asking about his father and his home.

Less Fanfare surrounded the turkey's arrival. It was presented by Mrs. E. C. Taft and Thomas L. Himelright, of Martinsburg, W. Va., on behalf of the Berkeley County Turkey Growers Association.

For his part, the bird behaved like a veteran. While cameras clicked in front of the White House, it perked a red-crested head first on one side and then the other.

RITES FOR DR. SMALL SET FOR TOMORROW

Noted Editor and Evangelist Will Have Full Military Honors at Arlington.

Funeral services for Dr. Samuel White Small, of Atlanta and Washington, founder of the Norfolk Pilot and for more than 50 years an editorial writer and political commentator for the Atlanta Constitution, will be held at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning at Arlington National Cemetery.

Dr. Small, who died Saturday morning in Atlanta, was in his eighty-first year. Soldier, evangelist and journalist, he was one time confidential secretary to former President Andrew Johnson, whom he followed through his post-presidential campaigns to the Senate.

Resided Near Washington.

In recent years Dr. Small has remained much at Washington and at his home, Casa Selva, at Clarendon, 6 miles from the Capital. Until recently he edited the "Looking and Listening" column appearing in the Constitution.

Dr. Small, whose activities ranged all the way from an editotr of a country newspaper to that of lecturer, evangelist, journalist and political sage, was a chaplain with the rank of captain in the Spanish-American War, and at the time of his death was national chaplain for the Spanish-American War Veterans.

His body arrived here from Atlanta yesterday, and rested last night at the funeral parlors of Joseph Gawler. It will be cremated today. Services at Arlington tomorrow will be with military honors.

Leaves Son and Other Kin.

Dr. Small is survived by one son, Sam Small, jr., of Los Angeles, Calif.; one brother, Frank A. Small, of Lake Worth, Fla.; five sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Craven, of Washington, D. C.; Mrs. W. J. Speer, of Atlanta; Mrs. Laura J. Cochran, of Lake Worth, Fla.; Mrs. A. T. McDonough, of Beaumont, Tex., and Mrs. Ida B. Runyon, of Rochester, N. Y.

Funeral at Norfolk For Mrs. Hoffman

Woman Is Found by Son in Unconscious State on Floor of Room.

Funeral services for Mrs. Emma Hoffman, 49 years old, who was found dead early yesterday in a second-floor room of her home at 935 K street northwest, will be tomorrow afternoon in Norfolk, Va.

The woman was found in an unconscious condition shortly after 2 a. m. by her son, Beverly C. Hoffman. A call was sent for an ambulance but when it failed to arrive after more than half an hour the fire rescue squad was summoned. She was later pronounced dead by a physician from Casualty Hospital.

Mr. Hoffman said that his mother had been in ill health for some time and was under care of a doctor. Besides her son Mrs. Hoffman is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Mildred Webb, and a brother and sister.

Mayor's $40,000 Salary Attacked by Communists

New York, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Two thousand Communists marched on City Hall today to protest against the city's $631,000,000 budget in general and Mayor James J. Walker's $40,000 salary in particular.

Almost 300 policemen were assigned to special duty in City Hall Plaza and order was easily maintained, the Communists contenting themselves with marching around with banners and presenting a suggested relief program which would immediately fill the pockets of the unemployed from the city's coffers.

Rail Heads in East To Discuss Wages

Conference in New York Is Set for Today to Map Steps for Cuts.

New York, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—The next move in the effort of the railroads to obtain a 10 per cent wage reduction may be determined tomorrow at a conference of the Eastern railroad presidents, to convene at the Bankers Club at noon.

Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio, who headed the group of executives that negotiated unsuccessfully with a committee of the brotherhood heads during the past four days, is expected to report to the Eastern executives on the negotiations, it was explained today by L. F. Loree, president of the Eastern presidents' conference.

Long delay before binding action can be taken in the rail wage controversy, affecting 1,750,000 employes, was forecast by railroad men today. At the very earliest, no acceptance of the 10 per cent cut could be ratified before December 8 when 1,500 general chairmen of the various rail unions meet in Chicago. Such action, however, seems entirely unlikely, as their representatives in the round table meetings of last week were vested with full authority to speak for their associates.

Sister of McKinley Will Be Buried Today

Cleveland, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Funeral services will be held tomorrow for Mrs. Sarah McKinley Duncan, 91, last of the brothers and sisters of the late President McKinley.

Mrs. Duncan, who had lived here since 1894, died at her home last night. Burial will be at Poland, Ohio.

Raisin Growers Obtain Farm Board Financing

(Associated Press.)

Agreement has been reached between the Farm Board, Sun Maid Raisin growers and California bankers for the financing of Sun Maid's export business next year.

Heretofore, the bankers have handled virtually all of the financing, but this year they sought to divert a portion to the board. It is understood that $1,000,000 would be required. The bankers will provide $500,000 and the board will increase by $125,000 its previous commitment of approximately $375,000.

BIG OFFER APPRECIATED

Readers Must Act Promptly, as the Supply Is Dwindling.

The great demand for the New World Dictionary which is now being offered to readers of this newspaper has reduced the supply to such an extent that those who have not yet secured a copy should present their coupons at once if they do not wish to be disappointed.

It is most gratifying to note the appreciation of the offer by readers, marked by the eagerness they have shown in taking advantage of it.

It is agreed that the book is wholly deserving of the success which is attending its distribution. The New World Dictionary is new in all that word implies. It is newly compiled, printed from new type, new in contents and new in the arrangement of helps to the study of langauge.

It is the new Dictionary for those who wish to keep up with the procession. It contains all the words that will ever be required by the average reader or student and, at the same time, the scientific scholar will find words in this Dictionary that are not to be found in any similar volume.

A ROUND OF GOLF WITH MR. ROCKEFELLER.

MR. ROCKEFELLER had accepted me as a golf opponent after I had quoted extracts from numerous sentimental poems, recited in full the Psalm of Life, agreed with him that this was a jolly old world after all, and showed him the carefully treasured dime he had given to me last winter. We walked to the first tee. Mr. Rockefeller got a perfect drive and recited:

This life is full of cheer to spare,
And from great trouble free;
Great blessings crowd us everywhere—
If we will only see.

It was my good fortune to get a fairly good drive, too. "A lovely little poem," I said, "and how true! Most of life's troubles are imaginary."

* * * *

Mr. Rockefeller's second shot was not so good. It was off to the left but didn't go into the rough.

"What were you saying?" asked the oil king.

"I was commenting on your poem. The one about life being so free from trouble."

"Oh, yes," he replied, a little abstractly.

I dubbed my second shot and cussed a caddy.

* * * *

Mr. Rockefeller took plenty of time on his third and placed it nicely on the green. He then recited quite feelingly:

When sorrows hedge you all about,
And all seems sad and drear,
Just give lusty joyful shout
And they will disappear!

I got what appeared to be a sweet shot to the green but it rolled over and into a deep trap. "Tripe!" I answered, under my breath.

* * * *

As we walked toward the green Mr. Rockefeller placed his arm about my shoulders and said:

As through this world we range afar
Let this thought ever gleam—
Things never, never, never are
As bad as it would seem.

I got my ball out of the trap inside of Mr. Rockefeller's and was too surprised to make any comment. It was John's putt. He was about 9 yards away from the hole. He took his putter and recited:

Throughout this life despair discard—
There's nothing really wrong;
And when you think the going's hard
Just hum a little song.

* * * *

He then stroked the ball quite well and it barely missed the cup, stopping about 8 inches beyond. "A poem with a deep truth in it," I said as I also put my ball within a few inches of the cup.

Mr. Rockefeller addressed his ball, barely 8 inches from the hole, and said, feelingly:

The sun fills all the earth with bliss,
The bees and flowers thrive,
And, come what may, my motto is,
"It's good to be alive!"

* * * *

He stroked the ball perfectly. It hit the rim of the cup and bounded out, rolling 8 inches to the other side. I sunk mine. He missed his next putt, too.

* * * *

"There's a lot in that, Mr. Rockefeller," I said as we walked off the green.

"In what?" asked Mr. Rockefeller.

"In those poems," I said.

"What poems?" said Mr. Rockefeller.

"The ones you were reciting."

"Oh, that stuff!" he said simply.

* * * *

NOW BRING ON YOUR WARS.

MR. H. H. RAMSEY, president of the U. S. Golf Association, officially announces that the new golf ball will be the same size as the one used at present, but will have the same weight as the ball that preceded it. The folks couldn't be expected to pay much attention to the Sino-Japanese crisis until this was settled.

ARLINGTON BOARDS DISCUSS FINANCES

BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Cla. 509. Clarendon, Va.

For more than two hours last night the county board of supervisors of Arlington County discussed with the members-elect to the new board tentative plans for additions to the courthouse to take care of the new county court, judges' chambers and offices for county manager and the rearrangement of the present courthouse.

It was pointed out by A. F. Thelander, architect, that the approximate cost of adding a two-story structure would be $35,000, remodeling the present courthouse, $6,000, and to add a second story over the present county clerk's office, $15,000.

Members of the new county board, wishing to be better informed as to the county's financial standing on January 1, 1932, it was decided to postpone action and to hold another meeting subject to the call of Harry A. Fellows, temporary chairman of the members-elect.

The new members will make a thorough study of the maps, Mr. Fellows stated, and after careful consideration has been given to the project, another meeting will be held. All of the new members who will take office on January 1 expressed the view that they did not care to be in too big a hurry, as they wanted to know where the funds were coming from to pay the bill.

Complying with the State law regulating the collection of delinquent real estate taxes, County Treasurer E. Wade Ball announced yesterday that he is preparing the list for 1930, which totals approximately $75,000, which will be published and advertised for sale within the next few days.

To avoid having their property sold at public auction, Mr. Ball stated that all persons who have failed to pay their 1930 real estate taxes may come to his office at the courthouse at once and pay up and their names will not appear on the list.

Mr. Ball announces that his office is open each day from 9 to 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon and a force of clerks will be on hand to take care of those who come to pay their back, or current, real estate taxes.

There will be a special meeting of the interclub committee on unemployment in Arlington County tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in the office of Maj. F. H. Goff, in the Reese Building, at Clarendon.

Members of the committee, which comprise representatives from the Arlington County Business and Professional Woman's Club, the Rotary, Monarch, Kiwanis Service Clubs and Arlington Post, No. 139, American Legion, announce that the list is rapidly increasing and it is either give to charity this coming winter or ure employment for these people.

As stated by one committee member yesterday it will be far better to give work, for only a day a week, if nothing more, than to dig down into your pockets this winter and help feed the groups who are pleading for work, and not charity.

The members of the Arlington Rotary Club will go to Washington in a body tomorrow at 12 o'clock to be the guests of the Washington Club and hear their guest speaker, Sidney Pascall, of London, England, president of Rotary International. The meeting will be held at the Willard Hotel in Washington.

The Arlington County Kiwanis Club will hold its weekly luncheon meeting tomorrow at 12:30 o'clock at the Little Tea House, on Mount Vernon avenue.

Officers for the new year will be elected.

Reforestation Program Opened at Sandy Spring

Sandy Spring, Md., Nov. 23.—A reforestation program for Maryland was started Saturday, when the Izaak Walton League, of Sandy Spring, held its initial ceremony of planting more than an acre of seedling white pines on the farms of William John Thomas, Milton Bancroft and Francis Thomas, near Sandy Spring, and Henry Mathews' farm, called "Fair Hill," near Olney. Among the guests were: Dr. D'Arcey Magee, president of the District of Columbia chapter of the league; Howard Hopkins, U. S. Forestry Service, and Richard Kilbourne, Maryland Forestry Service.

Club Plans Herndon Dance.

The Fellowship Club, of Herndon, Va., will give a benefit cabaret dance at Herndon High School tomorrow night. Mrs. Ralph Ennis has been named chairman of the supper committee; Mrs. Frank Hume will have charge of decorations; Mrs. Joe Lucas, costumes, and Miss Elizabeth Ellis will have charge of the entertainment program.

Mayor Walker Calls Off Dawn Visit to Governor

Sacramento, Calif., Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Five o'clock on a frosty November morning isn't the proper time to pay one's respects to the capital of California, Mayor James J. Walker seems to think, on the basis of a telegram received from him at the governor's office today.

The telegram, sent yesterday from North Platte, Nebr., said:

"This train passes through Sacramento at 5:05 a. m., which will delay the pleasure of presenting my compliments to you. Am looking forward to seeing you at your convenience.

"JAMES J. WALKER."

The train with Mayor Walker's special car is due to arrive in San Francisco at 8:30 a. m. tomorrow. Walker is in California to plead for the freedom of Tom Mooney.

MONTGOMERY ASKS U.S. WORKERS' GIFTS

Letter Suggests Designation of Social Service League for Donations.

Federal Government clerks who reside in Montgomery County, Md., are urged to designate the Montgomery County Social Service League as the agency to receive their contributions to the unemployment fund in a letter sent out over the signatures of Lacy Shaw, president of the Montgomery County Board of Commissioners; Frederic P. Lee, president of the Montgomery County Civic Federation, and Dr. J. W. Bird, president of the Social Service League.

The letter points out that the need in Montgomery County is comparable to that in other communities and that the President's committee "recognizing that many employes residing in the suburban jurisdictions outside of Washington, desire to help their local communities, has directed that all employes be given the option of designating their own local agencies to receive the funds."

The members of the relief committee for the county pointed out yesterday that Government clerks who contribute to the fund in Washington without designating the Social Service League for the distribution of the money are quite likely to find themselves faced with the problem of making a second contribution to aid the people of their own community. The Social Service League has been officially designated by the county officials, county Red Cross, county civic federation, county health board and the county school system as the organization to handle relief funds for Montgomery County.

Land to be Sold for Taxes.

F. W. Huddleson, Fairfax County treasurer, said yesterday all land involving delinquent 1930 taxes will be advertised for sale if the taxes are not paid before December 1. To avoid advertising cost these taxes may be paid at the county treasurer's office on or before December 1.

ALEXANDRIA POLICE START TRAFFIC WAR

Nonresidents on Sundays Are Indicated as Chief Law Violators.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Police Capt. John S. Arnold yesterday announced a campaign against speeding and reckless driving and all policemen have been instructed to watch for violations.

Arrests are to include persons who fail to give proper signals and pass other cars without sounding warning. Capt. Arnold believes constant arrests will halt disregard of traffic signs and regulations.

Violations are more apparent Sundays and more dangerous that day because of the extra number of cars on the streets, he says, and the majority of the violators are nonresidents.

Liberty Rebekah Lodge, No. 16, I. O. O. F., will observe annual past noble grand's night at 7:30 o'clock tonight in Odd Fellows Hall, North Columbus street. Degree work will be conferred on a class of candidates and this will be followed by a special program and refreshments.

The lodge will give a dance tomorrow night for benefit of the orphans' fund and a card party will be given Friday night for the same purpose. Both affairs will be in Odd Fellows Hall.

Mrs. W. L. Lipps will have charge of a food sale tomorrow at 616 K street, under auspices of Mrs. Elmer L. Spittle's group of the Alexandria Hospital Auxiliary.

Special Thanksgiving program will be observed at Rotary Club meeting at 12:30 o'clock in the George Mason Hotel. The Rev. Hugh McFadden is in charge of arrangements. Members of the Alexandria club will attend a luncheon tomorrow at the Willard Hotel, Washington, in honor of President Pascal, of London, England, who is making his first visitation to America. The Alexandria party will leave at 11:15 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Educators in Fairfax Will Visit Richmond

Offices of Wilbert T. Woodson, superintendent of schools, in the courthouse at Fairfax, Va., will close tomorrow afternoon for the remainder of the week. Mr. Woodson, Mrs. Elsie Davis and Miss Florence Fray, supervisors of rural schools in Fairfax County, will attend the State Teachers Institute in Richmond, in session this week. The offices will reopen next Monday.

Benefit Bridge Luncheon Set.

A bridge luncheon for benefit of the Little Aid Society of the Crossmen Methodist Church at Falls Church, Va., will be held this afternoon at the home of Mrs. William S. Brown. Mrs. Dorothy Snyder and Mrs. Jennette Talford will assist Mrs. Brown with the luncheon.

75 Decoy Ducks Killed By Alleged Sportsmen

Yesterday the mayor invited two alleged sportsmen to shoot on his private pond in Spanish Springs Valley, 12 miles from Reno. They did, and within half an hour after sunrise had killed 75 of the mayor's live decoys.

The mayor sought to have the two men arrested today, but was informed by a game warden that because the ducks and geese were tame ones the men could not be prosecuted for killing more than the legal limit of wild fowl.

High School Plans Annual Show Night

Washington-Lee Group to Entertain Tonight in Ballston.

The fourth annual "W-L show night" will be held tonight in the auditorium of the Washington-Lee High School at Ballston at 8 o'clock.

The entertainment will open with a selection by the high school orchestra under the direction of Samuel Seymour. This will be followed by a one-act play entitled "Pa and Ma," in which Billie Severance, Tazwell Watson, Robert Rollings and Helen Campbell will take the leading role.

The program will include an acrobatic dance by Doris Rosedale; song, "River, Stay Away from My Door," by Billie Severance; song and dance by Dorothy Moreland, Marjorie Rosin and Margaret Huffman; a sketch, "The Amateur Performance," by Flora Heins and Gordon Walker; toe dance by Edna Lee Enruh; dance by Margaret Kirshner; a specialty by the orchestra, and a one-act play entitled, "Jones vs. Jones," in which Virginia Pearson, Margaret Goznell, Mary Elizabeth Carr and Samuel Seymour will participate.

The affair is being staged under the direction of Mrs. Marie Mallot, dramatic director of the school.

Church Group Formed To Handle Relief Calls

A relief organization has been formed by churches of Vienna and Oakton to handle all local relief calls this winter. Mrs. Charles E. Babcock was elected chairman of the association; Mrs. Clarence Ashby, secretary, and Mrs. S. C. Stuntz, treasurer.

The membership of the association follows: Church of the Brethren, Oakton, Mrs. Ira Miller, chairman, and Mrs. Myrtle Wright; Seventh Day Adventist, Mrs. M. O. Bradford, chairman, and Mrs. Leslie Fonda; Oakton Methodist Episcopal, Mrs. Will Hite, chairman; Mrs. Hugh Bell and Mrs. Irving Kenyon; Vienna Methodist Episcopal, Mrs. H. A. Money, chairman; Mrs. Vernon Gowin and Mrs. John Paul Jones; Episcopal Church of the Holy Comforter, Mrs. Charles E. Babcock, chairman; Mrs. Clarence Ashby and Mrs. Barbara Hall; Presbyterian, Mrs. W. W. Louk, chairman; Mrs. Norford and Mrs. Howard Gerkin.

MAN FACES SECOND AUTO KILLING TRIAL

Faced with a charge of manslaughter for the second time within a year, Joseph Key, said to be a descendant of Francis Scott Key and member of a prominent southern Maryland family, was released under bond of $2,000 yesterday, following a hearing before Magistrate John R. Drury, at Leonardtown, Md.

The charge grew out of an accident Saturday night, when an automobile he was said to have been driving struck and instantly killed Mrs. Lillian M. Bivans, 36-year-old widow and mother of six children, who was walking along the Leonardtown-Hollywood road.

Finding by a coroner's jury that the accident "could have been avoided," resulted in Key's appearance before the court. He was charged with manslaughter and held for action of the grand jury. He was also found guilty of driving without a permit, fined $100 and sentenced to four months in jail. He appealed.

Miss Engle to Speak on Underprivileged Child at Meeting Today.

Miss Lavinia Engle, Montgomery County member of the Maryland House of Delegates, will talk at the special meeting of the Bethesda Women's Club today at the clubhouse on Old Georgetown Pike, Alta Vista, Md. Miss Engle will talk on "The Education of the Underprivileged Child."

The program for the day is in charge of the department of applied sciences, of which Mrs. Elisha Hanson is chairman. Mrs. George Gillingham, chairman of motion pictures for the District of Columbia Federation of Woman's Clubs, will speak under the auspices of the county motion picture committee of which Mrs. J. Fred Imirie is chairman. Dr. Edwin W. Broome, county superintendent of schools, will discuss the county educational program.

The conservation committee, of which Mrs. Ford E. Young is chairman, will plant a tree at 1:30 o'clock in memory of George Washington in connection with the bicentennial celebration. The Rev. Stanley White, of the Bethesda Presbyterian Church, will offer the invocation and Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of George Washington University, will make the dedicatory address.

3 Hurt as Auto Upsets Upon Brookeville Pike

Three colored men were injured, one seriously, yesterday when the automobile they were riding in left the road on Brookeville pike near the Manor Club and turned over. According to Montgomery County police, the car failed to make a curve while traveling at a high rate of speed.

Karl Wade, colored, of Laytonsville, Md., was found to have suffered a fractured skull and W. E. Simpson, colored, of Gaithersburg, Md., the driver, and Albert Hawkins, of Laytonsville, were cut by flying glass. The three men were taken to Montgomery County General Hospital at Sandy Spring, Md.

TUBERCULOSIS BODY ADOPTS 1932 BUDGET

Board Approves $50,000 Fund in Larger Plans for Health Work.

A new and larger program of community health work was projected by the Washington Tuberculosis Association yesterday, when its board of directors unanimously approved the budget for 1932, and thus cleared the way for the annual public meeting of the association to be held this evening in the United States Chamber of Commerce Building.

The amount of money required for this budget, the largest in the society's history, totals almost $50,000, which is the hoped-for goal of the District of Columbia sale of Christmas Seals, about to open on Thanksgiving Day.

In the year ahead, the program for the care of the ever-increasing number of children infected with tuberculosis will be intensified along various lines of work to be discussed at tonight's meeting by several speakers, including Dr. Kendall Emerson, managing director of the National Tuberculosis Association; Dr. Joseph A. Murphy, chief medical examiner for the public schools; Dr. Thomas Kidner, New York, expert on sanatorium construction, and George Hastings, administrative secretary to President Hoover.

The recent revival of popular health lectures for adults in industry will be further extended through a committee headed by John Dolph, general manager of the local branch of the Metropolitan Insurance Co., and will include various phases of industrial field work for the prevention of tuberculosis.

The increasing prevalence of tuberculosis among the Negro population of Washington, involving danger indirectly to the whole community, has brought the attention of the board of directors to the necessity of providing more effective health work among the colored group. With the help of trained workers in the field, special efforts will be directed toward a survey of conditions existing, with the object of securing more clinical examinations, more hospitalization, the correction of discovered defects and the development of a health educational program.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agri., Weather Bureau, Washington, Monday, Nov. 23—8 p. m.

Forecast—For the District of Columbia, fair with continued mild temperature Tuesday, Wednesday increasing cloudiness, probably followed by showers Wednesday afternoon or night; cooler by Wednesday night; gentle southerly winds Tuesday.

For Maryland and Virginia, fair with continued mild temperature Tuesday, Wednesday increasing cloudiness, probably followed by showers Wednesday afternoon or night; cooler by Wednesday night; increasing northeast winds on the coast, becoming fresh, possibly strong, Wednesday.

The southwestern disturbance is moving slowly southeastward over southern Texas. Del Rio, 29.72 inches, and an offshoot from the disturbance is centered tonight over Iowa, moving north-northeastward. Des Moines, 29.64 inches. This disturbance has been attended by snow in the Rocky Mountain region, Utah, and portions of the plains States, and by rain from Texas northeastward to Ontario and eastern Minnesota. The rainfall was heavy over a narrow belt from central Oklahoma to northeastern Iowa, Charles City, Iowa, reporting the greatest amount, 3.63 inches. Another disturbance is moving eastward over the Hudson Strait region, Resolution Island, 29.28 inches, and pressure remains low over western Alaska, Nome, 29.48 inches. The disturbance that was centered some distance north of Porto Rico Sunday night is moving slowly north-northeastward over the ocean, attended by strong shifting winds and probable gales. Pressure is high over the western half of the United States, British Columbia, and eastern Alaska, and from Newfoundland southwestward over the Atlantic States and the Appalachian region, Spokane, Wash., 30.52 inches, and Nantucket, Mass., 30.34 inches. The temperature has fallen in the western portions of Colorado and New Mexico, and from eastern South Dakota southward to northeastern Texas, and it has risen in the lake region, the upper Mississippi Valley, Vermont, and from Montana southeastward to the Texas Panhandle. The temperature is still abnormally high over the eastern half of the United States, numerous stations east of the Mississippi River reporting the highest of record so late in the season. The weather remains unseasonably cold from the Pacific Coast eastward to the Plains States.

General forecast for the Atlantic States, the lower lake region, the Ohio Valley, and Tennessee: The disturbance that now extends from Minnesota to southern Texas will be attended by showers in the western portions of Tennessee and Kentucky Tuesday, and almost generally, except in the Florida Peninsula, during Wednesday. Continued mild temperature Tuesday and in the Atlantic States Wednesday will be followed by a change to considerably colder weather in Tennessee, the Ohio Valley, and the lower lake region Wednesday or Wednesday night, and cooler weather is indicated in the Atlantic States Wednesday night and Thursday.

Seeking a surreptitious close-up of a stratum of society usually obscured from the circumspect and the pure, and the thrill of a detached association with the most depraved characters of a particularly vicious metropolitan night life, those in attendance found both in almost superabundance.

The characters involved in Miss West's dissolute disclosures are, in large measure, small-time prize fighters and their hangers-on, dope fiends and dope peddlers, Harlem policy kings, speakeasy proprietors and those nocturnal nondescripts who frequent the black-and-tan resorts specializing in the indiscriminate and dimly lighted intermingling of the races. Through this furtive and ominous crew of racketeers, blackmailers and fugitives from the law moves the placid and unruffled figure of Babe Gordon, lady of the morning, afternoon and evening, whose favors may be had for considerations that at times seem slightly exorbitant for what she has to offer.

Attracted in scene one by the youthful vigor of a rising young pugilist, she first consorts with and then marries him, only to cast him adrift to embrace the more opulent opportunities offered by Money Johnson, colored overlord of a chain of gambling resorts and Harlem dives. Mr. Johnson she abandons to accept the favor of Wayne Baldwin, high official of a department store enterprise worth millions. From this catholicity of interests Miss Gordon evolves only a murder, for which her husband, Mr. Bearcat Delaney, assumes the blame and from which Mr. Baldwin cleverly extricates them all through the agency of high-priced attorneys.

When Mr. Bearcat Delaney has come back to the wars from the brink of oblivion and is again in the money, and living with the little woman who has been true to Long Acre Square, Riverside Drive and Harlem all this time, she drags Mr. Wayne Baldwin off the Mauretania, as he is about to sail for Paris, in order—as nearly as we are able to judge—that he may share the husbandly privileges which Mr. Bearcat Delaney deludedly believes to be exclusively his.

You can see for yourself from this brief and imperfect outline, which of necessity omits a few minor peccadilloes, that "The Constant Sinner" is a sweet and idyllic little thing devised to uplift the mind, sanctify the body and purify the soul of every recreant who has the temerity to view it.

Those peopling the action follow about the pursuits that might be expected to attract them and express themselves in language such as would be used by persons interested in such pursuits—profanity, blasephemy and the degraded argot of the underworld practically at its lowest.

The speeches most minutely expressive of a complicated and illicit sex life, Miss West has retained, for the most part, for herself, lending them a frank and explicit intent that transcends any such obvious compromise with propriety as double entendre. Babe Gordon was a tough gal and didn't care who knew it.

Richly caparisoned in a succession of costumes that utterly baffle a reviewer of this gender, Miss West presents a dazzling figure of blonde and uncorseted seductiveness throughout the three acts of her merry little harlequinade of harlotry. All of her scenes are played through her nose with an exaggerated slouch and supernatural imperturbability.

The long mixed cast, both colored and white, ranges from excellent to the flagrant crudities of the tenth-twent-thirt in the portrayal of the multiplicity of characters implicated in Miss West's rapidly revolving episodes. Among those most entitled to commendation are Adele Gilbert, who contributes a remarkably sustained illusion of a dope-wracked bit of human wreckage in the role of Cokey Jenny; Russell Hardie, as Bearcat Delaney; Arthur R. Vinton, his manager; Walter Petrie, as Baldwin, and Paul Huber, as Leonard Colton, attorney.

The play represents a remarkable piece of staging in the celerity with which its sixteen scenes are handled even on an opening night. June Clark's "Racketeers" orchestra enlivens several scenes of a nature that requires a more powerful antiseptic than merely the blistering notes of a hot cornet.

Daughter of Man Auto Killed Is Hurt

Mrs. Adams Struck by Car on Way to Claim Father's Body.

Arriving in Fairfax yesterday to claim the body of her father, Edward Trockenbrot, who was killed on the Lee highway near Centerville, Sunday morning, Mrs. Eunice Adams, narrowly escaped serious injury when the car in which she was riding overturned. It was struck by an automobile operated by R. C. Reid, of Washington, in front of the undertaking establishment of F. W. Groff, at Fairfax.

Mrs. Adams was taken to the office of Dr. Waring, in Fairfax, where it was found she suffered a broken ankle. No arrests were made, settlement for damages being satisfactorily made.

GAYETY

"SLIDING BILLY WATSON AND HIS BIG FUN SHOW." An all-new Columbia Burlesque presentation with Evelyn Whitney, Josephine Flint, Pearl and Gladys Smith, Sam Green, Harry Martine and the Kane Brothers. Reviewed Monday night by W. L. Wright.

This attraction is correctly named "The Big Fun Show." Sliding Billy Watson, the well-known old-time funster, has done it again. He packs more smiles, giggles and laughs into his show this year than ever before. Billy, with the help of Sam Green, Harry Martine and George Monford, who keep you pepped up and smiling every minute. The scene, "Two Bad Boys," in which Watson and Martine are totally deaf without the aid of magic ear buttons is particularly funny.

Josephine Flint, a tall, ravishing blonde, appeared to advantage in many numbers and the Smith sisters, Pearl and Gladys, scored a big hit with "I'm Through With Love." Two lads who can sing and dance to perfection are the Kane brothers.

The long-heralded "Big Billy Watson Chorus" proves to be a dud.

O'DONOGHUE IS NEW ASSOCIATE JUSTICE

Sworn in as Successor to Siddons; Will Begin Duties Today.

The roster of the District Supreme Court bench was completed yesterday when Daniel W. O'Donoghue was sworn in as an associate justice, to take the place made vacant by the sudden death several months ago of Associate Justice Frederick L. Siddons.

Appointment of Justice O'Donoghue makes the tenor of the bench decidedly native, inasmuch as five of the nine justices are Washingtonians. The five are Associate Justices Peyton Gordon, James M. Proctor, Jesse C. Adkins, Joseph W. Cox and Justice O'Donoghue. The other four, Chief Justice Wheat, and Associate Justices F. D. Letts, Oscar Luhring and Jennings Bailey, are appointees from outside the District.

The brief ceremony which prefaced the swearing in of Justice O'Donoghue took place in a crowded courtroom.

Within a few minutes after the ceremony, Justice O'Donoghue was in the midst of a congratulatory group of friends, relatives and other officers of the court. Among them were Mrs. O'Donoghue, his wife, and their three children; Mrs. Florence O'Donoghue, a sister-in-law; Miss Mary O'Donoghue, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Stohlman and Mrs. Frederick Stohlman.

Wader Swept Over Niagara Falls.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Nov. 23 (A.P.). A man believed to have been Tagnus J. Celmas, this city, waded out into the Niagara river today and was swept over the Luna Falls, a section of the American cataract. A reservation patrolman and two workmen looked on powerless to aid him or attempt his rescue.

BANKERS WILL MEET WITH UNDERWRITERS

Joint Conference Is Planned for December 5; Jones to Speak.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

A joint meting of the District of Columbia Life Underwriters Association and the fiduciary section of the District of Columbia Bankers Association will be held on the evening of December 5, and will be addresed by Frank L. Jones, of New York, vice president of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States.

Mr. Jones has had an interesting career in the business of life insurance and associated lines. Just before going into the life insurance business, 28 years ago, he served two terms as State superintendent of public instruction in Indiana. At the end of his second term he was offered a college presidency, but refused it to associate himself with the profession of life underwriting. Later he became Central Western superintendent of agents, then agency manager for the Equitable in Indiana. He has built up one of the best-balanced and most successful agency organizations that the Equitable has.

He was one of the prime movers in the plans for the American College of Life Underwriters and was president of the National Association of Life Underwriters in 1925-26. For two years he has been chairman of the executive board of the Life Insurance Sales Research Bureau, of Hartford, Conn.

In October of this year, at the meeting in Chicago of the Association of Life Agency Officers, he, as chairman of a special committee appointed by that association, made a report on plans to prevent "twisting" or misrepresentation.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

—With NELSON B. BELL—

KATHARINE CORNELL for the first time had the experience of attending a play in her own theater when she saw Francine Larrimore in Guthrie McClintic's production of S. N. Behrman's comedy, "Brief Moment," in the Belasco Theater, New York, at a Saturday matinee before she resumed her own appearances in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" in the Empire Theater.

Ten years ago Miss Larrimore, playing in Rachel Crothers' "Nice People," gave Miss Cornell her first important role on Broadway. Now Miss Larrimore is inaugurating the Cornell tenure of the Belasco Theater. Only once has Miss Cornell acted on the Belasco stage. This was in 1924, when she was seen in David Belasco's production of "Tiger Cats."

Were Miss Cornell and Miss Larrimore less firmly established and less level-headed than they are, they might, under the circumstances, be acting like a couple of those titular felines now!

The fears of the Warner Brothers local executives seem finally to have been put definitely at rest.

When it was first proposed to permit Maxine Doyle to do a number on the double anniversary bill, celebrating the completion of the first year both of the Earle Theater's adoption of its present vaudeville policy and Miss Doyle's service as mistress of ceremonies, it was feared that such a disclosure of talent and versatility on the part of the ingenuous young herald would have a deleterious effect upon her value as a mistress of ceremonies thereafter.

Precisely the opposite seems to have been true. Upon her first appearance Saturday afternoon, she was greeted by applause far more spontaneous and enthusiastic than was the case prior to her performance of her neat specialty last week.

Depression or no depression, Maxine's stock is going up!

To correct an erroneous impression that somehow has gained prevalence that a series of concerts are to be given locally to introduce Mrs. H. H. A. Beach, A. Walter Kramer and John Powell, with Elena De Sayn, noted Russian concert violinist, resident in the Capital, it is emphatically stated by the management that the concert on Friday evening, December 4, will mark the only appearance of these distinguished artists in Washington this season and that the rendition of their compositions for piano and violin will be in joint recital, rather than individual appearances with Mme. De Sayn on separate occasions.

Managing Director Harry W. Crull, of the Fox, this afternoon will play host to a party of 40 from the Home for the Aged and Infirm, at Blue Plains, D. C., who are being entertained at a performance of "Over the Hill," through the kindly cooperation of the Washington Rapid Transit Co., which will furnish free transportation to and from the theater.

Ed Rosenbaum, jr., son of the senior Ed, who for many years was company manager of the Ziegfeld "Follies," is renewing old acquaintanceships in the Capital, which he is visiting for the week as company manager for Mae West, at the Belasco in "The Constant Sinner."

Then, of course, there are the two items crowded out of yesterday's column by lack of space:

While it probably had no bearing whatever upon the final decision, it is nevertheless a fact you may recall that in our review of Burton Holmes' initial travel revue of his current season at the National Theater, it was remarked that in this department's negligible opinion the pictured tour of "The Real Hollywood" would easily bear a repetition in Washington and no doubt would attract even greater support upon its second presentation than upon its first.

It is, therefore, gratifying to announce that Mr. Holmes will again present "The Real Hollywood" in the National next Saturday, November 28, at both matinee and night performances.

Mr. Holmes' camera impressions of the movie capital will carry his auditor-spectators behind the scenes on the movie lots and will afford intimate glimpses of the stars—how they work and play, where they live and the places where they enjoy themselves.

Personally, I list this among the finest of Burton Holmes' subjects, both in pictorial excellence and interesting comment, and anticipate with great pleasure the privilege of enjoying it again—maybe twice!

Speaking of the National, as we were by indirection, you may care to know that Howard Herrick, advance courier for Maude Adams and Otis Skinner, who come to the National for five days beginning Tuesday, December 15, wires from Boston that these famous stars are shattering all box office records on their tour in Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice."

For the week at the Colonial Theater, Boston, the house was completely sold out by mail orders before the box office sale opened and an extra matinee on Friday had to be added. The assured gross receipts of over $31,000 will top any dramatic attraction ever to have played the famous old Boston Theater.

Washington theatergoers can secure order blanks for the local engagement at the box office of the National or they will be mailed upon request.

It might be the part of wisdom not to delay!

So, being as lazy as I am, here's hoping the paper gets tight again some time!

ARKANSAS DIVORCE LAW IS HELD VALID

Court Says 90-Day Statute Now Operative; Denies Repeal Move.

Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Legality of Arkansas' 90-day divorce law was definitely established today and the State became a competitor of Nevada in the quick severance of marriage vows.

A ruling by the Arkansas Supreme Court held the law is now operative and thereby ended a movement to repeal it by popular referendum.

Despite uncertainty surrounding the new law since its enactment, several divorce cases had been filed and at least one decree granted. Today's decision validates these proceedings.

Lawyers at Little Rock and Hot Springs reported numerous cases were ready to be filed as soon as the Supreme Court clarified the situation.

Reno's Time Shorter.

By a vote of 5 to 2, the Supreme Court denied the Home Protective Association a writ of mandamus, requiring Secretary of State Ed F. McDonald to accept petitions for a referendum on repeal of the law, which was passed by the 1931 Legislature.

Acceptance of the petitions would have made the divorce law inoperative until voted upon next November.

Passage of the Arkansas law early this year caused Nevada to shorten its residence requirements to six weeks. Sponsors of the Arkansas law contended that while Nevada has the advantage in residence requirements, Arkansas has a geographical advantage.

Many Cities Vie for Trade.

Although the move for enactment of the short divorce law started in the resort city of Hot Springs, which has aspirations to become a second Reno, several other cities will seek their share of the business.

Among them are Little Rock, the summer resorts in the northwest Arkansas Ozarks and several border towns, including Marion, just across the Mississippi River from Memphis.

The Arkansas law requires 60 days' residence before divorce proceedings may be instituted, and 30 thereafter before a final decree may be obtained. Existing causes of divorce are unchanged. They include desertion, cruelty, general indignities, adultery and impotency.

Reno's Mayor Sighs.

Reno, Nev., Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Reno's thriving legal profession, made prosperous by numerous divorces filed under the State's liberal laws, generally admitted tonight that business would suffer as a result of action of the Arkansas Supreme Court, which today upheld the legality of a three-month residence clause.

After passage of the three-month law by Arkansas, Nevada slashed six weeks from her existing statute, creating a six-week residence requirement. Since the new law went into effect here last May attorneys have garnered about $500,000 in fees.

Mayor E. E. Roberts, who, as a practicing attorney, had led more than 3,000 couples through the divorce mill, shook his head and sighed when he heard the news.

"Sure, it's going to hurt us," said the Mayor. He was a leading advocate of the movement in this State to shorten the residence requirement, and at one time said that he was even in favor of granting divorces after residence of only one day.

Wheat Growers Urged To Keep Fourth of Crop

(Associated Press.)

Wheat growers would be permitted to sell only ¾ of their production under a plan proposed to the farm board by Representative Selvig.

In a letter to the board, the Minnesota Republican advocated yesterday that the remainder be kept on the farm for feeding purposes. Selvig said the plan could be carried out through licensing wheat purchasers. He added it should encourage producers to reduce acreage.

Eastern Standard Time Opposed by Wisconsin

(Associated Press.)

Wisconsin prefers central time to eastern. The Interstate Commerce Commission was informed yesterday in a brief filed by the State Public Service Commission.

It opposed any change in the time of railroad operation in Michigan that would affect trucks in Wisconsin. The Michigan Legislature has adopted eastern time. Wisconsin law prohibits adoption or display of eastern time.

Huge Liner To Be Launched.

New York, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—The liner Manhattan of the United States Lines, the largest merchant ship ever built in this country, will be launched at Camden, N. J., on December 5. The ship is 705 feet long and has a gross displacement of 30,000 tons.

Hiccough Victim Cured of Malady

Ohio Man Rests for First Time in 15 Days After Being Operated On.

Mansfield, Ohio, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Ira A. King spent his first day in fifteen today undisturbed by the hiccoughs that had stretched him helpless on a hospital cot, and physicians said removal of an infected gall bladder apparently had cured him of his malady.

King, 58, was operated on Sunday after scores of suggested remedies had been tried and after X-ray photographs had revealed the infection as the probable cause. He suffered two attacks yesterday afternoon and two more last night. Since then his rest has been undisturbed.

Doctors said they expected complete recovery, though removal of the bladder, they said, would impose limits on King's diet. Stricken little more than two weeks ago, King hiccoughed so frequently that it was not until last Wednesday that he again was able to take nourishment, and that in liquid form. Since then he has steadily grown stronger.

F. H. Hamilton, Rail Head, Dead.

St. Louis, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Frank H. Hamilton, 66, vice president and secretary-treasurer of the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway Co., died at the San Francisco Hospital today of pneumonia after an operation for bladder trouble 10 days ago.

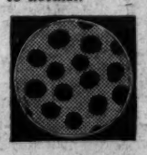
"I want to tell you — that red-blood-cells are the very foundation of sturdy health"

Why you should be interested in your Blood Count

It is important to know that the red-blood-cells are the "ships" that sail in the blood stream and carry nourishment and oxygen to all parts of the body . . . they build and sustain—they also remove impurities from the tissues.

Whenever the number of red-blood-cells is materially reduced, lowered vitality ensues and the system becomes more susceptible to the ravages of various diseases. It is a great protection to health and physical well-being to keep the red-blood-cell count up to normal.



(Left) Microscopic view of healthy red-blood-cells. The blood stream should contain about 5,000,000 of these cells to the cubic millimeter. They carry nourishment and oxygen to every part of the body—they also remove impurities from the tissues.

(Right) Weak red-blood-cells—only 60 per cent of normal strength—they lack the power to resist infection and disease or to rebuild flesh and to carry away the impurities. Such a condition is often responsible for body weakness, paleness, sallow complexion, pimples and boils.

Don't let them count you out!

—worth knowing:

—lets pause a moment to give those vital red cells the consideration they deserve. They mean so much for better health and happiness.

It is not fair to expect one to like work or to enjoy play with a "lowered" blood count.

Time drags when we don't feel well . . . the mind just won't function . . . melancholy and the blues overtake us.

So often the reason is simple—that good body of ours has "run-down" under the strain of our way of living . . . pressure of work and worry.

If this is your trouble, why not take steps to overcome it—remembering that a "tired feeling" may be a warning . . . so are pimples, boils and paleness. A general run-down condition means a lack of normal resistance to infection and disease. A lagging appetite often leads to underweight and ill health.

You cannot be low in strength and be happy—let's be happy. "Don't let them count you out" when more red-blood-cells will give you that New Strength to "carry on."

For generations S.S.S. as a tonic has been helping people gain New Strength, better health and happiness. Its successful record of over 100 years in restoring strength and vitality to the blood surely warrants your giving it a good trial.

You should know that S.S.S. has the distinct advantage of being composed of fresh vegetable medicinal ingredients in concentrated form . . . it is Mother Nature's formula.

Why not start taking S.S.S. today?—the larger size represents a price saving.

Now is the time to be thinking of Christmas and The gift every member of the family will appreciate

EVEN THE LITTLE TOTS will enjoy it. They start with the pictures—over 15,000 of them, many in beautiful colors—birds, flowers, fishes, butterflies, strange animals, strange peoples. And endless stories you can read to them.

AS THEY GROW UP It fascinates the older children. Sports, music, natural history, the marvels of science, the movies, the arts, exploration—endless subjects to satisfy their interest in everything. And it makes school work easier.

WHAT ABOUT MOTHER? Dress, interior decoration, cookery, gardening, bridge, home management, family budgets, help in emergencies, the care and training of children, social activities, club work, every interest inside the home and out.

...AND FATHER TOO will be just as fascinated as the boy in digging into new subjects. History, biography, science, politics, sports, the home workshop, trade, commerce, finance, industry. A wealth of everyday help in business.

IT isn't often that you can find a useful gift that is so thoroughly appreciated as the new Britannica. "You have done a very wonderful thing in providing a hundred gifts in one," says a letter which we have received with an order for Christmas.

There will be no gift more exciting on Christmas morning, certainly no gift which will give such lasting pleasure. No gift will be so sure to please any and every member of the family. For the new Britannica is not a single gift. It is a treasure house, an unique treasure house in which child or adult, man or woman can find the things they most desire.

NEW FIELDS OF INTEREST

Within its 24 beautifully bound volumes are contained the interesting stories of every activity known to man. Without leaving your chair you can travel to the four corners of the globe, into the laboratories of the great scientists, delve into the mysteries of astronomy. You can follow the business leaders of today in their discussions of finance, industry and commerce. You can learn more of the arts, of music, the theatre, your favorite sports and games. The Britannica never grows tiresome, for it is constantly opening up to you new fields of interest.

Nothing could give more pleasure and at the same time be of such great practical value. As an instant source of information on any subject nothing could be of more value to the child in school, to the woman who wants practical help at home or to the man who today must meet the constantly changing situations in business.

THE BEST TIME TO BUY THE BRITANNICA

There has never been so good a time to buy the new Britannica as now. Temporary business conditions have enabled us to produce the present printing at a cost so far below anything ever before possible that we can now offer it to you at an unprecedented reduction in price.

The new Britannica provides so fine a gift for all the family that at its present price it is one of the most economical gifts you can purchase.

You can have it delivered for Christmas upon a payment of only $5. The total cost varies with the binding you select and you can pay it in a small number of monthly installments of $5 or more.

This does not obligate you in any way.

WHAT BRITANNICA OWNERS SAY:

General J. G. Harbord, Radio Corporation of America

"Its usefulness goes beyond the requirements of business and commercial life. It seems to me that no modern American home can afford to be without this valuable reference work in interpreting the day's news and keeping abreast of modern ideas and world affairs."

R. E. Cabell, Richmond, Va.

"We are delighted with the books. They are enjoyed by the whole family from 6 years up."

William Lyon Phelps

"Every household containing these volumes is in contact with the life of today more intimately than by the radio. To those who own it, it will not be a luxury; it will be a necessity."

Col. Edward M. House

"The Encyclopaedia Britannica has for so long been a necessary part of my library and office equipment that I should feel at a loss without it. To speak of its value seems superfluous, for it should be a part of every English-speaking home."

Henry Noble MacCracken, President, Vassar College

"Probably the most valuable single enterprise in existence for general adult education . . . An indispensable household aid . . . A great clearing house of civilized intercourse."

Mrs. E. D. Skinner, Glen Cove, N. Y.

"I wish it were possible to put the Britannica in every home, especially where there are children. We are simply devouring our set."

ALL-AMERICAN DOUBTS CENTER ON TACKLES, BACKS

Wood Is Seen As Popular Choice

Rentner, Schwartz Also Are Likely to Win Berths.

Dalrymple, of Tulane, Smith, of Georgia, May Be Ends.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—The All-America football argument gathered headway rapidly today throughout the country, given impetus by the latest and some of the most startling developments of the season on intercollegiate gridirons.

This annual debate, for many years one of the most explosive by-products of American sport, has centered this fall mainly around the selection of the tackles and the backs for the mythical all-star combination.

Returns that have begun to pour in for the seventh annual All-American consensus of the Associated Press indicate the hottest sort of a battle of ballots in the choice of running mates for Harvard's Barry Wood, outstanding candidate for the role of quarter back.

Wood Outranks Bill Morton.

The Crimson leader, despite defeat in his final game against Yale Saturday, has assumed a commanding lead over all quarter back rivals, including Bill Morton, of Dartmouth; Carl Cramer, of Ohio State; Austin Downes, of Georgia, and Orville Mohler of Southern California.

For the supporting back field cast, Ernest (Pug) Rentner, of Northwestern, and Marchmont Schwartz, of Notre Dame, the latter a 1930 All-American, appear well in the lead for two of the three positions. Schwartz was pronounced the outstanding carrier on the field that witnessed Southern California's great victory over Notre Dame.

The performance of Enny Pinckert, Southern California's superlative blocking back, on the same gridiron, has increased his chances of being voted an All-American for the second straight year.

McEver, Zimmerman Are Popular.

Pinckert's closest rivals in the balloting so far are Gene McEver, of Tennessee, and Don Zimmerman, of Tulane, the two ace ball-carriers of Dixie. Albie Booth, of Yale, and Jack Manders, the Minnesota fullback, also have gained widespread support.

The Associated Press early returns disclose eight outstanding contenders for the all-important tackle positions. Dallas Marvil, of Northwestern, and Jim McMurdo, of Pittsburgh, have gained slight leads, but appear very closely pressed by Joe Kurth, of Notre Dame, and Hugh Rhea, of Nebraska. Others well in the running are Ed Krause, of Notre Dame; Jack Price, of the Army, and Jack Riley, of Northwestern, while the Pacific Coast strongly support Paul Schwegler, of the University of Washington.

On the flanks, the South's twin stars, Jerry Dalrymple, of Tulane, and Catfish Smith, of Georgia, have leaped so far out in front in the ballots that their places appear clinched. Johnny Orsi, of Colgate, has come with a rush and Garrett Arbelbide, of Southern California, has won strong support.

Capt. Tom Yarr, of Notre Dame, at center, has few rivals, but foremost among them are Daugherty, of Pittsburgh, and Maynard Morrison, of Michigan.

Minnesota's big lineman, Clarence Munn, so far tops the list of guards by a substantial margin. The contest for the second all-America job open in this position involves Nordy Hoffman, of Notre Dame; Gregory Kabat, of Wisconsin; Jim Evans, of Northwestern; John Baker, of Southern California, and "Red" Leathers, of Georgia.

Dempsey Shows Speed In Win Over Hunt

Tulsa, Okla., Nov. 23 (A.P.).—After a slow start, Jack Dempsey, former world heavyweight champion, wound up a four-round exhibition bout tonight with Babe Hunt, Ponca City, Okla., in whirlwind style to gain a newspaper decision. Dempsey weighed 193; Hunt, 197.

Sandor Szabo Bows To Calza on N. Y. Mat

New York, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—George Calza, of Italy, threw Sandor Szabo, of Hungary, with a body hold in 26:39 of their heavyweight wrestling bout at the Seventy-first Regiment Armory before a crowd of 6,000 tonight. Calza weighed 217 pounds; Szabo 205.

Other results:

Ray Steele, 215, Los Angeles, threw Johnny Maxos, 205, Greece, in 26:38 with a back drop; Ralph Wilson, 206, Philadelphia, drew with George Hagen, 212, New York, 30:00; Renato Gardini, 200, Italy, threw Ivan Vornyhora, 216, Russia, 14:55, flying mare and crotch hold; Tiny Roebuck, 248, Oklahoma, threw Benny Ginsberg, 211, Chicago, 3:38, body slam; Rudy Dusek, 216, Omaha, threw Tony Catalino, 210, Italy, 6:52, cradle hold; Sammy Stein, 200, Newark, threw Bill Middlekauff, 206, Florida, 11:38, flying tackle.

Benny Leonard Beats Buster Brown Easily

Baltimore, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Benny Leonard, seeking to come back as a welterweight in the ring he graced for seven years as the lightweight champion only to retire undefeated in 1925, took the fifth of his opponents in stride tonight, scoring an easy decision over Buster Brown, of Baltimore.

Leonard showed the old-time ring generalship that won him his crown, stabbing and jabbing Brown at will, and left the ring practically unmarked. Brown carried the fight to Benny, but couldn't land more than a half dozen solid licks throughout the ten rounds. The former champion held a 6-pound advantage in the weights, scaling 149 to Brown's 143.

Tears or Alibis Absent at Notre Dame Camp As Coach Says Squad Knows How to Lose

By PAUL MICKELSON.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Notre Dame can "take it."

There were no tears or alibis in the camp of America's dethroned champions of college football today over their dramatic defeat by the roaring Trojans from Southern California. From Coach "Hunk" Anderson down to the lowliest scrub in the 120-man army, there was only one comment:

"Aw forget it. Even Babe Ruth strikes out."

The calmest one in the entire camp was the man to whom a victory Saturday meant the most. It was "Hunk" who naturally heard some comment here and there as to what Knute Rockne would have done in that torrid fourth period during which the Trojans turned apparent hopeless defeat into one of the most thrilling football conquests of the years.

Telegrams Swamp Anderson.

Almost a thousand telegrams, offering condolence and utmost confidence, have swamped the big-shouldered leader of Notre Dam since Saturday night but the senders, Notre Dam alumni and sportsmen everywhere, might have saved their money as "Hunk" didn't need them.

"It's a funny thing, this football," he reflected today. "Notre Dame has lost one game in three years of play and everyone seems to think we are hysterical. They think we don't know how to lose. Ever since word was flashed over the world that we had taken one on the chin, telegrams have swamped me. Friends, former football stars here and alumni have wired, "Keep your heads up, we're for you stronger than ever." Of course, I can't help but be thrilled by such a wonderful spirit of good fellowship and good sportsmanship yet I'd like to say we do know how to lose down here at Notre Dame. Southern California has a great football team and beat us in a big way with one of the finest comebacks I ever saw or hope to see again.

Overconfidence Blamed.

"Breaks of the game? Of course, there were breaks. We suffered some penalties that looked bad but I always figure that the officials on the field can see more than a coach or his players can and far more impartially. Personally, I think the thing that beat us was overconfidence after we had rollid up a 14-to-noth[illegible]ing lead at the start of the third period. The boys didn't think the Trojans could comeback. They did come back and it was too late for us then."

Since the battle, two or three players started to mention something on the penalties of the game only to lapse into silence after a stern look from "Hunk." Capt. Tommy Yarr complained that Umpire Gillette, of Oregon, threatened to "throw me out of the game when I asked to speak to him about a penalty inflicted on us." But he never mentioned even that after "Hunk" had heard him, and, like the rest, he soon forgot about it and started talking about the Army game next Saturday.

And the Army may pay and pay for the Trojan audacity Saturday. Every man on the team promised that today and "Hunk" chuckling to himself, gave all the regulars a night off while he drilled teams two to eight on the Army formations.

Notre Dame's Regulars Get Well-Earned Rest

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Notre Dame's battered first team was given a day of rest by Coach Hunk Anderson today, but the second and third elevens went through a stiff workout in preparation for the Army game at New York Saturday. Most of the men who played in the Southern California game reported bruises, but all will be in shape to oppose the Army.

Friends and Alumni Flood Campus With Telegrams.

Yale Badly Battered, Grid Drill Called Off

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Football practice for the Yale varsity squad was called off for the day by Head Coach Mal Stevens this morning after a number of the players were found to have been bruised in the Harvard game of Saturday. Other players also had not reported from their Boston trip.

PITCHER UNDER KNIFE.

Nicholson, Montague, Lynch in Marathon

Bus Nicholson, Jimmy Montague and the veteran Mike Lynch will represent Washington in the annual Berwyk, Pa., 9-mile run on Thanksgiving Day. Nicholson, the youngster of the trio, was the first Washington runner to finish in the Takoma Park marathon on the Fourth of July.

AL FOREMAN WINS.

New Castle, England, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Al Foreman, of Montreal, British lightweight champion, outpointed Norman Dale, of New Castle, in a fifteen-round bout here tonight. Foreman floored Dale for eight in the third round, but thereafter the New Castle boy held the champion on fairly even terms.

3 Capital Coaches Make Public "Pep Talks" Today

THEY will rally around the District Building today, boys, whooping it up for the unemployed. So don't call the police when you hear a hullabaloo on E street between Thirteenth and Fourteenth between 12:15 and 12:30 o'clock.

The cops will be there to see that nothing interferes with this old-fashioned collegiate pep meeting, arranged to stimulate interest in the triple-headed benefit football game scheduled on December 12 in Griffith Stadium between Alabama's Rose Bowl champions of 1930 and the teams of George Washington, Catholic and Georgetown Universities.

Coaches Pixlee, of G. W.; Bergman, of C. U., and Mills, of G. U., whose teams will meet Alabama's Rose Bowl champions in the game, will speak for two minutes each, giving their views of the event and just what Alabama may expect to find in the way of opposition.

Old grads, students, everybody, are invited to attend. The coaches will speak from the balcony of the District Building, with loud speakers donated for the occasion by the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., carrying their oratory to the assemblage.

A band will be there to blast away on the familiar college tunes and cheer leaders will be ready to direct you in yelling for dear old alma mater. The cheer leaders, too, will tell what they

Prize Fighters, of Course, Have Contributed Nothing To Relief of Unemployed

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—The football teams, the horse tracks, and the wrestling promoters, although not the wrestlers themselves, have contributed or agreed to contribute important gate receipts to the relief of the unemployed. The prize fighters, of course, have not done anything; but, then, the prize fighters, when they fight for charity, always expect at least 50 per cent more for their services than they could expect to receive for the same bouts under ordinary commercial auspices.

Max Schmeling may count on a guarantee of $100,000 for his next fight in defense of the heavyweight championship, and I have no doubt he would be eager to shave his price upward as a special concession to the crisis and agree to fight for a guarantee of $150,000, any deficit to be met from the funds already raised to buy food and shelter for the poor. Mr. Schmeling is one of the most active philanthropists in the United States. He has made most of his present fortune in the charity business, as all his important fights, with one exception, were conducted under the tax-empt auspices of the Milk Fund, the Gin Fund, or the Brandy and Soda Fund, but his charity work has been conducted strictly on the Dutch treat basis. Max earns 50 cents for charity, and charity, not to be outdone, earns 50 cents for Max over and above the normal price of his services.

Unfortunately, Max is not physically able to offer his services to the unemployment relief just now, as he is still convalescing from a black eye received in his fight with Willie Stribling a little more than four months ago. That might seem time enough for a prize fighter claiming to be champion of the world to recover from a black eye, but Mr. Schmeling's black eye was an extraordinarily black eye.

The current heavyweight champion (with geographical limitations) is an uncommonly delicate young man. Several times this season I have seen young college students emerge from the jumbles of the scrimmage on the football field with their features seriously disarranged to take a brief time out against their own protests while their trainers sponged them off to see whether there could be any salvage of their original good looks. They have then shaken their heads and ripped back into the game with great abandon. Dick King, one of the young West Point cadents, collided with one of his messmates during the Harvard game a few weeks ago and left the field at the end of the game with one side of his face swollen into the shape and purple iridescence of the ripe eggplant. On the Schmeling schedule of convalescence, this amateur athlete, who will appear in the Army-Navy game for the benefit of the unemployed, might not be expected to resume play for several years, for his black eye was even blacker than Schmeling's and of much greater extent. Still, the comparison is not fair, and perhaps I should not have brought it up, because a permanently black eye might ruin a heavyweight champion's career, which is largely devoted to the stage and the movies. If a young Army officer's eye be damaged he is merely surveyed out of the service and allowed to study the problem of unemployment from the inside.

But an inveterate philanthropist such as Schmeling undoubtedly would be willing to run the risk for a guarantee of $150,000. The prize fight, which would have to be held indoors at this time of the year, would show a loss, and the deficit would have to be met somehow, for business is business, especially in the

24 Fatalities Now Toll of Football

Fordham Tackle in Serious Condition From Injury.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Football casualties over the week-end raised to 24 the total of deaths this season from injuries received in games on college and high school gridirons, sand lots and city streets, a survey made today by the Associated Press showed.

Two members of the St. Edward, Nebr., High School team died within 48 hours of each other as the result of football injuries, making the little Nebraska school the only team to suffer two fatal accidents so far this year. Allan Wake, 16-year-old full back, died yesterday of blood poisoning resulting from a hip injury suffered several days ago, and his teammate, William Weed, 18-year-old end, received a fatal skull fracture in a game Friday.

Six Collegians On List.

Six of the 22 players fatally injured were on college squads, 14 were members of high school teams and 4 were killed in games on sand lots or city street, among them an 8-year-old boy who was fatally hurt while scrimmaging on a Chicago pavement with playmates of his own age.

There were several serious injuries Saturday, three of them occurring in one game.

John Szymanski, substitute tackle on the Fordham football team, was still in a serious condition at Fordham Hospital, New York City, today with a hemorrhage of the brain and with his right side partially paralyzed. He was injured in the third period of Fordham's losing game with Bucknell Saturday.

Two other Fordham players, Conny Murphy and Paul Howell, received slight brain concussions in the Bucknell game and were still in the hospital today.

The list of dead:

Richard B. Sheridan, West Point cadet; received broken neck in game with Yale.
C. V. Smith, tackle, of Millsaps College; received broken neck in game with Stetson.
James R. Nichols, Alabama University freshman; received broken back in practice scrimmage.
Fred Murphy, of Cortland, (N. Y.) Normal; died November 3 of injuries received in game October 24.
Louis De Sabato, Vandergrift (Pa.) High School; received fatal brain concussion in sandlot game.
Allan Wake, St. Edward (Nebr.) High School; died of infection following hip injury.
Fred J. Boering, New York City; received ruptured blood vessel in sandlot game.
Roland Freer, Minneapolis; received broken neck in city league game.
Burli Best, Marysville (Calif.) High School; broken neck.
Michael Kocick, Herminie (Pa.) High School.
Edson Oberlin, Akron (Ohio) High School.
J. T. Chandler, Mount Vernon (Tex.) High School; died of spinal injuries.

PENN MEETS CORNELL ON THURSDAY

Special to The Washington Post.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 23.—More than 70,000 persons are expected to witness the annual football classic between Pennsylvania and Cornell Thanksgiving Day afternoon on Franklin Field. The game is scheduled to start at 2 o'clock. The largest crowd of the season, including more than 10,000 undergraduates and graduates of Cornell, will find the Ithacans ruling the favorite at game time to repeat their triumph of last season.

The Dobie coached eleven has been defeated once this season. Dartmouth turning the trick, despite the superiority of the Ithacans in ground gained and in first downs. Six teams fell before Cornell before it was defeated by the Green.

Notre Dame Only Victor Over Penn.

Pennsylvania has suffered one reverse, losing to the high-powered Notre Dame eleven. Its unimpressive showing against Georgia Tech has led the experts to predict a Cornell triumph. However, triumphs over Lafayette and Wisconsin prove that Pennsylvania has a team to be feared.

The improvement in the condition of Howard Colehower, brilliant tackle, has raised hopes in the camp of the Pennsylvanians. Injured in the Notre Dame game, Colehower was unable to play against Georgia Tech and indulged in only light work during the past week. There is a strong possibility that he may start in his regular place at right tackle.

The game will mark the thirty-eighth between the two inveterate rivals, the series starting in 1893 and continuing except for 1918. The upper hand is held by Pennsylvania with 27 tirumphs to eight for Cornell. Two have resulted in ties.

Catholic and Loyola Teams Seek Advantage in Series

ELEVENS of Catholic University and Baltimore Loyola will be playing the "rubber" of a five-game series Thursday when they clash in Catholic's annual "homecoming" at Brookland. The fifth season of competition will find the teams securely deadlocked when hostilities are launched at 2:30 o'clock.

In 1926 Loyola, inspired by the versatility of Paully Byrne and aggressive ball running of Harry Child, upset C. U., 7 to 0.

The following season found the Cardinals avenging this defeat with a 19-to-12 triumph and repeating in 1928 with a 21-to-13 verdict.

Football relations were discontinued temporarily in 1929, but a year ago Loyola turned in the most decisive victory yet, scoring by a 20-to-6 margin.

Breaking the tie now existing likely will prove a Herculean task Thursday. Both schools are boasting the most powerful representation in their respective histories and, spurred on by the incentive of traditional rivalry, should wage the mightiest battle yet recorded.

Anything but encouraging to C. U. followers is the well-founded report that Loyola, in Duke Dellaire, boasts one of the outstanding forward passers of the East. Furthremore, Dellaire spins aerials with his left hand, shooting them to all angles of the

Tie With Oregon High Point of Invaders' Fine Record.

By JACK ESPEY.

THE Nodaks of North Dakota University, winners of nine straight games before the heat and a lucky pass sent them down to defeat by Duquesne University last Saturday, arrived here yesterday, 23 strong (literally as well as figuratively), to prepare for their Thanksgiving Day clash with the Colonials of George Washington.

As his sinewy, battle-scarred charges jogged through a light workout in Griffith Stadium, scene of the forthcoming game, Coach C. A. West spoke quietly but convincingly of their past accomplishments and of what they hope to do against George Washington.

Philosophical about the Duquesne defeat that ruptured hopes of completing a season unbeaten, West said that his team will give George Washington all the opposition it is seeking if, in the next two days, the players return to their best physical condition.

The sudden change in climatic conditions experienced in their trip from Grand Forks to Pittsburgh to Washington and a number of injuries sustained prior to the Duquesne battle, as well as in that game, have left the invaders in physical shape far from equal to the rigors of a fast, hard-fought struggle such as they anticipate.

Stifling Heat Is Handicap.

"The temperature was 12 above zero when we left Grand Forks last Thursday," said Coach West, "and when we played Duquesne we were simply dead on our feet. From weather such as we left we ran into stifling heat in Pittsburgh that acted as much against our chances as any factor on the field.

"In the intervening time, however, we have begun to get acclimated and with a couple of more days I am hoping the weather will no longer prove a handicap. Of course, if it is cool on Thursday, that will just suit us perfectly.

"However, we have some injuries that are worrying me aplenty, the condition of Ralph Pierce, our all-around back, giving me the most concern. Pierce, who was on the sidelines with injuries when we tied Oregon, received a general banging around last Saturday.

"But our schedule of practice here is mapped out with a view to resting the entire squad as much as possible. The boys with ailments of any sort, I believe, will have time to recuperate fully. Then, too, there is nothing for us to do but eat and sleep, aside from a short practice tomorrow, before we play the game.

"Our schedule this season has been a mighty tough one, all of our conference (North Central) games coming in midseason and requiring us to put on the steam at a comparatively early stage. I am not so sure but that our beating from Duquesne was not due to having gone through a series of particularly hard games previously. On five successive Saturdays we played De Paul, which defeated Detroit University; South Dakota, South Dakota Aggies, Oregon and North Dakota Aggies, and in every instance the opposition was all primed to give us the battle of our lives.

Duquesne Victory Surprise.

"From what I have learned, George Washington is coming strong, and if we can take the game we will feel well satisfied with our record."

North Dakota's defeat at the hands of Duquesne was unquestionably a distinct upset of the dope. In fact, there was every indication before they met that North Dakota was far and away the superior eleven.

In holding Oregon to a scoreless tie, the Nodaks checked a team that decisively defeated New York University a week later and which last Saturday defeated University of California, lower branch, which had conquered St. Mary's. When it is considered that St. Mary's took the measure of Southern California, which subdued Notre Dame's famous team last week, North Dakota's tie with Oregon takes on added significance of its real strength.

Nodaks Outplayed Oregon.

Against Oregon, the Nodaks gained a total of 94 yards without the services of their best ball-carrier, Pierce. Oregon, on the other hand, gained only 67 yards. In the New York game a week later, Oregon slashed the defense of the Violent Violets to ribbons.

While only one of them could be classified as a giant—he is Ted Mein-

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

The Athletics are viewing the Yankees as the foremost threat in the 1932 campaign.

Connie Mack has decided that his reserve strength is not all that it should be and has shipped Jim Moore, outfielder, and Joe Palmisano, catcher, to the minors.

The Yankees' infield is expected to be materially bolstered by the addition of Frank Crossetti, of the Coast League, purchased two years ago for delivery in 1932.

The return of George Pipgras to pitching form after a long siege of idleness last season with an appendicitis attack will give the Yankees one more dependable hurler.

Washington doubtless will be the long shot among the first three contenders with the Nats having failed to make any notable replacements.

Heinie Manush's contract is slated to suffer a revision downward as a result of his pitiful weakness at the plate last season, which was one of the mysteries of the campaign.

Walter Johnson has ordered Alvin Crowder to report ahead of the other regulars at the Biloxi camp in an effort to rid Crowder of the complex that he can not be effective in the early games of the season.

Pending the disposal of Joe Judge by the Nats, if that is to come to pass, he is likely to succeed Joe Kuhel as the regular first baseman at the start of the season and continue that role as long as the Nats are in a contending position, on account of Kuhel's light hitting last year.

Pepper Martin and the other Cardinals who displayed larceny in their feet in the last world series did the American League a distinct service in revealing the vulnerability of the Athletics.

American League managers, taking their cue from the Cardinals, doubtless will take more liberties with Mickey Cochrane's arm than was the case last year when Cochrane's reputation alone commanded deep respect.

Word from Philadelphia is that Blackburne discovered a fault in Walberg's southpaw delivery that robbed him of his effectiveness, all because he did not step far enough toward first base in throwing his curve which had all the attributes of a cross-fire.

Bucky Harris can blame the Tigers' failure on two items—injuries by wholesale lots and the fact that the Tigers are the lowest-salaried club in the league.

Harris as manager of the Washington Club in 1926, 1927 and 1928, after winning two pennants and one world series, worked for a $33,000 annual stipend, which is several thousands more than he now receives.

"Lefty" Grove is making it hard for the pitchers on the Japanese teams which the Americans are meeting on their tour of Nippon. The fans cheer Grove for his strikeouts of the Japanese and then jeer the native pitchers because they can't strike out hitters like Simmons, Frisch and O'Doul.

Mickey Cochrane is unable to be the battery mate of Grove in the games in Japan on account of the fact that the rules forbid more than two players of a world series team from playing on a barnstorming club. With Al Simmons, also in the Americans' line-up, the catching duties devolve on Muddy Ruel when Grove is in the box.

Roy Spencer, of the Nationals' catching staff, is winning recognition as the best plate blocker in the league next to Mickey Cochrane. Spencer's knees are the best part of his blocking equipment.

Yale Faces Holy Cross In Charity Game Draw

New York, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Yale will engage Holy Cross and Dartmouth will meet Brown in the football round robin to be played for charity in the Yale Bowl, December 5, it was announced tonight.

The pairings were made arbitrarily after the original plan of deciding the opponents by lot had been abandoned by mutual cosent.

Yale was picked to play Holy Cross because the two teams had not met during the regular season, and the same holds true of Brown and Dartmouth.

The two winners will square off in the finals. The draw, as made, will lead to a renewal of the 33-to-33 tie to which Yale and Dartmouth played earlier in the season, provided these two teams win their first games.

The games will be of 24 minutes duration, split into halves of 12 minutes each. After an intermission of 15 minutes the final will be played under the same time system.

MEASURE TAKES MEASURE OF SMALL FIELD IN BOWIE FEATURE

Filly Breezes Home at 3½ to 1

Whipper Cracker, Favorite, Second; Dancing Mack Third.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

BOWIE RACE TRACK, Nov. 23.—The Greentree Stable scored easily with Measure in the program feature here today, called the Long Green Purse. Mrs. Betty Star's Whipper Cracker, the favorite, made a determined bid in the stretch, but could not catch the fleet filly being piloted toward the goal, and was second, beaten a length. A. G. Weston's Dancing Mack, showing much early speed, was third.

Measure spoiled Dancing Mack's game, to steal off to a long lead and get away with the purse before the others could catch him. Measure flattened him out on the turn, and a moment later Whipper Cracker passed him, and he could only get third. Gigantis, heavily backed, ran a poor race. The time was fast, a mile and 70 yards in 1:45. The winner paid $9.

Mrs. Parker Corning's Merrily On, coupled with Marshall Field's Lanson and R. L. Gerry's Goober, won the first race, for 2-year-olds, by a nose from Habanero, C. V. Whitney's colt, in a stirring stretch battle. H. G. Bedwell's Fast Storm was third and Herkimer fourth. They ran a mile and 70 yards in 1:45 4-5. J. Long rode the winner, this making his seventh victory here. Merrily On led all the way, but the Whitney colt was closing fast on him. Goober, in the winning entry, is a good-looking colt by the famous stake winner of a few years back, Peanuts. The winner paid $8.90.

Jack Campbell
Scores.

Rudolph Spreckles' Jack Campbel won the second race, and ran 6 furlongs in 1:12. W. Kelsay had the mount on the winner. It was another nose finish, Calgary Kay being second. Bacciocco, favorite, was third. Considering this race was for $2,500 claiming platers, the time was unusually fast for the class of the field. Bacciocco led to the sixteenth, then the leaders were bunched, with the results given above.

H. G. Bedwell's Fair Folly, after delaying the start and being placed outside the gate, won the third race by four lengths, with W. Prior up. J. C. Fletcher's Fair Bill was second and Mrs. S. W. Richards' Buck Hero third. Annapolitan set up a long lead and was displaced by Buck Hero. Fair Folly closed on the outside, winning easily, and Fair Bill, coupled with Wandering Gold, also closed fast, but could never endanger the leader. Black Patrician got fourth. Time, 1:45 3-5, 1 mile and 70 yards.

Playpole Surprise
Winner.

W. L. Hernstadt's Playfole was a surprise in the Genteel, a purse for 2-year-old fillies. Under a good ride by Steffen, she ran over her field in the stretch and won by two lengths from Marshall Sobieha, and a length back of her P. S. P. Randolph's Lady Blue finished third. Diane de Portiers, an early leader, was fourth.

Ten fillies went to the starting gate in this race without a decided favorite, and until the close the prices shifted rapidly. As an instance, the Greentree Stable's Delicacy opened at 15 to 1 and went as low as 9 to 2.

Diane de Portiers was first away, with Lady Blue next and soon in front. Big America challenged, but soon tired. Steffen, on Playfole, and J. Long on Sobieha fought it out in the stretch. The time was 1:12 2-5.

Trombone proved the longest shot of the afternoon when he crossed the line in the sixth race a nose in front of Mrs. Nat Ray's Blaze White. Nevada Stock Farm's Klip Drift, finally backed down, was third. E. Watters rode th winner for the B. B. Stable. He closed fast, took the lead in the stretch and was ridden out to hold an advantage at the finish. He paid $31.50. Blaze White was $16.20 a place. The time was 1:45 4-5, a mile and 70 yards.

A. W. Abbott's Gay Bird, under a hustling ride by Robertson, fought it out with Westko in the stretch to win the seventh race by a nose. Anchor Light was third, five lengths away from the leaders. It was much as if it had been a two-horse race, for after early contention from Justiciary the race resolved into a duel between the two. Westko was slight favorite over Gay Bird, which paid $9.90. They ran a mile and a sixteenth in 1:48.

MERRILY ON outran her field to the first turn, was steadied along until midway of the far turn, responded to a stout drive and, holding on with rare courage, just lasted long enough. HABANERO, a forward factor from the start, saved ground entering the home stretch, was severely punished during the closing furlong and was wearing the winner down steadily. FAST STORM worked his way up gamely and finished with good courage. HERKIMER, shuffled back following the break, went to the outside and made up ground gamely. CHOSEN PAL lacked early speed. JUNGLE BOY was unable to menace the leaders. GOOBER weakened, as did LANSON.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—JACK CAMPBELL, $10.50, $6.90, $5.10; CALGARY KAY, $13.90, $8.20; BACCIOCCO, $3.80.

JACK CAMPBELL, away in the first flight and kept in near attendance of the leaders while racing on the inside, came determinedly for the final drive, wore BACCIOCCO down and, holding on willingly, just lasted to outstay CALGARY KAY. Latter, a stout factor from the beginning, finished full of run and would have been winner in a few more strides. BACCIOCCO, hurried to the front, saved ground wherever possible and held on well approaching the finish. GAY PAL lacked early foot after breaking well, was shaken up and closed with a rush on the outside. ANGRY PLUME had no mishaps. GUILDER weakened in the final three furlongs. ONCORA could not threaten the leaders.

THIRD RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For all ages, foaled in Maryland. Start good from gates. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:24. Off at 2:29. Winner, H. G. Medwell's b. f. (4), by Fair Gain—Charlotte C. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $950; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24, 0:48 3-5, 1:14, 1:40 3-5, 1:45 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FAIR FOLLY, $8.10, $4.80, $3.60; FAIR BILL (J. C. Fletcher entry), $9.10, $6.00; BUCK HERO, $5.40.

FAIR FOLLY, outrun early, improved her position on the outside, came stoutly through the final stages and was racing stoutly at the finish. FAIR BILL, crowded back by BUCK HERO going to the first turn, settled in his stride and closed resolutely in the closing stages. BUCK HERO raced into a brief lead midway of the far turn, saved a lot of ground when entering the home stretch, but weakened badly in the closing drive. BLACK PATRICIA, kept well placed, tired under punishment when put to a drive. ANNAPOLITAN quit after moving into a good lead. SNAPPY SNUB lacked speed.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300; allowances. The Genteel. For 2-year-old fillies. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:01. Off at 3:06. Winner, W. P. Bendstadt's b. or br. f. (2), by My Play—Princess Colleen. Trained by S. L. Burch. Value to winner, $950; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:47 2-5, 1:12 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PLAYFOLE, $10.80, $7.00, $4.40; SOBIEHA, $8.90, $6.30; LADY BLUE, $6.70.

PLAYFOLE, rushed into a forward position, moved to the leaders stoutly when nearing the home stretch, wore LADY BRUE down inside the final furlong and was moving clever under pressure. SBIEHA, outrun for the first three furlongs, improved her position on the outside and finished on the inside for the final drive. LADY BLUE raced BIG AMERICA into submission, saved ground, but weakened from her early efforts. DIANE DE POITIERS, stoutly ridden from the start, faltered when the final test came. LUCKY RACKET could not get to the leaders at any stage. DELICACY raced evenly. LADY GENERAL quit early.

FIFTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,500; allowances. The Long Green. For 3-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:35. Off at 3:38½. Winner, Greentree Stable's dk. br. f. (3), by Chicle—Rinkey. Trained by W. Brennan. Value to winner, $1,050; second, $250; third, $150; fourth, $50. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MEASURE, $9.00, $4.00, $3.40; WHIPPER CRACKER, $2.20, $2.50; DANCING MACK, $4.50.

MEASURE, following DANCING MACK closely for the first half mile, took command midway of the back stretch, was steadied in front until challenged approaching the home stretch, responded to vigorous pressure and outstayed WHIPPER CRACKER. Latter, bumped at the first turn and in tight quarters when moving up between his field on the back stretch, secured racing room in the final half mile, but was unable to make up any ground when reaching the pacemaker. DANCING MACK held on well after being displaced. ANNIMESSIC showed a good effort for the entire trip. GIGANTIC was forced to race on the outside for the entire journey. MINE SWEEPER broke slowly, was rushed up on the inside, but was not good enough.

SIXTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:11. Off at 4:14½. Winner, R. B. Stable's b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—TROMBONE, $31.50, $13.90, $7.90; BLAZE WHITE (field), $16.20, $7.30; KLIP DRIFT, $5.10.

TROMBONE, rated in a forward position and responding gamely when the final test came, held on willingly to outlast BLAZE WHITE. Latter raced around his field to enter contention at the far turn, drew on practically even terms with the winner when straightened into the home stretch and fought it out desperately. KLIP DRIFT, slow to settle in full stride, closed full of run from a slow beginning. STEP SIS went well placed from the start, held on well for the final issue. SHIVA was never a formidable factor. STEPPING SISTER fell back after five furlongs. ALTMARK quit. JACKSTAFF tired early and was eased up.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 2-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:45. Off at 4:47½. Winner, A. W. Two-dollar mutuels paid—GAY BIRD, $9.70, $5.70, $4.60; WESTKO, $3.60, $2.80; ANCHOR LIGHT, $3.60.

GAY BIRD, sent into the thick of contention and rated in pursuit of the leaders until leaving the back stretch, assumed an easy lead, but was forced to a stout drive during the stretch run and just lasted long enough. WESTKO, slow to reach his best stride, worked his way up on the outside, responded to punishment and finished wearing the winner down gradually. ANCHOR LIGHT, shuffled back going to the first turn, recovered and, closing with good speed on the outside, outstayed JUSTICIARY. Latter, prominent early, weakened during the final drive after saving a lot of ground. FAYLIN, allowed to drop out of it, came willingly when shaken up. MINA F. raced evenly. NORA'S GRACE stopped badly after six furlongs.

RACING NOTES AT BOWIE

Special to The Washington Post.

BOWIE RACE TRACK, Nov. 23.—Johnny Kermath, after watching John F. Schorr's Frederick, 2-year-old black son of The Porter and Slow and Easy, breeze three quarters in 1:17 2-5 after the fourth race, purchased the colt privately from his owner.

Kermath, who is one of the up-an-coming young trainers of this country, will take Frederick to the winter's racing at Miami.

Joseph McLennan, racing secretary, issued today the program for the Charity Day racing next Monday. Seven races have been provided, featured by the Belvidere Hotel Handicap. Entries on the feature close Friday, for the other races on Saturday.

Bennet Creech is making arrangements to ship his horses from here to Agua Caliente, Mexico. He will stop at Kansas City to pick up a few additional horses.

John Schorr, who has been a bit under the weather, came over from Washington for a day's sport. He plans to leave shortly for Texas to take over the Three D's Stable's horses.

Two veteran riders, Charles Dennison and Jesse Bennet, held a reunion here this morning. Bennet is now custodian of the jockeys' room on all State tracks.

William Doyle, of Laurel, plans to leave for New Orleans shortly after the New Year. He is employed as a patrol judge at the Fair Grounds.

The Glen Riddle Farms lost Full Dress via the claiming route to Tommy Sullivan, of Toronto. The latter dropped $5,100 into the claiming box and took the 4-year-old black son of Man O' War and Shady away.

Jockey C. Compton, a 100-pound apprentice, has made arrangements to accompany Don Yates, of Baltimore, to Cuba. The lad's book here is being handled by Pester Penman.

C. V. Whitney's Pennant, an eligible for the $10,000 Thanksgiving Day Handicap Thursday, turned a half in 0:49 2-5. The Wheatley Stable's Blenheim, another candidate for the Turkey Day feature, whirled a mile in 1:45 3-5.

DUNBAR WINS NEGRO HIGH CROWN

DUNBAR won the colored city championship, as well as the South Atlantic title yesterday at Walker Stadium before 6,500 when the dark garnet team defeated the orange and yellow aggregation from Armstrong in the fourth quarter of a nip-and-tuck struggle, 7-0.

Both teams, previously undefeated, had won five games and tied one each. For three quarters they appeared evenly matched. Both lines held superbly and every attempt to pass was smeared or thrown for a loss.

Dunbar rallied at the end of the third quarter, however. Capt. Minns leading the attack with a 7 yard run off-tackle to the 38-yard line, followed by Turner for 13 yards off-tackle to the 25-yard line. Minns reversed his field on the next play, carrying the ball to the 15-yard line where it was lost on a fumble.

Lone Score in Final Quarter.

Armstrong's kick was short and was run back to the 25-yard line, where Davidson carried it 10 yards to within striking distance of the Dunbar goal. Again Turner went off-tackle to the 4-yard line, where the quarter ended.

On the first play of the fourth quarter the Armstrong line held, but Dunbar made first down immediately thereafter on the 3-yard line, and Minns was shoved over for the only touchdown of the game following the next huddle. A pass, Matthews to Minns, made the extra point.

Armstrong's only chance to score came, with three minutes to play, when Minn's kick was blocked and recovered on the 30-yard line after Dunbar had been penalized 25 yards for unnecessary roughness and Davidson had been disqualified. A pass, Miller to Williams, was intercepted by Turner, on the 3-yard line, and the opportunity to even the count was definitely gone.

STANLEY, BEST G. U. KICKER, MAY BE OUT OF DETROIT GAME

Broken Ankle Feared by Coaches

Hilltop Squad Given Day of Rest by Coach Mills.

MACK STANLEY, right half back, whose all too brief appearance in Georgetown's line-up this season has been prominently identified with the Hilltop's recent splendid showing, may be lost for the Blue and Gray's last game, scheduled with Detroit University next Saturday in Griffith Stadium.

Stanley, it is feared, has a broken ankle as a result of a scrimmage in the Villanova game last Saturday. The injury, at first thought slight, was ominously painful when he tried to walk yesterday morning. When he hobbled into the gymnasium on crutches, Trainer Harry Crowley immediately sent him to Georgetown Hospital, where an X-ray examination was made. The diagnosis will not be known until today.

Suffered Sprained Shoulder.

Suffering a sprained shoulder at the beginning of the training season, Stanley was unable to get into action until the Bucknell game on November 7, but simultaneously with his appearance, Georgetown began improving.

Stanley is an especially proficient kicker, something that Georgetown lacked much to its sorrow during the first six weeks of the season. In addition, Stanley is an excellent blocker, an alert defensive man, and a ball-toter who "keeps digging" when tackled.

Given a day off yesterday, the Hilltoppers begin practice for the Titans this afternoon in Griffith Stadium. Saturday's game will start at 2 o'clock instead of 2:30 as previously announced.

Detroit will present one of the outstanding drop-kickers of the Middle West in Rocky Parsaca, full back. Parsaca's "educated toe" has produced two field goals for the Titans this year and on a number of occasions when an extra point was needed he has come through with drop-kicks after touchdowns.

Georgetown will have a drop-kicker to offer in opposition with Johnny Shimmins, who is capable of booting 'em over the bar from all angles and distance as far out as 40 yards.

American U. Enthused As Court Drills Start

The first day of basket ball practice at the American University portends the best season the Eagles have yet to experience in the court game. Three regulars from last year, Sells, Dick and Olsen, and four of last year's reserves, Larsen, Washburn, Fuchs and Williams, reported in good shape.

The season opens December 9 against Maryland State Normal. Hampden-Sidney will be met two days later and Navy will be encountered later in the year.

Among the promising-looking new boys to appear yesterday were Buffington, Gladstone Williams, Crampton and Dan Kessler, an Eastern High graduate. The team will have better reserves this year. The only real losses suffered are those of Colison, guard, and Woods, forward. Woods transferred to Northwestern.

CHEVY CHASE FIVE WINS.

Chevy Chase Grays opened their season last night with a 23-20 victory over Company F. Never more than two points separated the teams at any time until the finish. Bill Evans played a good defensive game, while Williams, of the losers, took high-scoring honors of the night.

PENNANTS DRILL.

The Petworth Pennants will drill tonight at 7:30 o'clock on the Iowa avenue playground. All players are requested to report promptly. The team meets the Northern Preps in a Capital City League game Sunday.

CENTRAL SWIMMERS START.

Central's swimming team will open its season Friday night with a dual meet against George Washington University's freshman tankmen. The teams will meet at the Ambassador Pool, the first event being scheduled for 7:30 o'clock.

MERCURY WANTS GAME.

The Mercury 125-pound football team would like to arrange a game with a strong team in its class for Thanksgiving Day. The Wingfeet have compiled a great record this season. Teams interested should call Manager Riley at District 9151.

Hitting the Head Pin

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON

WITH two of the major bowling sweepstakes of the year already launched, Washington will be treated to its third and, incidentally, one of the most brilliant of the big-money events when the Dixie Sweepstakes is rolled Saturday. Unlike the Meyer Davis and Greater Washington, the two now in progress, the fifteen games comprising the Dixie will be rolled within the limitations of a single day. The first block of five games will be contested at Convention Hall at 10:30 a. m., the second at Lucky Strike at 2:30 p. m., and the final at Columbia at 7:30 p. m.

According to George L. Isemann, who is handling the entries for the affair, the list is mounting rapidly, and a record number may leave the barrier. If only the committee which is advertised as handling the stakes enters, 23 in number (count 'em), a fair-sized purse will go home with the winner. Many crack pinspillers from out of town will hike to town for a try at the dough, and also a medal. The latter is undoubtedly the magnet which will attract them. In addition Washington's own topnotchers will get down on the line. All of which makes for a very interesting day and a successful sweepstakes.

Alice McQuinn's set of 390 was an important factor in Live Stock's odd game triumph over Extension in the Ladies' Agriculture loop at Columbia. Cotton, Cooperation and Accounts won 2-1 decisions over Foreign, Information and Inter-Division, respectively. Miss Hall's 106 was the best individual game of the evening. Extension bagged team set honors by virtue of its 1,311 total, and the award for team game was captured by Live Stock with its 499.

There was no hair splitting in the Odd Fellows League at Convention Hall last night. If you won, as Friendship and Mount Pleasant did, you won, and a loss was a loss. Central and Amity No. 2, the losers, were lacking only three games of trimming their opponents.

La Bille snatched the leadership of the Sanico League from the Fagans at Convention Hall by winning from the latter, 2-1. In the other matches Upperman downed Trencken, Willis bested Foster and King took Hendricks, all by the odd game. The only clean sweep of the evening was scored by McFall, which routed Wynn.

Chestnut Farms and Lansburgh No. 1 are back at their old tricks in the King Pin Business Men's League. The dairymen took the odd game from Lansburgh No. 2, while Lansburgh No 1 was taking a 2-1 drubbing from King Pin, on the latter's drives, with the result that the pair are again deadlocked for the lead. Woods was the hero of the Farm Boys' win, rolling a set of 349.

Ben Balducci's good work went for naught in the Petroleum League as his Chapman team took it flush on the nose for a three-game loss to Lord Baltimore, at Columbia. Balducci's best efforts produced a game of 145 and set of 368. In the other matches Crew-Levick turned back Gulf Refining by one game, Standard hooked the final tilt out of Tidewater's reach to win a 2-1 victory, and Texas finished American Oil off to win by the odd game.

Fruits and Vegetables (another of those trick names) flattened the Horticulturists at Columbia in the Men's Agriculture League, winning all-three games. Nomics took the odd one from Grain, and Farm Management white-washed Standard. Dixon, of Grain, was credited with high set of the evening, 338, and Farm Management furnished the high game man, McClure, who broke a good bit of potential furniture with his 128 game.

Jim Welsh felt the urge to do something bigger and better in a bowling way at Arcadia in the Engineering Reproduction League last night, and when Jim gave way to the impulse and cracked enough firewood for the winter with a game of 147 and three-game total of 337, the Photographers were also doing things in a big way, splitting the maples for a 543 game and 1,551 set.

Sam Simons, of G. P. O., and Slicer, of Postoffice, divided the individual glory of the Men's Federal League at Arcadia. Sam took the high game prize with his 142, and Slicer ran up a 393 set. Navy's 605 clinched team honors, while Postoffice carried off high set with a mark of 1,712.

Earl McAleer, and his Mechanics team, were the big guns in the Wardman Park League at Arcadia. Earl turned in a game of 124 and followed this with a 349 set to garner individual laurels. The team's game was 581 and the set, 1,633.

Rinaldi Tailors pulled a "sleeper" on the unsuspecting Takoma Park crew in the National Capital League at Lucky Strike last night and won all three. Ollie Webb, with a game of 136 and set of 395, made a gallant, but fruitless effort to stave off the rush of the Tailors, but it was not enough. Takoma's scores were 574, 545, and 562. Rinaldi registered games if 590, 557, and 586. Nicro, of the winning aggregation, took high game honors when he toppled the maples for a count of 137, just one more than Mr. Webb's best effort, but the latter's set mark was far above Nicro's 371.

Lucy Owens continued her killing pace in the Eastern Star Ladies' League with a game of 124 and set of 299 at Lucky Strike. She was not up to her usual standard, but still retained enough of the old form to outdistance her rivals. Unity's 486 took team game honors and Brookland brought home the set bacon with a total of 1,385.

Kimball and Drake played the leading roles in the General Counsel loop's show at Lucky Strike. The former ridded himself of a 146 game that's been worrying him for some time, and his partner in crime hung up a 363 set. The Robins found the pins for a 534 game, and the Indians whooped things up with their set of 1,582.

Purple Gridmen Tired, Excused From Work

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Still showing signs of weariness, Northwestern's football squad was given only a lecture and short signal drill by Coach Dick Hanley today. The Wildcats looked a little better against Iowa last week, than against Indiana the week previous, but were not yet their old selves and probably will do little scrimmaging in preparation for the charity battle with Purdue Saturday.

COAL DEALERS PLAY.

The Delaware & Hudson Coal Co. quint will meet the United Typewriter Grays tomorrow night at 9:30 o'clock in the Central High gym. A formidable team, headed by Jimmy Ryan and Ted Cappelli, former Eastern and all-high court stars, is representing the coal dealers on the floor this season.

NAVY ELEVEN RESTED BY MILLER

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 23.—Navy gridders who participated in a major portion of Saturday's game against Southern Methodist University, were given a respite today, but will resume activities again tomorrow.

The rest of the varsity squad and the shock troops of Squad B, however, were out in full force and a lively scrimmage was put on by these two groups under the direction of Head Coach Rip Miller and his staff of assistants. Slashing gains off tackle by Tom Hurley, full back of the second team, featured the practice. Hurley was regular full back last year and developed into a consistent ball carrier as well as a power in the secondary defense toward the close of the campaign. He was taken ill during the summer practice cruise this year, however, and was delayed in joining the squad. He is now showing much of his old-time form. "Jimmy" Campbell has been filling the full back berth throughout the season, and his showing has been of such a high order that it is doubtful if Hurley will displace him.

The Navy mentors plan to take Wooster College, of Ohio, opponent of the Tars on the coming Saturday, in stride, and Rip Miller and his board of strategy are concentrating their plan of campaign for the Pennsylvania game at Philadelphia December 5 and the Army battle at New York a week later.

"Old Bill," a big white goat, famous mascot of the Navy gridders, is the father of twin daughters, athletic authorities of the academy were advised today. The "kids" were born at the Naval Academy dairy farm at Gambrills, 9 miles from Annapolis, and Nanny and her brood are coming along nicely.

Capt. R. W. Schumann, officer in charge of the Midshipmen's commissary, who is an ardent football fan and fond of the goat mascot, was the first to come forward and suggest names for the youngsters. He would dub one of them "Josette," after the daughter of Premier Laval of France, who recently visited here, and the other "Nanny."

Manor Charity Golf To Mrs. McClelland

In the women's tournament on the course of the Manor Club yesterday for the benefit of the unemployment relief fund a field of 28 women golfers participated. The low gross prize was won by Mrs. E. M. McClelland with a card of 47—41—88. Mrs. J. W. Beller finishing second with 50—40—90. The low net prize was won by Mrs. Mack Myer with a card of 93—19—74, with Mrs. Frank R. Keefer second with 91—16—75.

In the men's tournament for the unemployment relief fund the winner was W. A. Warthen, whose net score was 75, the lucky number. Ralph P. Gibson won his Thanksgiving turkey with a low net of 68.

Army Starts Drills For Notre Dame Game

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 23 (U.P.).—Army got under way today in its final drive for the Notre Dame game. A chalk-talk in the gym was followed by 45 minutes of work on the gridiron. Tomorrow and Wednesday the Cadets will continue their preparations, leaving here on Thursday afternoon for Briarcliff, where they will be quartered until the game on Saturday.

The squad came through the easy contest will Ursinus last Saturday in perfect physical condition.

MERIDIANS ORGANIZE.

The Meridian Athletic Club will sponsor a basket ball team in the 145-pound division this season. Several players, including Wholen, Askin, Scafide, Watson, Cleveland and Koontz, have already been signed. An interesting schedule is being arranged for the team.

STOCK PRICES DROP AFTER SLIGHT RALLY

New York, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Security and commodity markets made a poor start on the new week today.

Stocks limped lower after selling of railroad equities had placed an unsupportable burden on an early rally by the industrials, although in most instances final prices were up from the lows.

United States Steel was again under pressure, reacting to 58¾, the lowest since 1915, and closing at 59⅝, off 1⅛. American Telephone broke under 130, but reduced the loss to a fraction. Tobacco shares slumped on reports that October cigarette production was some 6 per cent under September and about 18 per cent below a year ago. Allied Chemical, Borden, American Smelting, Western Union, Columbian Carbon and Du Pont were off a point or more at the close.

Rails averaged into new low ground, net declines ranging from 1 to 3 in common stocks but somewhat beyond that in the case of a few preferreds, thanks to late coverings, the Associated Press-Standard statistics composite of 90 miscellaneous stocks lost only six-tenths of a point. Volume was slightly less than recent levels, amounting to 1,352,446 shares.

Rail Conference Reacts.

Failure of last week's conference among railway executives and labor leaders to reach a settlement of the wage question had an adverse effect on sentiment, notwithstanding the generally held Wall street opinion that success was unlikely. The method of approach now opened holds possibilities of rather protracted negotiations.

Meanwhile, October operating results are showing the all too familiar decline in earning and the schedule of dividend meetings assumes fresh importance. New Haven's board meets tomorrow. Although some directors are said to favor omission of the $1 quarterly payment, it is believed considerable difference of opinion exists and that action may be deferred for a fortnight.

Pennsylvania Railroad holds the largest single interest in New Haven and its representatives are understood to favor retention of the dividend.

A break in sterling stood out in the day's money and foreign exchange markets. Affected, apparently, by heavy payments being made for imports before the antidumping is applied, the pound broke more than 7 cents and closed near the bottom, the final demand rate being above $3.65. Other currencies were generally lower.

Production of Steel.

Steel production may reach a 32 or 33 per cent ratio this week, according to the trade review "Steel," which pointed out that even if no further advance is made the industry will round out November with an average rate fully 3 per cent over October. Automotive plants are contributing the bulk of the current improvement, their aggregate demands being fairly substantial.

The preponderance of news which speculative circles have construed as unfavorable is believed to have built up a rather impressive short interest in the stock market. So far there has been no concerted attempt to force covering, but many brokerage houses feel the ground is being laid for a sharp technical rally. Weakness of the rails, which have led every decline this year, doubtless continues to feed the short account.

Wheat's losses of 2 to 2¾ cents net were traceable in part to rains in Kansas and Nebraska, a weak Liverpool market and unfavorable Argentine reports. Corn was off ¾ to 1 cent, but cotton was steady, finishing a point higher to 2 lower.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Severe tumbles in British exchange rates put a strain on wheat prices today and led to breaks of almost 3 cents a bushel. Bottommost quotations reached were about 15 cents lower than the top of the recent extraordinary advance of 24 cents. Weakness of sterling exchange tended to halt export business, and the market was also heavily affected by rains and snow in domestic wheat territory that had been complaining of drought.

Wheat closed nervous, 2 to 2¾ cents under Saturday's finish, corn ⅞ to 1¼ down, oats ½ to ¾ off, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 5 cents.

From the outset wheat showed a decided tendency to plunge downward most of the day, but developed considerable rallying power in the late dealings. The United States wheat visible supply total, announced in the final half hour, exhibited a notable increase of 4,430,000 bushels, an amount much larger than was looked for, and this helped to check selling, which earlier had been heavy and general. Another aid to recovery was the fact that world shipments of wheat were 13,743,000 bushels, and stocks on ocean passage had decreased 464,000 bushels, making the total afloat about 11,000,000 bushels less than was the case at this time last year.

Meanwhile, however, bears made much of auspicious crop reports from Argentina and Australia, and also put stress on the extent of the fall in British exchange. Sterling rates were down to 3.65 as compared with 3.72½ earlier. The reason ascribed was selling to cover payments on goods which had been rushed to Great Britain in order to anticipate new tariff decrees. Another disturbing factor was notice of 36,996,000 bushels increase in estimates of the 1931 wheat crop of the northern hemisphere, bringing the total to 3,114,412,000 bushels, exclusive of Russia.

Corn and oats went lower owing to sympathy with wheat weakness, notwithstanding that corn-belt weather was unfavorable and despite extreme dearth of rural offerings.

RAIL BONDS RECORD NEW LOWS FOR 1931

General List Repeats Loss at Close; Turnover for Day Is $9,620,000.

New York, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—The bond market today indicated it was a blood relative of the stock mart, the majority of the issues following the downward path to a somewhat heavy close. The rail issues were especially weak, several of them dropping to new lows for the year.

At the same time, $7,478,000 of City of Boston 3¾s, 4¼s and 4½s, offered today by a group headed by the Guaranty Co. of New York, were oversubscribed, and the $150,000,000 Canadian government internal loan was reported being taken satisfactorily. Money also was inclined to be easier.

The averages for sixty corporate issues showed losses while a new average low for the year was recorded in 20 railroads. Total sales for the day were $9,620,000.

Market Is Quiet.

The market, however, was quiet outside of active selling of the rails.

Among the new lows registered by the carriers were Baltimore & Ohio Refunding 5s of 1995, at 72; Boston & Maine 5s of 1967, at 74½; Denver & Rio Grande Convertible 4s of 1986, at 60½; Erie Refunding and Improvement 5s of 1967, at 48½; Erie Convertible 4s, Series A, of 1953, at 49; Northern Pacific 6s, Series B, of 2047, at 86; Pennsylvania debenture 4½s, 1970, at 71¾; St. Louis & San Francisco 5s, Series B, of 1950, at 37, and St. Louis & Southwestern First 4s of 1932, at 45.

Most of the carriers fell from fractions to several points. Announcement that the railway presidents and union leaders had failed to reach an agreement on wage reductions at their joint conference which closed yesterday was believed to have adversely affected the loans of the various lines.

Investments Are Shifted.

Banks, insurance companies and other investing corporations recently have been heavy sellers of the rails, many of them switching from the carriers into public utility bonds and Treasury short-term issues.

Government bonds were somewhat mixed, the Treasury and Liberties registering slight losses and gains about equally, with the heaviest trading in the Treasuries, some of which moved up slightly.

Foreign obligations were irregular, Japanese loans closing at around 1 point losses, with the Nipponese utility and municipal list being unsettled. Argentine government bonds eased slightly, but the recessions were not large and the trading in them was light. German issues showed losses up to 4 points, although inclined at one time to rally.

BOXERS FAIL TO DONATE AS USUAL

Grid Hurts Compared to Those of Max Schmeling.

charity business. But, spread over a large number of the destitute, this would only mean a sacrifice of three or four meals apiece.

Mr. Owen D. Young, chairman of the (take a long breath) committee on mobilization of relief resources of the (do not get off while the car is in motion) President's organization on unemployment relief, perceives that the college student bodies are not adequately aroused over the stress of the people who have no jobs. With every confidence in their generosity, he believes they are missing a great spiritual opportunity just now merely because nobody has been able to mobilize their emotions. This probably is true, and it does seem that the same young people who are able to turn up enthusiasm to order at football pep meetings would, if properly appealed to, excite themselves over this cause. The difficulty is that it is hard to excite people over conditions which are commonplace to them, and many students fight their way through school in conditions of the bitterest poverty. Even at the Military Academy a few classes ago there was a cadet in the first class who asked permission to resign because his mother, who was supporting her other children as a scrubwoman, had fallen ill and couldn't carry on any more. The situation was met with loans from a confidential fund, and the young man was graduated into the Army with his class. It goes without saying that he was not a football player, however, as such a loan to a football man would have professionalized the recipient, and the Harvard Crimson might have pointed the finger of scorn at West Point.

Problem of Poverty Acute.

The problem of poverty and unemployment is acute enough to many college students at all times, with their maintenance in school dependent upon $3 jobs stoking fire boxes, washing dishes and pressing pants in their leisure hours. A rich manufacturer is supposed to have spent $21,000 on an automobile for his son to tool around in while at college a few years ago, but students who exist on $3 a week are more common even in boom times. Still, the poor are always sympathetic with the other poor, because they know just how it is, and it might arouse the undergraduates to something like the enthusiasm which Mr. Young desires to remind them that less than eight months hence about 250,000 of them will be graduated from school into the labor market.

One source of revenue for the unemployment has not been tapped, namely the speakeasies, which no city is without. The police, of course, have accurate knowledge of the locations and daily receipts of the speakeasies, and the customers might impose an economic boycott on all such resorts which do not display an official placard reading, "This joint has shared." I realize that all speakeasy proprietors have hearts of gold and carry on great philanthropies in secret, but this is a time when they need not blush to make their benefactions known. Otherwise, they are subject to doubt and suspicion, like those other self-abnegating characters, the familiar type who wear a harsh and surly manner toward all beneath them only to mask their extreme tenderness of heart.

MONROE TEAM CANCELS.

The Monroe Basket Ball Team is forced to cancel its game with the Alexandria Clovers, scheduled for Thursday night because of the loss of the team's gymnasium.

FAMOUS SEER
THE MAN WHO KNOWS
Special Readings
$1
This strange man sees the way and tells it all. Just what your life has been, just what it will be. Tells you when and whom you will marry; whether husband, wife or sweetheart is true or false. Tells an 60 changes, travel, lost or absent friends, divorce, wills; deeds; whether it is best to buy or sell. He tells the good and the bad. A visit will convince you of his wonderful power. Something tells you this is the man. You feel the impulse to call. Do not delay. Copyright, Apr., 1931

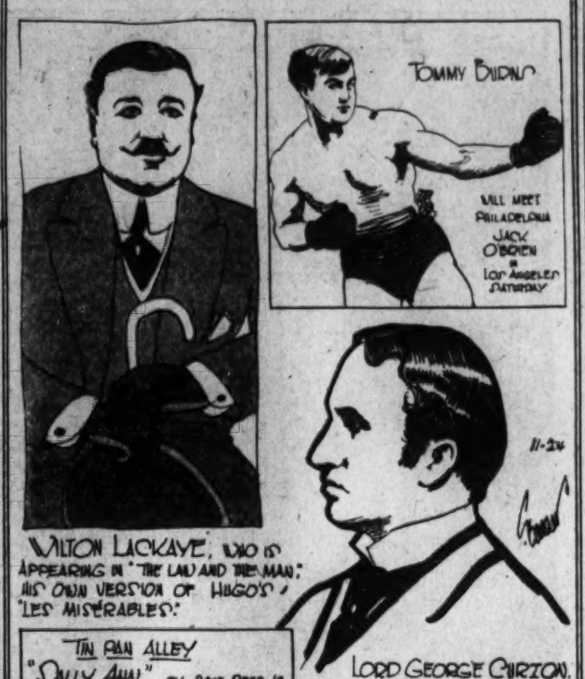
25 Years Ago Today



November 24, 1906.

The Twenty-second National Horse Show closed last night at the Madison Square Garden. Alfred G. Vanderbilt came off the winner with twelve ribbons. For the first time in the history of the show some of the judges' decisions were hissed.

Eight spectators were injured at the Point Breeze, Pa. race track when a racing car driven by Phil Kirk plunged through the fence surrounding the track and into a group. Kirk, nearing the finish of the 50 mile grind, lost control of his huge 60-horse-powered car and it turned on its side, leaving the track.

The City of Hamilton, Ontario, yesterday suffered its worse public disturbance. Rioters sympathetic with the strike now in progress there, swept through the city, leaving a path of destruction. The police were unable to cope with the situation.

Maria Musinka, of Passaic, N. J., has sold her baby for $8. She was unable to meet her board bill and her landlady agreed to accept the child in payment.

Mr. Martin, owner of the Cafe Martin, in New York, has received a challenge for a duel from Count Boni de Castellane, divorced husband of the former Anna Gould. Mr. Martin had telegraphed the count an offer to serve as head waiter at his restaurant, now that the Gould family had cut off his income. Mr. Martin said that he didn't think he would go to France for the fight.

EVERY HOTEL ROOM IN CITY TAKEN FOR NEXT FEBRUARY 22

GEORGETOWN CITIZENS TOLD OF FETE PROGRAM

District Commission's Head Say Eight Million Will Come Here in 1932.

Every hotel room in the District of Columbia already has been reserved for Washington's birthday, when the George Washington Bicentennial will open informally, Dr. George C. Havenner, vice president of the District Bicentennial Commission, told the Georgetown Citizens Association last night.

Earlier in the day Dr. Havenner declared at a meeting of the community affairs committee of the Washington Board of Trade at the Raleigh Hotel that perfect harmony now exists between the National George Washington Bicentennial Commission and the District Bicentennial Commission.

The parking situation, he told the Georgetown citizens, probably will be solved this week through appointment by the commission of a traffic expert to work out ways and means for handling the expected heavy volume of traffic in the District next year. Dr. Havenner did not indicate the identity of this expert beyond stating that he "is the one man who probably knows more about traffic than any one else in Washington."

Reviews District Program.

Dr. Havenner reviewed tentative plans for the program which is to be presented from Washington's Birthday to Thanksgiving Day next year, and stated that within a week he expects to be able to announce final and officially approved program details for the entire celebration.

Announcing that 135 organizations already have announced that their 1932 conventions will be held here during the bicentennial, Dr. Havenner last night increased his estimate of the probable number of visitors to the city from 6,000,000 to 8,000,000 persons.

High points of the celebration will take place on February 22, June 14, July 4 and Thanksgiving Day, Dr. Havenner said at both meetings.

E. C. Graham, a member of the District Bicentennial Commission, declared at the trade board session that Dr. Havenner is the best man who could have been selected to direct the activities of the commission. Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of George Washington University, and chairman of the commission, said that he became interested in the bicentennial because he realized that in this period of social and economic upheaval "we must go back for guidance to the principles of George Washington.

Oldest Mother Plan Given Up.

Dr. Havenner announced that the plan to bring the oldest mother in the United States to Washington on Mother's Day of next year has been abandoned because of the fear that the trip to the Capital might prove harmful to her.

A. K. Shipe, chairman of the community affairs committee, who presided at the meeting, and speaking on behalf of George W. Offutt, president of the Board of Trade, pledged the full support of the organization to the bicentennial work.

New Justice Felicitated.

A resolution was adopted felicitating Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue on his appointment to the District Supreme Court bench. Justice O'Donoghue, it was pointed out, is a native of Georgetown and has lived in the community throughout his life.

Plans for increasing the membership of the association were discussed, and it was agreed that every new resident of the neighborhood, as well as all the old-timers who are not already members, are to be seen and talked to by members of the organization to the end that every eligible resident of Georgetown may realize the advantages of membership in the organization.

When it was announced that because of present conditions it would be impossible for the new Georgetown Boys Club to receive aid from the Community Chest this year, President Bowles called upon all members to render all possible aid, financial or otherwise, to the club so that the undertaking will not have to be abandoned just as it is becoming a power in proper development of the lives of Georgetown boys.

High Court Upheld In Bankruptcy Case

Martin Zimmerman Loses Appeal After Petition Is Dismissed.

The court of appeals held yesterday that the District Supreme Court had acted in accordance with the law when it dismissed the petition of Martin D. Zimmerman to be adjudged an involuntary bankrupt in August, 1929, because Zimmerman did "not provide or deposit indemnity" to cover expenses to be incurred by the referee in bankruptcy in handling the case.

The court record shows, the appellate court said, that Zimmerman twice was called upon to pay these preliminary costs, and that upon his second failure to comply with the request, the matter was called to the attention of the District Supreme Court and Zimmerman's petition was dismissed.

Later he applied for reinstatement and the supreme court refused to acquiesce. The appeals court said that by refusing to pay the costs of advertising, a bankrupt might postpone the holding of a creditors' meeting until the time limitation for filing proofs of claims had expired, thereby defeating legitimate claims.

Data Show 'Jane' Kin of Washington

Representative Sol Bloom and his Bicentennial Commission have been "scooped" on at least one fact about George Washington, according to a revelation made by Dr. John Baer Stoudt, of Allentown, Pa., historian of the Federation of Huguenot Societies of America, before the National Genealogical Society last night.

Washington's first maternal ancestor in this country, according to Dr. Stoudt, was one of five girls who came over in the Seaflower, in 1621, in answer to the request of lonely Virginia planters for feminine companionship. She was married twice, first to Lieut. Edward Berkley, known also as Bartley, and after his death to Nicholas Martiau.

Martiau, Dr. Stoudt told the genealogists, was a French Huguenot refugee, having fled to this country after escaping to England. Jane and Nicholas had a daughter named Elizabeth, who married George Reade. The daughter of the latter couple married Augustine Warner and their daughter married Lawrence Washington. The latter were the grandparents of George Washington.

Martiau led the first rebellion in this country against the British policy of government, and his "indignation meeting" was held at Yorktown, where Washington brought to a conclusion the final insurrection against the British, Dr. Stoudt related.

Dr. Stoudt said that nothing is known about Washington's great-grandmother, Jane, except that she was just "plain Jane." Dr. Stoudt's discovery of "Jane" is the result of lengthy research and he intends to pursue his investigation in an effort to find out more about her, he said. He announced that he will turn his information over to the Bicentennial Commission as a contribution to the mass of information that is being accumulated about the first President.

Man Falls to Alley From Third Floor

Porch Railing Believed to Have Broken Under Victim's Weight.

Losing his balance and plunging from a third-floor porch to an alley in the rear of his home, 1824 Fifteenth street northwest, last night, Walter D. Feely, 45 years old, was taken to Walter Reed Hospital in an undetermined condition.

He was found lying unconscious in the alley by passersby and removed to the hospital by fire rescue squad. Police expressed the theory that Feely was sitting on a railing of the porch, when it suddenly gave way beneath his weight. In attempting to regain his feet, they said, he lost his balance and hurtled three stories to the ground below.

At a late hour last night physicians at Walter Reed Hospital were unable to determine the extent of his injuries.

Raid on Barbecue Stand Brings Manager's Arrest

A charge of illegal possession was placed against Frank McClelland Baker, 42 years old, of 724 Varnum street northwest, yesterday when Sergt. N. O. Holmes' headquarters vice squad raided a barbecue stand of which Baker is allegedly manager at 2108 Fourteenth street northwest and confiscated 44 pints of whisky.

Albert Joseph Dintino, 20 years old, of 135 C street northeast, was charged with illegal possession yesterday when the same squad raided the above address and confiscated 82 pints of whisky.

Suspect Arrested In Store Robbery

Seventh Street Market Entered and $10 Taken From Register.

Charles Posner, of 415 Irving street northwest, reported to police yesterday that his meat store at 1420 Seventh street northwest was entered by some one forcing a hole through the cellar door and then removing the iron bar holding the door, between midnight Sunday and yesterday morning.

Ten dollars in change was stolen from the cash register and an iron safe was removed to the cellar. An unsuccessful attempt was made to open it by breaking off the combination dial.

Green Wilkes, colored, of 936 N street northwest, was arrested as a suspect in the robbery when Policeman F. W. Sager, of the Second Precinct, saw him carrying a brace and bit through the streets. It was said that the bit fitted the hole bored in the cellar door. He is being held on an investigation charge.

Colored School Brigade To Be Reviewed Today

A review and presentation of commissions to the officers of the Ninth Brigade, colored high school cadets, will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Maj. James E. Walker Memorial Stadium adjoining Dunbar High School.

The brigade will be reviewed and the commissions presented by Maj. Gen. Anton Stephan.

GLASSFORD FAVORS ENFORCING TRAFFIC REGULATIONS FULLY

Capital's Chief of Police to Apply Laws Vigorously, Committee Hears.

DIRECTOR IS ASSURED OF HIS COOPERATION

Van Duzer Tells of Surveys Being Made by Lights; Markers Indorsed.

Strict enforcement of the District's traffic regulations last night was pledged by Maj. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of Washington police, in his maiden address before the Traffic Advisory Council, meeting in the Mills Building.

Gen. Glassford believes in enforcement of existing regulations, he said. He told Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer, who also attended the meeting, he could count on his teamwork.

A committee of the council, headed by Charles C. Collins, now is engaged in wholesale revision of traffic ordinances. The committee's report is taking shape and soon will be ready for consideration by the council and the District Commissioners, Mr. Collins announced last night.

Light Surveys Under Way.

Mr. Van Duzer told the council of surveys now in progress, directed at eliminating traffic lights found not necessary. Counts are being made at various points with a view to removing lights at some points and installing them at others, he said.

Selden Ely, representing pedestrians, asked that surveys be made at New Jersey avenue and O street, New Jersey avenue and P street and Sherman avenue and Harvard street, that steps might be taken to protect the lives of school children placed in hazard by heavy traffic at those points.

Road Markers Favored.

A proposal by Edwin S. Hege that markers designating the District-Maryland line be placed on all highways leading into Washington as a guide to tourists was indorsed by the council.

Proposals to extend streets through Logan and Thomas circles as a traffic aid will be discussed with the Commissioners before the council commits itself in the matter, Chairman George W. Offutt said, following the meeting.

Judge Denounces Nippon Militarism

Linebarger Charges Japan Backwardly Follows Kaiser's Policy.

"China is progressing because with progressive America it looks to a future of peace: Japan is backward because it still follows the 'might is right' policy of the kaiser school of armed force," declared Judge Paul Linebarger, legal adviser of the National government of China speaking to the Inquirendo Club last night on the subject, "Progressive China."

Judge Linebarger continued, saying, "A dream of world control is stronger in Japan today than it ever was in the Germany of old. He stated that there are at the present time only "two forces powerful enough to break Japan from this beautiful dream of imposing its civilization upon the weaker peoples."

The first he described as reform in Japan itself, which he said at the present time is impossible, and the second, "is the mighty and just force of Uncle Sam who some day will say to Japan, 'Americans are tired of paying for World Wars. Leave China alone in peace! This eventually will stop the new world war."

Stolen-Fur Racket Hit By Warning of Bureau

The old fake stolen-fur racket has made its appearance again in Washington, according to a warning which was issued yesterday by the Better Business Bureau.

Truck drivers, the bureau says, are attempting to peddle the furs by making buyers feel that they are getting unusual values in stolen or smuggled furs, whereas in reality the furs are valueless imitations and were not even stolen.

Rum Running Charged To Police Captain's Son

Lindsey Stott, 27 years old, a former prohibition agent, was arrested last night by Sergt. A. J. Bullock, of the Second Inspection District Headquarters, on a charge of transportation of 24 half gallons of liquor.

He was taken into custody by Sergt. Bullock at Twenty-ninth street and Dumbarton avenue northwest. He gave his address as 1631 Euclid street northwest and his occupation as a salesman. He was released in $1,500 bond. He is a son of Capt. William G. Stott, of the Police Department.

Denishawn School Dancers Perform

Marion Chace and Lester Shafer Appear at Wardman Park.

A dance recital was given at the Wardman Park Theater last night by Marion Chace and Lester Shafer, of the Denishawn School of Dancing, before an audience of 200.

The dancers were accompanied by George Cornwell at the piano. He played several selections of his own composition, giving a brief interpretation of each piece.

Mr. Shafer gave an excellent interpretation of the burial alive of Sinbad when his wife died in a foreign country in a dance called "The Song of Sinbad." Miss Chace appeared in effective Oriental dances.

THOMAS CIRCLE and the territory extending southwest to the Potomac River, as seen by an airman flying west over the city.

Thomas circle is shown on the right, with the statue of Maj. Gen. William H. Thomas in the center. The white towered building facing it on the right is the new National City Christian Church.

RHEEM BANKRUPTCY HEARING UNDER WAY

Personal Bank Records and Other Papers Produced; Defendant Present.

After continuances of more than a week, the hearing on the petition of a group of persons to have Edmund D. Rheem, former head of the bankrupt Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Co., adjudged an involuntary bankrupt, got under way yesterday before Justice F. D. Letts, sitting in Bankruptcy Court.

Attorneys E. Hilton Jackson and William E. Richardson, representing creditors of the Rheem firm, placed several witnesses on the stand. Henry P. Blair, one of the trustees of the bankrupt firm, and employes of the trustees, were called upon to produce Rheem's personal bank records and other papers.

The attempt to have Rheem adjudged a personal bankrupt is being fought by Attorney Leon Tobriner. The attorney is attempting to show that alleged preferential payments, which would constitute an act of bankruptcy, were paid not from Rheem's personal funds, but from checks of the firm he represented, and which were rightfully debts of the firm.

A check for $1,060, made payable to the Security Commercial and Savings Bank, and noted in the bank's record as having been paid by a personal check of Rheem, was shown to have been paid by a check of the mortgage firm when Tobriner exhibited the canceled check.

Rheem was present the entire day in court. The hearing will go on today.

High School Pupils Give Food for Poor

Student Body of Business Brings Donations in Two Sections.

The second half of the student body of Business High School will march to the stage of the school auditorium this morning with baskets of fruit, vegetables and other edibles as gifts to the poor on Thanksgiving Day.

The first half donated their baskets yesterday morning. The limited size of the stage and auditorium made it necessary for Allan Davis, principal of the school, to call a second session so that the rest of the students can deposit their gifts.

The idea of the students contributing the Thanskgiving baskets was conceived by Elizabeth Jett, leader of the senior class. The food will be collected by the Salvation Army and distributed for Thanksgiving.

Woman Asks $10,000 As Result of Crash

A suit for $10,000 damages was instituted in District Supreme Court yesterday by Margaret W. Day, of 2813 Fifteenth street northwest, who named Alvin B. Barber, an official in the United States Chamber of Commerce, as defendant.

The complaint recites that the Barber car was being driven by Caesar Barber, a son, when it collided with an automobile in which she was riding at Fifteent and N streets northwest, September 16, 1930. Attorneys McCullough and Luckett filed the suit.

BRIDE BUSY MAPPING BILLS FOR CONGRESS

Will Submit His Proposals to District Commissioners During Week.

Corporation Counsel William W. Bride will submit to the District Commissioners this week his proposals for legislation to be submitted to Congress during the approaching session. For several days he has held daily conferences with his assistants on the legislation, and he now expects to be ready to report at the Friday meeting of the Commissioners.

Among the bills being drafted is a vagrancy statute. Acting on requests from the Metropolitan Police Department, the Commissioners several times previously have tried to get such a law passed, but without success. This year Mr. Bride contends he has an air-tight bill which he believes will meet with favor.

William A. Roberts, special assistant corporation counsel, has been working for several weeks on a proposal for a new public utility act to replace the present organic law. Acts of numerous States and several foreign countries are being combed to find regulations which may be included in the District law.

The public utility act is admittedly full of holes, and its inadequacies have frequently caused the Public Utilities Commission embarrassment in its efforts to control certain utilities.

A measure designed to abolish the unrestricted sale of firearms also has been drafted and will be introduced in Congress.

K. of C. to Get Turkeys.

Many turkeys, baskets of groceries, and other seasonal delicacies will be distributed among members of Washington Council, Knights of Columbus, at a Thanksgiving party to be held tonight at the council's home, 918 Tenth street northwest. Val Iseman, lecturer, will be host.

SCHOOL REPAIR JOBS WILL BE EXPEDITED

Officials of Board and Shop to Meet Weekly to Outline Pending Work.

Weekly conferences will be held henceforth between school officials and officials of the District Engineer Department so that there can be no further misunderstandings regarding the operation and schedule of the District Repair Shop, Maj. H. L. Robb, Assistant Engineer Commissioner, announced yesterday.

Every Saturday Maj. Robb will outline the shop's next weekly program with the advice of Jere J. Crane, business manager of the District schools; S. B. Walsh, assistant municipal architect; L. C. Wormington, engineer in charge of the repair shop, and K. B. Schilling, assistant to Maj. Robb.

"We have assured Mr. Crane that this office is eager to cooperate with the school officials in pushing through school jobs as rapidly as possible," Maj. Robb said, "and I believe that we have now reached a basis of understanding."

A delegation from the Board of Education last week called on the District Commissioners and complained that the repair shop management was not cooperating with school officials. Maj. D. A. Davison, Acting Engineer Commissioner, afterward commented that it was a case of too many bosses and too much misunderstanding. Hereafter, he said, Maj. Robb will be solely responsible for the Engineer Department's duty, and he suggested that the Board of Education name a single person likewise to shoulder the responsibility for the school.

While the school officials complain that improvements at some of the schools have been needlessly delayed, District engineers contend that the repair shop has been asked to perform about twice as many jobs as it could with the money available.

Grocer Near Death After Shooting Self

Victim, 47, Is Found by Wife and Children, Gun in Hand.

After finding an excuse to send his wife from the house, Israel Hillerson, 47 years old, grocer at 301 H street northeast, attempted to take his life yesterday afternoon with a .38 caliber revolver, according to police. Hillerson was taken to Casualty Hospital with two bullet wounds under his heart. His condition is serious.

The man was found unconscious on the floor of the bathroom on the second floor of his combined residence and grocery when his wife, Ida, returned, accompanied by his daughter, Ada, 20 years old, and her son, Milford, 12. He held the pistol in his right hand.

Police said the man apparently tried to take his life because of despondency over business conditions.

Civil Service Announces Tests For Four Positions

The Civil Service Commission yesterday announced examinations to be held for four positions, closing dates for applications being December 22.

3 Evarts Street Houses Are Visited by Burglars

Thieves were active on Evarts street northeast over the week-end, according to reports given to police yesterday by three residents of that street.

Mrs. Louise Buchanan reported her house at 2614 Evarts street entered through a rear window and $5 in bills stolen. Mrs. Robert Loveridge said her home at 2616 Evarts street was entered through a rear window and ransacked but nothing was missing, and Earl S. Gallagher, of 2620 Evarts street reports his house also was entered through a rear window and money and articles valued at $56 stolen.

U. S. BOARD STUDIES OFFICE SPACE PLAN

Decision Is Postponed on Reallotment of Federal Building Rooms.

Adjustments in Government office space which will become necessary when the Department of Commerce moves into its new building was the subject yesterday of an extended meeting of the Public Buildings Commission.

Decisions were postponed, pending a detailed study of the problem which involves vacating of rooms in the Patent Office Building, the Land Office Building, the old Commerce Department Building at Nineteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue and the building near First and D streets northeast.

These changes will enable the Government to begin cutting down on expenditures for rented space, although several Federal agencies are in need of additional quarters, including War Department, Veterans' Administration, Tariff Commission, Department of Labor and General Accounting Office.

The commission, presided over by Senator Smoot, of Utah, is faced with the problem of alloting available space to the general advantage of the several Federal agencies. Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d reviewed for the commission the various housing needs.

Woman Seeks $25,000 Damages in Collision

A collison between two automobiles at the intersection of Thirteenth and Kennedy streets northwest in September, resulted in a $25,000 damage suit being filed in District Supreme Court yesterday by Varina A. Freeman, of 8241 Georgia avenue, a passenger in a taxicab which figured in the crash.

The suit alleges that the plaintiff was a passenger in a Diamond cab, driven by Douglas W. Winters, 1606 E street southeast, and that she was thrown through one of the cab windows by the impact.

Morin Addresses New Eagle Class

25 Initiated as First Lot in Drive for 10,000 Members.

John M. Morin, of the United States Employes' Compensation Commission, last night addressed a class of 25 initiates of Washington Aerie, No. 125, Fraternal Order of Eagles, outlining the principles of the organization.

The class was the first to join since the opening of the Conrad H. Mann silver anniversary drive for membership. Judge Robert E. Mattingly, of the Municipal Court, also addressed the members.

The Fraternal Order of Eagles, which plans to erect the most elaborate fraternal temple in the country in this city, is campaigning for 10,000 members. Mr. Mann, president of the Kansis City Chamber of Commerce, and a member of President Hoover's unemployment organization, is directing the drive from Washington.

NORTH CAPITOL CITIZENS ASK ZONES' RETENTION

District Jail Guard Commended for Refusing Lawyer's Bribe.

One citizens association went on record opposing the return of the meter system for taxicabs at a meeting last night, while another association, that has already voiced its disapproval of the system, was told by the president of a taxicab company that reestablishment of the meters would mean unemployment for more than 3,000 people.

The North Capitol Citizens Association adopted a resolution opposing a return of the meter system because, it was stated, of the hardship that it would impose on individual drivers who would have to pay the high price of a meter.

The Midcity Citizens Association, which has already gone on record strongly favoring retention of the present zone system, was told by Leon Brill, president of the Bell Cab Co., that 3,000 persons, including drivers and other employes, will be deprived of their means of livelihood if the meters are again put into operation.

Mid-City Resolutions.

Meters, he said, would reduce the number of taxicab pasengers 50 per cent. He admitted that certain adjustments could be made to improve the present zone system, including a slight adjustment in rates.

The Mid-City Association members were unanimous in the opinion that changes in Capitol Hill should not interfere with the trees. A resolution was adopted recommending that Capt. Hugh H. Groves, of the Second Precinct, be kept at that station. Harry S. Dean, a guard in the District Jail, was commended by the association for refusing a bribe from a lawyer and reporting the incident.

Kennedy Named President.

Will P. Kennedy, Washington newspaperman, was elected president of the North Capitol Citizens Association, succeeding Henry Gilligan, who has served since 1925. Other officers elected are: B. J. McGuirl, first vice president; Mrs. Ada Payne, second vice president; Jesse W. Morgan, secretary-treasurer; Charles J. MacMurray, financial secretary.

William G. Henderson and Seldon M. Ely were reelected delegates to the Federation of Citizens Associations.

The following were elected members of the executive committee of the association: Mrs. F. L. Bach, F. R. Steffen, James O'Connell, H. K. Murphy, Guy W. Numbers and Ernest Ruebsam.
